3 IN SPOTLIGHT IN G. O. P. FIGHT FOR NOMINATION

Landon, Borah, and Knox in Race.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The fight for the Republican nomination for President is crystalizing as a contest of this trio of aspirants:

Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas.
Senator William E. Borah of Idaho.
Frank Knox of Illinois.

In the offing are Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, who is expected to have the support of the Iowa delegation and of scattering delegates elsewhere, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who is maintaining a strictly "dark horse" position but will have the Michigan delegation behind him if he gets into the race.

Borah Vs. Knox.

It looks as if a battle between Senator Borah and Mr. Knox is going to be the outstanding feature of the midwestern presidential primaries.

Following Senator Borah's announcement yesterday that he will enter the Ohio primary as an avowed contender for the nomination, former Lieut. Gov. Clarence Brown predicted that Mr. Knox also will bid for the support of the delegation from that state. Mr. Knox will speak at Cincinnati tomorrow, and afterward will discuss his plans with Mr. Brown and other Ohio supporters. It is expected that an announcement of the Chicago publisher's intention to oppose Senator Borah in Ohio will follow.

According to Mr. Brown, a Knox organization of considerable proportions is already functioning in Ohio, and the Chicago candidate will not allow Senator Borah to win the state by default.

Landon's Ohio Plans Unknown.

Whether Gov. Landon harbors any thought of entering the Ohio primary is not known here. The impression gained by the Republican leaders who have returned from the Topeka meeting at which the governor delivered his keynote speech is that Mr. Landon intends to proceed along lines of least resistance, at least in those states east of the Mississippi.

Senator Borah is known to be considering an entry also into the Illinois primary, where again he would be pitted against Mr. Knox. If the two aspirants should try conclusions in both Ohio and Illinois, which will have a combined total of 109 delegates in the convention, the outcome is likely to have a profound bearing upon the ultimate chances of each for nomination.

At any rate the clash between Borah and Knox would furnish plenty of fireworks in the pre-convention contest. Both are forceful personalities and hard hitters. Borah is a liberal, Knox a conservative. Knox is an orthodox sound money man, while Borah advocates a managed currency and believes the gold standard is as dead as Julius Cæsar.

Speculate on Borah Tactics.

Presumably the Borah tactics will seek to identify Knox with Mr. Hoover, with whom the publisher was closely associated during the Hoover régime, and with the old guard leadship of the party, which the senator is fighting to unhorse. Borah accuses Hoover and the conservative eastern leaders of tolerating the exploitation of the people by monopolies, an exploitation that resulted in diminishing the purchasing power of the people to an extent that produced the depression.

The Idaho senator also charges the old guard with the manipulation of conventions in such manner as to deprive the rank and file of Republicans of a voice in the selection of candidates. He says that the old guard accomplished this manipulation through a multiplicity of "favorite son" candidates who do not represent a popular choice but are merely counters in the game.

For example, the regular leaders planned to send the Ohio delegation to the convention nominally supporting a favorite son, either Robert Taft, son of the late President and chief justice, or Congressman Chester Bolton of Ohio. Neither would be an actual contender for the nomination and would receive the delegation's vote only so long as the lead-

HOSTILE HOUSE HANDS HORNER DOUBLE DEFEAT

Pension and Relief Views Voted Down.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner sustained two crushing defeats today when the house overrode his veto of house bill No. 32, providing for administration of old age pensions, and then proceeded to defy his wishes by voting to appropriate 2½ million dollars from the state general revenue fund for relief.

The house had votes to spare in both instances. It overrode the veto by a vote of 123 to 10. It adopted the appropriation by a vote of 116 to 5. Then, for good measure, it shortened the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, voting 133 to 0 to terminate the IERC on May 1, ten months prior to the time the commission would expire automatically.

Vote to "Soak Chicago."

After the anti-Horner forces scored their victories the house members realigned on a sectional rather than a political basis and cracked down on Chicago. The new alignment adopted, by a vote of 81 to 40, the "soak Chicago" tax bills, proposed to compel Chicago property owners to pay 7 million dollars annually for relief in new taxes.

The bills have passed the senate, but must come back for concurrence in house amendments designed to eliminate the danger of double taxation on those persons owning city property in townships partially within the city. The tax proposed is 30 cents per $100 valuation.

After the farm bloc bills had been passed, it was discovered that in killing the IERC the house had, by indirection, eliminated the compulsory feature of the tax measures. A senate amendment is proposed to carry out the intent of the downstate representatives.

Horner's First Veto Defeat.

In the repassage of house bill No. 32 Gov. Horner experienced the first overruling of one of his vetoes in his three years in office. He had favored some relief plan other than to take the money requested by the IERC from the state general revenue fund.

Since the general fund appropriation had the support of Mayor Kelly, its passage was called a victory for the mayor over the Horner forces. Cook county also had been solidly for overriding the veto, so in both instances it was said that the mayor had shown much greater strength than the governor.

With its action on relief the house disposed of the state's current relief problems, so far as it presently is concerned. Both bills now go to the senate, and no further action is needed on the part of the lower chamber unless the senate amends either bill or the governor vetoes either if the senate passes them.

Sales Tax Funds to Counties.

First to be called of the relief bills were two sponsored by Representatives Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] and Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove]. They provide that after May 1 the state auditor would distribute to the counties the two millions raised monthly from the one-third of the sales tax diverted to relief.

Then Representative James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago] called his bill to appropriate 7½ millions for the IERC until May 1.

Little debate attended the passage of the three bills. They had been pending in the house for several weeks, and their sponsors had argued freely for them recently when other attempts to pass them had failed.

Senate to Take Up Veto.

No veto has been overridden in both branches of the Illinois general assembly within the memory of old timers in the legislature, but senate advocates of house bill No. 32 were hopeful that they could follow the lead of the lower chamber in the senate vote, scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Many of the governor's followers changed their votes when they saw opposition to the veto was to be triumphant, and some who had remained silent jumped on the band wagon. Cook county Democrats voted solidly to override, the Republicans joined them, and credit was given

Convict Flees in Guard's Car; Owner Jailed

VOTE INQUIRY

The Illinois senate voted yesterday for a legislative investigation of reports of favoritism and inefficiency in the Illinois penal system. (Story on page 6.)

Homer Talley, 39 years old, a guard at Stateville penitentiary, was held in the Will county jail at Joliet last night following the escape of John Floss, 44 year old convict, from the prison farm. Warden Joseph E. Ragen said a warant would be asked today charging Talley with aiding and abetting the escape of a prisoner or with conspiracy. Floss was seized by Albany Park police early today.

Talley reported the escape yesterday afternoon, declaring that Floss jumped into the guard's automobile and drove north on highway 66. Talley and Assistant Warden Browning Robinson drove to Chicago to hunt for the fugitive.

Asserts Guard Changes Story.

When they returned last night Talley was questioned and changed his story of the escape, Warden Ragen said.

A gasoline station attendant was found at 16th street and highway 66 in Joliet who told prison officers that Talley drove into his station at noon with a convict and bought nine gallons of gasoline.

Attendants at the filling station where Talley appeared after the escape said the guard drove in from the north with a flat tire. While the tire was being repaired, they said, he buried something in the snow. The object was dug up by guards tonight and was found to be a convict's cap.

Talley, whose home is at 4358 Wilcox street, Chicago, has been a guard at the prison since last June.

Fugitive Paroled Twice.

The escaped convict, Floss, who was serving a one year to life term, was sentenced in Chicago in 1929 for armed robbery.

In 1915 Floss was sentenced to 1 to 15 years in the Michigan state prison at Jackson for a robbery in Detroit. He was paroled in 1916. In 1917 he was acquitted of a murder charge in Chicago, but was returned to Jackson prison for violation of parole. He was paroled again in 1919, and in 1920 was sentenced to Joliet on another robbery charge. After serving time on that charge he returned to Chicago and was arrested in 1929 on the armed robbery charges.

DOG SEIZES PURSE SNATCHER BY PANTS; POLICE ARREST HIM

Mrs. Joseph McCauley, 7350 Phillips avenue, wife of the ward superintendent of the Seventh ward, was returning home last night when a man jumped out of the shadows in front of 7416 Phillips avenue and snatched her purse containing $15.

Campbell Humphrey, 7416 Phillips avenue, who was exercising his police dog, "Skippy," across the street, heard Mrs. McCauley scream and saw the thief run towards 75th street. Humphrey unleased his dog with a cry: "Go get him, Skippy."

Although the robber had a half block start, "Skippy" caught up with him at 75th street and Kingston avenue, took a firm grip on the seat of the bandit's pants, and hung on. Sergt. Howard Doyle and his squad, who were near by, heard the thief's yells and arrested him. The prisoner gave his name as George White, 39 years old, 53 West Van Buren street.

3 Gunmen Rob Ethel Shutta; Loss $12,000

Ethel Shutta, well known singer who is the wife of George Olsen, orchestra leader, was robbed of $8,500 in jewels and a mink coat valued at $3,500 last night by three gunmen who stopped her automobile at Superior and Dearborn streets.

Miss Shutta had just departed from her apartment in the Ambassador East hotel, State and Goethe streets, and was being driven to the College Inn at the Hotel Sherman, where she appears nightly with her husband's orchestra.

Three men, riding in a small sedan, pulled up alongside Miss Shutta's car, fired a shot at a rear fender, and then compelled the chauffeur, John Taylor, colored, to stop the car.

Threatened with Shotgun.

One man threatened Taylor with a revolver and another opened the rear door and sat down beside Miss Shutta. He held a sawed-off shotgun and warned the singer to cover her eyes.

Miss Shutta later told police her first fear was that the bandits meant to kidnap her. She obeyed their commands to remove an $8,000 diamond ring and a $500 sapphire ring. These she handed to the robbers with her fur coat and a handbag containing a black onyx watch.

The robbers then sped away in their car, leaving Miss Shutta coatless in the subzero cold. The chauffeur quickly drove the car to the Hotel Sherman, where Miss Shutta reported the holdup to police.

Fake Messenger Robs Home.

Miss Daisy Davis, 25 years old, was alone last night in the home of T. S. Dowst, 415 Aldine avenue, where she is employed as a maid, when a man wearing the uniform of a telegraph company messenger rang the door bell. She opened it and the "messenger" threatened her with a revolver, forcing his way in with two companions. The three ransacked the apartment, carrying away silverware, jewelry and other valuables. Miss Davis told police she was expecting a telegram from Mr. Dowst and his wife, who are returning today from Palm Beach.

Nazis Assail Jews for Death of Swiss Chief

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The government today directed to Switzerland a protest on the assassination yesterday at Davos of Wilhelm Gustloff, 41, leader of Nazis in Switzerland. The protest stressed that Berlin repeatedly has warned Switzerland of the "dangers of anti-Nazi agitation by the liberal and Marxist press leading to clashes."

[The slayer, David Frankfurter, 26, son of a rabbi and native of Jugo-Slavia, told police in Switzerland that he acted on no one's orders and was a member of no political group.]

Gustloff, who had built up a powerful organization, was glorified as a Nazi hero by the German press, which seized upon the fact that the assassin was a Jew to brand Jews as responsible "for the adoption of murder as a political weapon throughout the world."

Ban Jewish Meetings.

To reduce the danger of clashes between Jews and militant Nazis, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, prohibited all meetings of Jewish cultural associations until further notice. Prominent Nazis declared in private conversations that despite the efforts of the government "it probably will not be possible to prevent some individual actions against Jews."

The killing of Gustloff, whom Frankfurter held responsible for organizing part of the drive against Jewish refugees in Switzerland, spread gloom in all Jewish circles in Germany. Besides fearing local resentment, the Jews were afraid that Switzerland, which heretofore has proved a harbor for many refugees, will be less hospitable to them in the future.

The propaganda ministry instructed the German press to blame the "liberal and Marxist press of Switzerland for creating an atmosphere in Switzerland in which such a political murder is possible."

Extends Fight with Swiss.

Nazis have been waging a bitter fight with the Swiss papers for months, constantly complaining of their alleged "misrepresentation of conditions in Germany." The main Swiss newspapers have been prohibited in Germany, especially since the German public, distrustful of its own muddled press, bought Swiss papers wherever it could lay hands on them. Several of the most prominent Swiss correspondents were expelled.

Condolences from Hitler and leading Nazis which were sent to Gustloff's widow filled columns of the German press. Gustloff will be granted a state funeral in his home town, Schwerin. All Nazi groups throughout the world belonging to the Associations of Germans Living Abroad have been ordered to go into mourning for Gustloff.

Bernhard Rust, Prussian commissioner of culture and education, forbade gentile university students today to employ Jewish coaches, asserting it was "contrary to academic dignity."

Meant for Hitler.

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 5.—(AP)—David Frankfurter, Jewish medical student who yesterday killed Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi leader in Switzerland, today told police his five bullets should have struck Hitler, but that he did all he could by removing the man who "poisoned the atmosphere here." He said he killed Gustloff to avenge the Jews in Germany.

Frankfurter said he intended to commit suicide after the shooting, but lost his courage and surrendered.

ALL BUSINESSES AT STANDSTILL; RIOTING FEARED

Efforts to Mediate Walkout Fail.

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The first bloodshed of Pekin's general strike occurred tonight as Clarence Rupp, 36 years old, head of a cut-rate cab service employing nonunion drivers, was shot and critically wounded at the front doorstep of his home.

MAYOR SCHURMAN.

Rupp, whose cabs had been used to carry provisions through picket lines to workers at the American Distilling company plant, spent today in nearby Peoria. As he returned home tonight he was hailed by an unidentified man who stood behind a tree.

Rupp turned and the gunman fired several shots, one of which struck Rupp in the right chest. He was taken to the Pekin hospital.

Mob Rule in Saddle.

Authorities blamed the shooting on the general strike which for two days has kept mob rule in the saddle in this city of 18,000.

They said Rupp had been engaged in several disputes with union leaders, who sought to force him to hire union drivers and to raise his cab rates. One of his cabs was overturned and burned last week. Since early yesterday, however, Rupp had made no effort to operate his cabs.

The shooting increased the tension here and Martin Durkin, director of the state department of labor, said he "would not be surprised if National Guardsmen are here by dawn." Durkin has been representing Gov. Horner in efforts to arrange a truce in the strike.

Gen. Black Awaits Word.

At Springfield late tonight Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black was waiting for word from officers in command of troops stationed at Peoria, ready to go to Pekin if the governor declares martial law.

With all business activity paralyzed and an outbreak of rioting feared, civil officers today stood by powerless as repeated pleas to Gov. Horner for troops were unavailing. Union labor had made good its threat to paralyze the city and the streets were all but deserted.

Six hundred employés of the Corn Products Refining company plant voted tonight to join the general tieup at 10 p. m. tomorrow. These workers, with some 600 employed by the Fleischmann Yeast works, had been the only holdouts. Pickets today prevented the Fleischmann employés from entering their plant.

Truce Conference Fails.

Meanwhile, at Peoria conferences held in the hope of settling the strike over wages and hours at the American Distilling company plant, which was the prime cause of the general walkout, broke up in confusion. Adjournment of this parley brought a new ultimatum from the general strike committee of the Pekin Trades and Labor assembly.

Once more they demanded the ouster of Police Chief Harry Donahue. They declared that the general strike would not end until Donahue was out of office regardless of the outcome of the negotiations with the distillery company.

Donahue Monday won the enmity of the strikers by using tear gas against pickets at the distillery when two battles resulted in six arrests. The strikers feel that Donahue was overzealous. The home of one of his special deputies was bombed yesterday.

Durkin Rushes to Parley.

Durkin hurried here to confer with Mayor W. E. Schurman on the latest ultimatum from the strikers.

Donahue declared he was not intimidated by the demands for his ouster. He asserted:

"What this town needs is a vigilance committee of about a hundred good and tough citizens."

To add to the tension, came a statement from C. J. Ries, assistant manager at the Fleischmann plant.

"The unions can't walk out of this plant until they give the notice their contract calls for," he declared. "We are going to run this plant just as long as possible. If we can't get help to drive away the pickets, we're going to do it ourselves."

Seen as Riot Spark.

It was held by observers that should any such attempt be made it would almost certainly supply the spark that will force Gov. Horner to send National Guard troops here. Five companies are being held ready at Peoria.

Prescription counters in the drug stores were open tonight, but the soda fountains and tobacco cases were dark. Milk deliveries were made today and promised tomorrow to the sick and needy and to families with small children. The strike committee was allowing fuel deliveries under its supervision.

Light still burned in the empty streets and there was gas for family kitchens. Residents could make telephone calls but telegrams were out. Picket campfires burned at every beleaguered spot.

All Business Closed.

"Closed" read sign after sign up and down the streets. All shut down at 3 o'clock this afternoon after threats that if they didn't their windows would be smashed. As soon as the word went out—many stores put up signs, "Do Your Shopping Before Three"—crowds of residents, most of them in holiday mood, thronged the streets to lay in supplies to tide them over the period of stress.

Hundreds of automobiles came in from the nearby countryside until there was no more parking space. The town, for an hour or two, had the appearance of a county fair day. Citizens, laughing and taking their troubles in their stride, slipped and slid on the icy sidewalks with armloads of groceries in the 13 below zero cold.

Pinch Not Far Away.

There has been no pinch felt yet as the result of the tieup. How soon there may be a definite pinch remains a matter of conjecture tonight. Both sides appear adamant.

Threats were made that the city's water, gas, and electric supply would be shut off. Although many believed the strikers would not go to that extreme, a large detachment of Pekin police was guarding the water works, which are privately owned artesian wells.

Strikers picketed all roads leading into Pekin and stopped trucks bearing foodstuffs to the city. Private cars were not molested. Union leaders expressed their determination to halt all deliveries of food, milk, and coal.

Mayor Schurman assailed Illinois officials for not sending the troops here yesterday, when the first request was made several hours after the general strike went into effect at 8 a. m.

Will Ask Police Aid.

The mayor said if it is not possible to get the soldiers here, even when Sherif Ralph Goar of Tazewell county reports the situation beyond his control, he will have to ask the police departments of Peoria and Bloomington to send help.

Although no disorders occurred during the day, roving bands of strikers sped through the city threatening store and shop keepers to close by 3 o'clock this afternoon. The committees called on all groceries, butcher shops, bakeries, gasoline stations, and other business places found open.

Without waiting to hear the result of mediation conferences, more than 100 pickets surrounded the big plant of the Fleischmann works, a subsidiary of Standard Brands, Inc., and prevented the night shift from going to work.

Immediately after this display, Sherif Goar telephoned a second request to state officials for guard reinforcements. He admitted his meager band of officers was incapable of coping with the more than 2,000 men now on strike.

Durkin was still optimistic that the differences could be composed but he agreed the problem would not be settled immediately.

ELEVATOR STRIKE IN N. Y. AVERTED; WAGES RAISED

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Twenty thousand midtown building service employés won a blanket wage increase of at least $2 a week each today in an agreement which ended Gotham's latest threat of a building service strike.

The agreement was reached after a three hour conference at City Hall, with Mayor La Guardia taking the rôle of impartial chairman.

The terms of the agreement include a closed shop for members of the Building Service Employés Union, local 32B, and a three year contract, which may be subject to new negotiations after the second year if living costs should change in the city.

Watchmen will receive $5 weekly raises. Having won on wage demands, the union yielded on its plea for shorter hours.

Minimum wage rates were raised to $26, $24, and $22, depending on the size of the buildings. Superintendents will receive minimums $5 higher in each class of building.

The threatened strike of 105,000 dressmakers in the metropolitan area will be ordered Friday afternoon, it was indicated today, unless concessions are made to union demands for greater employer responsibility in the industry.

STRIKE GOES ON, BUT LONDON GETS MEAT SECRETLY

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—An unofficial report spread here tonight that the meat strike at the Smithfield Central market would end late Saturday with men returning to work between 11 p. m. and midnight.

Strikers, however, showed no signs of relenting and claimed all of the capital's dock, wharf, and cold storage workers will join with them unless Smithfield employers give in to their demands for increased wages and reduced hours. The employers declared in a statement they "cannot and will not yield" to the demands.

Convoys of trucks continued to carry meat supplies from cold storage depots set up secretly and hotels, restaurants, and housewives were still unaffected by the walkout. The trucks carried their cargoes to retailers at pre-arranged points in London's suburbs as heavy police guards stood ready to halt any attempt at interference with the deliveries.

PEKIN STRIKERS OFFERED RELIEF IF THEY NEED IT

IERC Will Carry Out Old Orders from U. S.

Relief will be given to strikers and to workers who are forced out of their jobs by the general strike at Pekin if they can prove their need for aid, Frank Z. Glick, associate executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, declared yesterday.

"The policy of the relief commission is stated in the language of a bulletin issued by the Federal Emergency Relief administration," Mr. Glick said. "Although the IERC no longer receives funds from the FERA, that policy has not been changed."

The Order from Washington.

The Washington order to state relief administrations said:

"The FERA is concerned with giving relief to the needy unemployed and their families. Each case applying for relief to the local relief agencies should be treated on its merits as a relief case wholly apart from any controversy in which the wage earner may be involved."

Mr. Glick said that any change in this policy would have to be made by the members of the relief commission, but he added that so far as he knows they are willing to abide by the present policy.

He admitted that in view of the present limited funds of the IERC, giving relief to Pekin strikers would reduce the amount of aid which could be extended to regular relief families.

Investigate the Situation.

District Representative Floyd Hawkins of the IERC went to Pekin last night with instructions to make a report on the situation there. At present there are only 1,005 relief cases in Tazewell county, of which Pekin is the county seat. The sum of $6,500 has been allocated to take care of these cases until Feb. 15.

For the ninth consecutive month the IERC reduced its staf in January, when it dropped a net total of 602 employés from its service. Although there were 676 dismissals and resignations, 74 persons were newly employed. This left 5,700 on the pay rolls on Jan. 31, compared with 10,133 last April.

302 Jobs Cut Off Downstate.

The largest January reductions were in the stafs of downstate relief organizations, which were cut by 302 workers. The Cook county administration reduced its force by 264 employés. Thirty-six employés were dismissed from the central administrative staf.

Also aiming at lower administrative costs, the Works Progress administration in Illinois has dismissed 325 out of approximately 2,000 employés. Officials admitted that some of them would probably have to go back on the relief rolls.

COLLINS ORDERS STAINS IN WELLS AUTO ANALYZED

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Desplaines street police yesterday ordered a chemical analysis of blood stains found last Wednesday in the automobile of Harry H. Wells, Monroe, Wis., trucking contractor. Wells was last seen Tuesday when he left for Chicago, supposedly to meet extortionists who, he told relatives, had been blackmailing him.

Two blood stains were found on Wells' hat on the floor of the car. Another stain was on the front seat and a fourth on the back of the rear seat. In addition to the theory that Wells may have been kidnaped and slain, police are considering a possibility that his disappearance was voluntary.

Since last summer, investigators learned, Wells had borrowed several sums, in one case ostensibly to pay blackmail. When he left Monroe he is believed to have been carrying at least $600 in a brief case.

GERMANY TO USE SHIPS IN ROW ON CORRIDOR TRAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Nazi officials announced today they will increase the number of ships plying between East Prussia and the rest of Germany to balance the curtailment of train service across Pomorze [the Polish corridor], which Poland will enforce tomorrow.

Poland's action is being taken in an effort to force Germany to pay its share of the corridor's railroad expenses. The Poles claim the Germans owe $12,000,000 for transit fees.

The Germans are trying to induce the Poles to accept partial payment in cash and additional payment in kind. Polish officials, who at first were willing to reach a compromise, suddenly dropped this attitude because of public statements by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and economic dictator of Germany, and because of the treatment of Polish minorities in Germany.

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

An unidentified woman was struck and fatally injured yesterday by an automobile as she tried to hurry across Michigan avenue at Ohio street.

Driver Is Woman.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Betty Hickman, 28 years old, 4108 Kenmore avenue, said that she was unable to avoid striking the woman, who dashed out into the street endeavoring to cross from the east side when the trafic lights were against her.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 100 persons had been killed in trafic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. During the same period last year 85 were killed and 1,509 were injured within the city limits of Chicago.

Life of Jewish Meat Monopoly Is Threatened by Polish Bill

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 5.—Sponsored by Mrs. Janina Prystor, a member of parliament, and wife of former Premier Alexander Prystor, president of the Polish senate, a bill has been introduced in parliament to abolish kosher methods of slaughtering animals in Poland.

Mrs. Prystor announced today that 100 of the 206 members of parliament had pledged themselves to vote for her bill, which is causing alarm in Jewish circles in Poland. The measure will come up for debate Friday.

The council of Polish rabbis immediately appointed a special committee to visit the ministers of interior, education and religion tomorrow, urgently petitioning that the bill be killed. Other protests will be made to Premier Marjan Zyndram-Koscialkowski and Vice Premier Eugene Kwiatkowski.

Creates Furore.

The bill, which would destroy the Jewish meat monopoly, more than four centuries old, created a furore in Poland. The destruction of all animals for human use, according to Jewish ritual, has been previously protested in parliament, but Jewish influence, according to Mrs. Prystor, prevented the introduction of more humane slaughtering measures.

She defended the measure also on economic grounds, charging that the rabbis officiating as butchers exact high fees from peasants and that this forces consumers of meat to pay higher prices.

Mrs. Prystor denied that her bill will deprive the Jews of kosher meat, since more humane methods have been developed abroad, she said, and rabbis still will be permitted to ritualize the animals destined for Jewish consumption.

Called Blow to Jewry.

The council of rabbis issued a statement declaring the bill a serious blow to Polish Jewry. They claimed that under the Polish constitution freedom of religious conscience is guaranteed and that therefore they will ask parliament to defeat the proposal. They said the already grave relations between Jews and Poles would become more serious if the bill is enacted.

The rabbis further protested that the thousands of Jews now engaged in the slaughter and handling of animals will lose employment if the government cancels this monopoly.

Polish students of the veterinary school of Warsaw university have endorsed Mrs. Prystor's bill.

Further clashes among Polish students were reported today in the Warsaw Polytechnicum, where Jewish students were beaten and expelled from classrooms for refusing to segregate themselves on separate benches.

Basement Boiler Blast Kills Home Caretaker

Clark Jahncke, 26 years old, caretaker at the summer home of E. M. Schnadig on Hawthorne lane, near Des Plaines, was killed last night when a boiler exploded in the basement. An iron fragment of the boiler struck him on the head. He had gone to the basement to learn what caused a deep rumbling. Police were unable to determine the cause of the explosion. Schnadig, who lives at the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive, is president of the Chicago Mail Order company.

WPA ORCHESTRA BOONDOGGLES A GOOD SYMPHONY

But Need for Bouncers Is Too Apparent.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Many months of planning and auditioning and rehersing came to a climax last night when the Federal Music Project Symphony orchestra, a WPA unit, gave its first concert. Some sixty-five men and women, under the direction of Max Bendix, played a program of ambitious character and dimentions in Austin's spacious town hall.

The orchestra deserves far better treatment than a portion of its audience accorded it. Groups of minors in the hall, so impressed by Wilde's brilliant crack about the duty of drowning bad music with good conversation that they completely overlooked the fact that the music was not bad nor the conversation good, gave the sorrowful Tschaikowsky Sixth symphony as grotesque an obbligato as a work of its character has ever had.

Bouncers Are Indicated.

Even before the symphony started, one little devil picked the finale of the "Meistersinger" prelude as the proper time to stand in the aile and discuss pressing matters in an ordinary conversational voice with two or three of his contemporaries. That and some of the things that followed suggest the idea that WPA might profitably use a portion of its cash to hire a corps of bouncers for future concerts.

The magnificent third movement of the symphony, although not of sufficient interest to hush all conversation, worked the younger section of the audience up to a frenzy of enthusiasm at its conclusion. This enthusiasm, unfortunately, found vent in cheers and shrill whistles which rendered inaudible for the moment the friendly applause of the adults in the hall.

Show Professional Finish.

This is no amateur orchestra. Its members represent a sifting from about five hundred applicants, most of them professional musicians out of work. Bendix has succeeded in welding his people into a fairly cohesive whole, and the orchestra is quite precise, accurate, and skilled in the handling of nuance.

The matter of tone, especially in the full orchestra, must still cause the director a great deal of anxiety, especially as most of the concerts will be played in hal[illegible]s unsuitable acoustically to this type of organization and with as limited stage room as the one of last night. Would this suggestion be of any value—to abandon the conventional arrangement of the sections of the orchestra and experiment with the matter of balance by bringing woodwind and brass farther forward?

The orchestra plays with verve and enthusiasm. Many of these musicians, competent though they are, have been deprived for years of the chance to make intimate contact with the works of the great composers. The opportunity to do so now, under as stimulating a man as Max Bendix, is an obvious spiritual tonic.

The New Deal leans definitly to the right as far as music is concerned. Besides Wagner and Tschaikowsky, the program listed the "Oriental" suite of Mr. Bendix and Chabrier's "Espana" rhapsody. Theodora Carroll, scheduled for two soprano solos with the orchestra, was unable to appear because of illness.

Joel Lay, regional director of the music project, spoke briefly at the beginning of the evening about the plans for the future.

Jewish Charities Push Drive to Support Boys' Clubs Here

The story of how 4,637 boys were given "pleasure, help, and encouragement" during 1935 is being made the basis of the 1936 membership campaign of the Young Men's Jewish Charities of Chicago, which is now under way.

The slogan, "pleasure, help, and encouragement to boys," is taken from the provisions governing the $100,000 gift to the charities in 1930 by the late Jacob Franks as a memorial to his son, Robert, the Loeb-Leopold slaying victim. This slogan harmonizes with the motto of the charities, adopted 29 years ago—"Give a boy a break."

Three Clubs and a Camp.

The charities now operate three boys' clubs and a camp for underprivileged boys: The American Boys' Commonwealth at 3415 13th place, the Deborah Boys' club at 2441 Division street, the Albany Park Boys' club at 4710 North Central Park avenue, and Camp Wooster, 40 miles from Chicago in the heart of the Fox lake region, where the underprivileged club member is welcome, be he Jew or Gentile, for a two weeks' summer outing.

Located in areas once high in juvenile delinquency, the clubs are open every day until 10 p. m. Once inside—and boys enter each club at the rate of 350 a day—they do whatever fancy wills.

A Glimpse at a Club.

This was quite evident in a tour of one of the clubs. In one room boys were singing lustily. In the library, dark heads were bent low over books and maps. Six games of ping-pong were going merrily along in the game room. In the gymnasium, 20 boys were going through setting-up exercises. In the workshop one boy was sandpapering a desk he had just made. Another was drawing a model house. A third was painting a cigaret stand. All were intensely and happily occupied.

"No matter what the boy wants to do, we want to encourage that interest," said Moses Levitan, ex-president of the charities.

CHANGE IN RAIL TIME TO BE SOLE ISSUE AT HEARING

I. C. C. Bars Discussion of Chicago's Decision.

The interstate commerce commission in Washington yesterday defined the issue in the question of including Chicago within the eastern standard time zone. It announced that testimony at a hearing on the matter in Chicago on Feb. 24 will be limited strictly to the question of changing the limits of railroad time zones.

The commission's announcement indicated that no testimony will be permitted which relates to the merits of the Chicago city council's action in adopting eastern standard time, effective March 1. In respect to the time adopted by Chicago the commission has no authority, it was explained.

Expect to Limit Witnesses.

The commission is concerned only with railroad time, the announcement made clear, and will not turn its hearing into a forum to debate the action of the Chicago city council. It requested interests to consolidate like testimony in one witness, indicating that the number of witnesses permitted to appear would be limited.

"Evidence in support of a change in the law [the act of congress approved March 19, 1918, under which the present time zones were established] such as modification of the number of zones, cannot be admitted," the commission said.

This statement was interpreted as a reference to contentions that the United States should have only three time zones. The commission will hear no arguments on that point.

"The hearing will be confined," the commission announced, to the question whether the limits of the United States eastern standard time zone should be moved westward to include Chicago, Ill., or any of the remainder of state of Illinois, or any portion or all of the states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, or Wisconsin."

Favorable Rulings in Past.

Chicago's petition to the commission to permit the railroads to follow the new time is not a new step, it has been pointed out. On several occasions the commission has acted favorably on similar requests.

In the case of Michigan, which will be reopened in the Feb. 24 hearing, the commission disapproved the change for railroads, chiefly because Chicago was the main division point of eastern railroads. With Chicago joining in the petition for eastern time, that obstacle has been overcome.

PRAISE IN GRAND RAPIDS

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Organized labor, which once successfully blocked Grand Rapids' attempt to change from central to eastern standard time, now approves the change and finds it completely satisfactory, Edward Kosten, president of the Grand Rapids Federation of Labor and a member of the board of education, said here today.

"We fought the adoption of the eastern time as hard as we could," Mr. Kosten said. "We believed it would put a hardship on workers and school children, but, after eastern time went into effect, those difficulties didn't materialize, and we got benefits instead. I'm sure that today labor itself would vote for eastern time—but you couldn't get the question up for a vote—no one here would think of suggesting that we should go back to central time."

Change First Defeated.

Grand Rapids, thriving furniture capital, fought a bitter battle over fast time. Harkening to labor, the city council first defeated such a plan. Then, a short time later, the council adopted an eastern time ordinance, as the Chicago city council has done. On April 7, 1932, the city approved the action of the council by a vote of 21,498 to 11,237.

Business interests in the furniture city are thoroughly in favor of eastern time, said A. T. McFayden, secretary of the association of commerce.

"It's great," he declared. "There have been no complaints, but praise galore. We are considering sending a representative to the interstate commerce commission hearing in Chicago on Feb. 24 to urge that the railroads be permitted to adopt eastern time. The farmers are satisfied with eastern time, labor likes it, and business is 100 per cent for it."

Industry Likes Change.

"The furniture industry likes eastern time because it benefits both people and business," said A. P. Johnson, education director of the Grand Rapids Furniture institute. "Men work and feel better under natural light. They have more time out of doors. In my own business we estimate that our lighting costs are down 7 per cent."

Said Mayor William Timmers, head of the James Bain company: "We like eastern time. It helps health and business. We hope that Chicago takes the same step."

In Lansing, the capital of Michigan, opinion was the same. "The people are completely sold on eastern time," said C. W. Otto, secretary of the Lansing Chamber of Commerce. "We are considering plans to send some one to Chicago to urge that the railroads be permitted to make the change. It has been a great thing here."

This view was echoed by Mayor Max Templeton of Lansing. "I don't think you can find any one here against eastern time," he said. "We're completely satisfied with the change after ten years' experience."

New York Jewelry House Robbed; Loot Is $10,000

TWO WPA MEN SENT TO PRISON FOR A ROBBERY

Confess Using Pay to Gamble and Drink.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Philip Caliendo, Joseph Amabile, and Paul Ascola, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary; Carmen Tano, contributing to delinquency of a minor, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge John C. Lewe.

Roosevelt Hands, attempted burglary, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary; Stanley Xarecki and John Lubeck, auto larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years; Edward Palmer, larceny, sentenced to 10 years, by Judge Denis J. Normoyle.

Two employés of the Federal Works Progress administration in Chicago were sentenced to terms of one year to life in the penitentiary for robbery by Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court yesterday. The testimony at the trial, which was conducted without a jury, disclosed that the two men spent their WPA money in gambling and drinking and in this way became involved in the robbery.

The men sentenced are Duncan Ferguson, 27 years old, and Elmer Hammerquist, 30 years old. Both live at 6329 Stewart avenue and both are married. Ferguson is the father of three children and Hammerquist is the father of two.

Convict Also Sentenced.

Sentenced with them, also to a term of one year to life, was Joseph Harker, alias Fred Kremel, 26 years old. He is an escaped convict from the Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City.

In the trial before Judge Burke, Ferguson and Hammerquist both took the witness stand. They testified that on Jan. 10 they left the WPA project on which they were working and went to a handbook near 69th street and Wentworth avenue.

There, they said, they began to buy drinks and bet on horse races. They met Harker and he introduced them to a man who gave his name as James McCauley. Shortly after this, they said, Donald C. White, 59 West 68th street, a railroad employé, walked into the place.

Robbery Plot Is Hatched.

White had just received his pay and he displayed a roll of bills. It was then, Ferguson and Hammerquist testified, that Harker and McCauley proposed that White be followed to his home and robbed. The WPA men were persuaded to accompany the robbery expedition, they said.

Ferguson and Hammerquist declared that they did not enter the White home but that Harker and McCauley went in—Harker carrying a shotgun—and took a total of $40 from White, his wife, and some guests. According to the testimony, White became enraged when Harker mistreated his wife, seized the gun and beat the holdup man. Harker was shot and captured by neighbors of the Whites, but McCauley escaped and has not been apprehended.

Leniency Plea Is Denied.

Attorney Joseph Nagle, representing Ferguson and Hammerquist, pleaded that both his clients were intoxicated and asked Judge Burke for leniency.

To this Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin replied: "These men were out drinking and gambling with the taxpayers' money. They deserve no sympathy."

Judge Burke then imposed the prison sentences.

Wounded Laundry Driver Dead; Relative Is Sought

Anthony Antonelli, 43 years old, a laundry wagon driver, died in Henrotin hospital late last night from the effects of two bullet wounds he received early Monday in the rear of the Goethe Shore apartments, 61 East Goethe street. A brother, Sully Antonelli, said the men had a dispute over a debt.

A REJECTED KIPLING POEM IS FEATURE OF MEMORIAL EXHIBIT

SONS OF THE SUBURBS.

BY RUDYARD KIPLING.

The sons of suburbs were carefully bred
And quite unaccustomed to strife,
For the lessons they learned and the books that they read
Had taught them the value of life.
From Erith to Ealing they cherished the feeling
That slaughter and battle were sin;
From Hendon to Tooting they didn't like shooting
And didn't intend to begin.

Chorus:

When the clergyman's daughter drinks nothing but water,
She's certain to finish on gin.

The tribes of the Teutons were otherwise trained
And broke into bloodshed from birth,
For their ministers preached and their masters maintained
They had only one duty on earth;
That all they were for was sanguineous war
And the rest didn't matter a damn.
But also intent upon culture they went
For the voters of Wanstead and Ham.

Chorus:

By reading the name on the tin of the same,
Won't give you the taste of jam.

The sons of the suburbs were firm but polite
And rose in their place with a gun
And a live bayonet to express their regret
At the action of Herman the Hun.
It likewise appears they flung bombs 'round his ears
Which caused a percentage of slain,
And, finding it sport, I regret to report
That they did it again and again.

Chorus:

If the aunt of the vicar has never touched liquor,
Look out when she finds the champagne.

The sons of the suburbs awoke to the fact
That killing had points of its own
At giving a spice their existence had lacked,
And they rarely left Herman alone.
They were young, it was true, and the business was new,
But youth is the key to all arts,
Which is why a beginner's so often a winner
At capturing trenches and hearts.

Chorus:

If the church warden's wife never danced in her life,
She will kick off your hat when she starts.

There are things in the breast of mankind that are best
In darkness and decency hid.
For you never can tell, when you've opened a hell,
How soon you can put back the lid.
Now Herman's annoyed with East Finchley and Croyd—
On Penge, Toddingham, Bromley, and Kew.
Though it isn't their fault they committed assault,
Because—but I'll leave it to you.

Chorus:

If you and your friend never go on a bend,
It's Bow Street and jail when you do.

Paroled Convict Admits Theft of $5,000 Clothing

Joseph Kareleich, alias Stecke, 35 years old, a paroled convict from Joliet penitentiary, was sentenced to one to ten years in prison yesterday when he pleaded guilty of grand larceny before Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. Last June 18 Kareleich entered the store of the F. S. Fashion Stores company, 10 North Genesee street, Waukegan, and carried off clothing valued at $5,000. He has served seven years in prison, two terms in Joliet and one term in an Indiana prison, all for burglary.

BRIEF BREATHING SPELL TODAY IN SUBZERO SIEGE

Chicago and surrounding communities last night shivered in the center of the widespread subzero wave which rolled on slowly eastward, shoving temperatures far below the zero mark. By midafternoon today, as the center of the cold mass passes on, the forecast indicated the mercury might rise to 5 or 10 degrees above zero.

But C. A. Donnel, chief meteorologist for the central west, predicted the brief respite would be the last for at least several days. Where the cold mass moving across the nation last night came from there is more air being chilled in arctic temperatures.

Zero Warmest in 24 Hours.

A temperature of 6 below at midnight last night ended a full day in which the mercury only once rose as high as zero—at 2 p. m. The 24 hour period began with a reading of 3 below at midnight Tuesday, and sank steadily throughout the early hours to the day's low of 13 below at 7 and 8 a. m. before turning upward. Mr. Donnel predicted 10 below for the city early today, and as much as 10 degrees lower than that in the northern and western suburbs.

The unofficial temperature at the airport at 3 a. m. today was 7 below zero.

Suburbs were colder at midnight last night than Chicago. Lake Forest registered 10 below, Waukegan 11 below, Fox Lake 13 below, Libertyville 14 below, and Mundelein 18 below. Mundelein was the coldest spot in Illinois yesterday with 25 below recorded in the early morning.

Threats of a coal shortage in the city were scouted yesterday by the Chicago Coal Merchants' association. The city has an adequate supply to handle any emergency, the association announced, even if the bitter cold is here for an indefinite stay.

Coal Supplies Dwindling.

Several communities downstate, however, reported their coal supplies diminishing. A serious condition threatened Quincy, Cuba, and Point Pleasant because of inadequate transportation.

Snowbound Iowa, where the mercury hit 32 below at Marshalltown yesterday, was confronted with an emergency situation. Gov. Clyde Herring called on all miners to disregard their thirty-five hour week contract and keep at work to prevent a serious shortage.

Highways radiating from Chicago were again passable last night, the Chicago Motor club announced, but driving is hazardous as far south as Indianapolis because of ice coated roads. Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan found most of their highways blocked by drifts.

Schools Forced to Close.

Many rural schools closed. Other communities were cut off from all communication. In the northwest trains were running as much as twenty-four hours late, or not at all in isolated sections. Bus schedules in that section were disrupted.

Every railroad in Chicago reported trains, even the crack flyers, running from half an hour to four hours late. The blizzard which began Tuesday continued raging through Michigan, blocking highways and railroads. It swept on eastward through Buffalo, causing eastern trains to lose several hours on their schedules.

Air lines operated on schedule throughout the United States yesterday with pilots reporting clear skies and unlimited visibility. Temperatures in the air were generally a few degrees warmer than those close to the ground, due to the "radiant cold" of snow upon the ground.

Floods in Dixie Checked.

Only one section of the country found the cold a boon. It froze surface water and stopped the floods which threatened Alabama and Georgia, where heavy rains took a toll of at least four dead.

Albert J. Horan, bailif of the Municipal court, announced yesterday that during the intense cold all eviction orders will be held up.

Employés of the water pipe extension department, with electric and steam thawing machines, are keeping almost even with the complaints of frozen water pipes, Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt said yesterday. Since Jan. 23 the department has received 2,778 complaints and cared for about 1,600.

GOV. MARLAND BACKS REPEAL FOR OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—E. W. Marland, governor of one of the eight remaining bone-dry states, threw his support to repeal tonight and bitterly denounced the bootlegger.

"The bootlegger has been getting all the revenue and should be put out of business," he said in favoring a proposed Oklahoma constitutional amendment for outright appeal.

Next-door-neighbor Kansas, North Dakota, and the southern states of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and Tennessee are the other dry commonwealths.

BUDDY TRIES OUT STORY HE HEARD; FINDS IT IS TRUE

Buddy Copenhaver, 12 years old, 365 East 116th street, pressed his tongue against a lamp post in front of 331 East 117th street last night to see how it would feel. His tongue stuck to the post. Half an hour later a passerby noticed his plight and notified the Kensington police. They notified the fire department. The fire department notified a physician, Dr. Stanislaus Nowak, 11803 South Michigan avenue, who finally effected the boy's release by pouring denatured alcohol over the tongue. Buddy was sent home, his tongue lacerated during his efforts to get free.

MICHIGAN AVE. BLOCKED BY FIRE; LIEUTENANT HURT

Fire Lieutenant Jack Thompson of engine company 104 suffered a fracture of a leg and two other firemen were overcome by smoke and cold while fighting a 4-11 alarm fire which attacked a two story building at 2015 and 2017 South Michigan avenue early today. Traffic on Michigan avenue was blocked for more than two hours as the firemen battled the flames in subzero temperatures. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Flames in the block long building were confined to rooms occupied by the Apex Generator and Armature company, Allen Sales and Specialty company, and the Miller Tire Sales company. In addition to the damage to the interior of the building, office equipment of the three concerns was destroyed.

An explosion of oil contributed to injuries suffered by Firemen Daniel Sullivan and Robert McGray of engine company No. 8, who were taken to St. Luke's hospital after being overcome. Both were revived and went back to duty. Lieut. Thompson's left leg was crushed when a heavy pipe fell on him. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Bandits Set Pants Afire When Victim Resists 'Em

Newark, N. J., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two irate holdup men set fire to Anthony O'Beirne's pants today when he resisted them. As O'Beirne grappled with one, the other emptied a bottle of liquid on his trousers and touched a match to them. The pants burst into flame, the holdup men fled, and O'Beirne shed his trousers in double quick time.

HOFFMAN'S AIMS IN LINDY ACTION A DEBATED POINT

Many See "Ace in Hole" Behind Reprieve.

This is the second story of a series on the Lindbergh kidnaping case, written after a two weeks' investigation in New York and New Jersey, with particular attention to the circumstances surrounding the reprieve of Bruno Richard Hauptmann on Jan. 16 by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, the black haired, energetic young Republican leader of New Jersey politics, who has ambitions leading toward the White House, or at least the vice presidency, is the key to the reopening of the Lindbergh kidnaping case on the eve of the ordered execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

What was in this man's mind in stopping this execution in the face of a determined opposition from courts, prosecution and police, overruling them all with an iron hand and casting definite doubts upon the fairness of famed "Jersey justice," is a question that is now troubling his opposition in New York, New Jersey, and Washington. The police agencies of these states and the department of justice at Washington had considered the case closed until this surprising action.

Keeps Opponents Guessing.

Gov. Hoffman himself gives only a partial answer to these questions and fears. Like his great friend and adviser in this affair, Detective Ellis Parker of Burlington county, who has solved many difficult murder cases in his time, the governor talks and at the same time conceals his real thoughts. He is like a card player who displays only part of his hand at a time and keeps his opponents guessing.

Would he dare, they ask, to step into a case like this without having an ace up his sleeve? At the meeting of the state board of pardons, to which Hauptmann's plea for clemency was submitted on Jan. 15 last, the governor faced the seven judges with a list of 231 questions and "doubts" in his hand. On the opposite side of the table the prosecutors of Hauptmann sat and answered each question that arose, until the seven judges became weary of the argument. They all voted to let Hauptmann die, as nothing new had been presented for their consideration. At the last minute the governor vetoed their decision by his power of reprieve, still advancing no new arguments for his action.

Own Aids Work Feverishly.

Is the governor gambling on something turning up before his reprieve expires? He has promised that there will be no more reprieves without the consent of Attorney General David T. Wilentz. The present reprieve expires on Feb. 15, and a resentence to death would bring the execution somewhere between March 16 and April 11. In the meantime the governor has ordered the New Jersey state police to recanvass their own work, and his private investigators, aided by the defense, are working feverishly to turn up something that would cast doubt upon the fairness of the verdict or on the evidence against Hauptmann.

In this situation the governor leans back in his chair in the old statehouse, smiles and talks pleasantly and casts out a few crumbs of information concerning the state of his mind. To assess that further one must have a little glimpse of the man and his career, which has been one of political courage and willingness to take a chance.

Believes in Own Luck.

He believes in his own luck and in his knowledge of the people of his state. He believes that they are behind him in this action. It may be significant that within the last week Gov. Hoffman has moved up from 13th to 9th place in the presidential poll being taken by the Ohio Federation of Republican Clubs. Coolidge sprang into national fame as a result of the Boston police strike. Why not Hoffman as a result of the Lindbergh case his friends ask.

The governor is a short and powerfully built man of immense endurance. He works while others take vacations. He is 40 years old, the youngest governor of his state since the days of Gen. George B. McClellan. His hair is sleek, his eyes a deep blue, his face heavy and strong, alight with vitality. He dresses carefully. On his desk are fresh flowers, little American flags, and elephants of various color and size.

Looks Like "Boss" Cartoon.

He wears a black frock coat, striped gray trousers, a wrist watch, two heavy gold rings, and a handkerchief in his breast pocket. He has a barrel like chest and a thick paunch, like the cartoons of a political boss. On the wall of his small office are pictures of the elder Roosevelt, one of his great heroes, and of himself in captain's uniform, and the Star-Spangled Banner in script.

There are law books there, but the governor is no lawyer. He quit high school in his home town of South Amboy to enlist as a soldier in the world war. He entered the officers' training school, graduating third in a class of 500 and was commissioned a second lieutenant. He went overseas, served in the Verdun and Meuse-Argonne engagements and during the latter battle was commissioned a captain.

After the war he returned to South Amboy, became treasurer of a trust company and entered politics.

Runs on a Hunch.

He ran for mayor on a hunch two days before election and won by having his name written in. He entered nine other campaigns afterwards and always won. He served in the state assembly and in congress and as motor vehicle commissioner of New Jersey, won wide recognition for new safety regulations that brought a sharp decline in automobile fatality rate. He has struck out sharply against the New Dealers and was one of the first of the Republicans to declare the NRA an invasion of rights under the constitution. He became governor in the 1934 Democratic landslide, winning by a narrow margin.

In his inaugural address on Jan. 14, 1935, the governor touched on crime as follows:

"New Jersey was once renowned for its sure and speedy justice. While it has maintained a better record than some of the other states, it is no longer a state where criminals are promptly apprehended, speedily tried, effectively punished."

Seen as War on Schwarzkopf.

This was taken in some quarters as a declaration of war on Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, who was proud of his record in solving crimes. He still is proud of this record, declaring that of the 11 homicides in New Jersey in the last year eight have been solved and the other three are on the way to being "cracked." Col. Schwarzkopf, a friend of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, had complete charge of the kidnaping case from the night of March 1, 1932, when the first alarm went out.

Col. Schwarzkopf has been subjected to much criticism for his handling of the earlier phases of this case, particularly the failure of his police to find the child's body within five miles of the Lindbergh home, the fruitless payment of the $50,000 ransom, the hoax perpetrated by John Hughes Curtis, and the fatal questioning of Violet Sharpe, the Lindberghs' maid.

Criticizes "Lone Wolf" Theory.

Gov. Hoffman criticizes the police and prosecutors for abandoning the theory first held about the case, that it was the work of several persons, and narrowing it down so ruthlessly to Hauptmann, discarding all evidence that did not bear out this thory and abandoning the search for possible accomplices. Political and newspaper pressure was so great, it is claimed, that the police were forced to this solution despite hundreds of "doubts."

"When I became governor-elect," said the governor, "the question was put up to me of reappointing Justice Thomas Trenchard. I aided the prosecution here, otherwise the trial would have been halted by the necessity of appointing another judge. I also helped the prosecution find funds for the investigation and trial.

Gets Letters by Thousands.

"Since the conviction of Hauptmann, however, and his sentence to death, I have received thousands of letters on this subject. I have talked with people on the street and have heard from my friends. I became convinced that the greatest doubt exists on the question whether Hauptmann was alone in this job. I have not been interested in Hauptmann personally. Probably he is not a man deserving of much sympathy. But so long as he lives there is a chance that he will aid in bringing others to justice. With his death that door is closed. I am convinced that the majority of people have a reasonable doubt about this and want to see the crime solved completely. Why make this a lone wolf case all at once?

"The evidence of Col. Lindbergh and of 'Jafsie' shows that there were others in this plot. How could it be possible for Betty Gow to find that thumbguard on the walk in front of the house a month after the kidnaping, in a place where hundreds had walked and searched? Curtis was convicted for having been in touch with the kidnapers. That conviction does not jibe with the Hauptmann conviction.

"Courts Wrong Once."

"It shows that the courts were wrong at least once. The $2,980 of ransom money turned in by J. J. Faulkner at the New York Federal Reserve bank indicates that some one else was in on this. Why was the search abandoned? 'Jafsie' has recently brought out a new woman angle in the case. Why was that not brought out before?"

The governor declares that publicity has little to do with his motives in reopening the case. He thinks that the rumors casting suspicion upon the members of the Lindbergh family and the servants should be definitly dispelled if possible in justice to the family and others involved. Many of these fantastic rumors still survive. Doubt has been raised as to the identification of the body as the Lindbergh baby and as to whether the baby was normal. He hopes by keeping Hauptmann alive to answer some of these questions.

Yardstick of Justice.

"The case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann," he says, "is one with which the dimensions of American justice will be measured by all Americans and by the world. Because of the unprecedented prominence given to the trial of this man, there have been thousands of rumors in circulation. Some of these rumors allege the existence of evidence not presented at the trial. All these must be set at rest, so far as it is humanly possible so to do.

"If the convicted man can produce no conclusive evidence calling for consideration of the existing verdict, his inability to do so should be made clear and definite. If he can produce such evidence, he should be given the opportunity. Justice owes this to itself. No person participating in this crime can be allowed to escape the full penalty. I question the truthfulness and mental competency of some of the chief witnesses for the state. I doubt that this crime could have been committed by any one man and I am worried about the eagerness of some of our law enforcement agencies to bring about the death of this one man so that the books may be closed in the thought that another great crime mystery has been successfully solved."

Tells Parker's Connection.

On March 11, 1932, the governor disclosed, George M. Hillman of Moorestown, a member of the Democratic state committee, wrote to the secretary of former Gov. A. Harry Moore, stating that Detective Ellis Parker might get some real information in the case and asking Gov. Moore to get in touch with Parker. Moore wrote to Parker asking him to work on the case.

Parker wrote to Col. Schwarzkopf asking for a photostat of the original ransom note, but this was refused. Parker then wrote to Moore asking his help. This letter remained unanswered.

Gov. Hoffman questions the motive in refusing Parker this evidence and at the same time making it available to Morris Rosner, who had underworld connections and who was called to Hopewell in the early days of the search and entrusted with many official secrets.

REPRIEVE OF BRUNO COSTS GOV. HOFFMAN PARTY LEADERSHIP

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's activities in behalf of Bruno Hauptmann, convicted kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby, has cost him the leadership of the Republican party in New Jersey.

Although using diplomatic language, the Republican state committee sheared the governor of all power in the party's management and left him dethroned in unprecedented manner.

Henceforth, said the statement issued by Chairman Henry W. Jeffers, with the committee's authorization, the committee "proposes to assume its rightful place of leadership and to exercise the authority vested in it by law."

Decision to take this step was reached at a special meeting of the committee. The move is generally accepted as a drastic effort to restore harmony shattered by the governor's fiscal policies, and his refusal to take counsel on appointments as well as his reprieve in the Hauptmann case.

MOTHER'S WRONG ANSWER IN COURT JAILS HER SON

Ralph Modica Jr., 19 years old, 1058 Columbia avenue, a senior at the Sullivan High school and the son of a loop insurance broker, was arrested on Jan. 28 for driving sixty-five miles an hour on Lake Shore drive between Sunnyside avenue and Junior terrace. Judge John Gutknecht called the case in Trafic court on Jan. 29 but continued it so Mrs. Frances Lee Modica, the boy's mother, might appear.

"Did you explain to your son how he had endangered life and limb by driving at that speed?" Judge Gutknecht asked her yesterday. She replied she had not.

"I was going to put him in your care," the court said, "but if that's all the interest you take in what he does I think I had better send him to jail." The judge imposed a sentence of one night in jail.

3 GUNMEN RAID UNION QUARTERS; STEAL RECORDS

State's attorney's police were investigating last night a raid made by three armed men on the offices of the Cleaners, Dyers, and Pressers' union, local 17742, at 1583 Ogden avenue. Ivor Fitzgerald, secretary-treasurer of the union, reported to Desplaines street police that the raiders forced him to open the office safe from which they took all union records, including the membership list. Fitzgerald said he had complained of trouble in the union's ranks to the state's attorney.

Officials of the emergency educational program, a works progress administration project, announced yesterday that new classes in voice, mental hygiene and art have been started at the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing, 64 East Lake street. Mrs. Francis P. Watson, instructor in the voice and mental hygiene classes, said the voice class will be held Tuesdays from 1 to 2:30 p. m. and Fridays from 6 to 7:30 p. m., and the mental hygiene class on Tuesdays from 6 to 7:30 p. m. and Fridays from 1 to 2:30 p. m. ## Race Relations Week Proclaimed by Mayor

A proclamation designating next week as race relations week was issued yesterday, signed by Mayor Kelly. "I believe whole heartedly that the promotion of better understanding among the different racial groups is essential to the prosperity, peace and tranquility of the cities of our state," said the mayor. "I urge that all citizens of the different racial groups participate and coöperate in the various ceremonies and celebrations held during race relations week.

5 NATIONS FIGHT RED MENACE IN DANUBE VALLEY

Launch Series of Raids to Check Communism.

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Southeastern European nations lashed out simultaneously against communism today with a series of raids, carried out amid warnings of a "new Red menace."

Hungary, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Austria all swung into the movement within the last 24 hours, while public sentiment was aroused against an increase of soviet Russian influence in the Danubian valley.

Hungarian police crushed an alleged communist organization which they charged was conceived by Bela Kun, Hungarian communist, whose leadership of the 1919 Hungarian régime was accompanied, Budapest police said, by the execution of more than 1,000 persons.

50 Seized in Bulgaria.

Bulgarian authorities were credited today with the arrest of 50 persons, and the courts there started trial of 14 gypsies, accused of disseminating communism among children.

Jugo-Slav and Rumanian police likewise made an extraordinary number of raids, while Austrian authorities pursued communists here with unusual vigor.

Informed political sources regarded some of the police activities as an attempt to counteract diplomatic efforts by Russia at Paris and elsewhere to increase its influence in the Danubian basin. Some sections of the Austrian press expressed belief that Russia sought to replace Italy, engaged in a military campaign in East Africa, as the dominant power of southeastern Europe.

Claims Czechs Bow to Reds.

The influential Vienna newspaper, Neueste Nachrichten, asserted Russia is moving westward into Europe persistently, and charged that the soviet nation is making its greatest progress through Czechoslovakia.

This newspaper said Russia, closely allied to Czechoslovakia, is negotiating to establish military airplane bases in Czechoslovakia near the Austrian and Hungarain borders, within easy striking distance of Vienna, Budapest and Berlin.

Red Trouble in South America.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Chilean and Paraguayan official statements, accusing communist agents of fomenting railway strike trouble in Chile and underground political activities in Paraguay, brought to five today the number of South American nations in which similar charges have been made in the last three months.

The Chilean and Paraguayan accusations against communists followed by less than three months the Brazilian extremist revolt in late November and the Uruguayan diplomatic rupture with soviet Russia, following Brazilian charges that the soviet Montevideo legation is involved in communist actions.

A further accusation was placed against communists after the attempted general strike in Buenos Aires Jan. 6 and 7 during which five persons were killed.

Paraguayan Officer Quits.

Col. Rafael Franco, Chaco war hero charged with communistic activities by the Paraguayan government, presented his resignation from the army today as requested by Gen. José Felix Estigarribia.

It was expected that he and Maj. Basiliano Caballero Irala will be expelled from Paraguay on a charge of having plotted against President Eusebio Ayala and Gen. Estigarribia.

60 Arrested in Chile.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 5.—(AP)—More than sixty men were arrested at three places today on charges of tearing up track in connection with a strike of railway workers on several Chilean state lines. A five year old girl was killed and two persons were injured when a small mechanical car was derailed at Chillan.

100,000 Anti-Red Mexicans Parade.

MONTERREY, Mexico, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A crowd estimated at 100,000 persons paraded the streets of Monterrey today in a huge demonstration against communism.

After commercial and industrial establishments had been closed for two days, residents of the city and delegations from the entire state of Nuevo Leon marched to the municipal palace with posters and banners attacking communist agitators.

Labor and capitalists united in their opposition here to what they termed "an open attempt by communists to establish a bolshevist dictatorship."

The leaders telegraphed "absolute support" to President Lazaro Cardenas.

BRITISH GENERAL JEERS "HUMANE" METHODS OF WAR

Defends Use of Poison Gas as Weapon.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The German admirality was within its rights in sinking the Lusitania as an act of war, William Henry Dudley Boyle, earl of Cork and Orrery and an admiral, declared today.

The earl said the Lusitania, whose sinking contributed to the American entrance into the world war, might conceivably have been used for the transport of 10,000 troops.

"If women and children choose to cruise about in war areas," he added, "they must expect what they get."

Hits Sentimentalism.

The admiral, who was with the Red sea patrol during the world war, was speaking after a lecture by Maj. Gen. Sir Henry Thuillier, colonel commandant of the royal engineers at the Royal United Service institution.

Describing many accepted views on inhumane methods of war as "false, foolish sentimentalism," Gen. Thuillier said that to mow down millions of conscripted young men with machine guns was no more humane than to drop bombs on their fathers and grandfathers, whose greed brought about the war.

The civilians who make munitions and provide the troops with food cannot expect to be immune, he asserted. It is no more inhumane to be killed by a submarine torpedo than by a shell from a battleship, the speaker maintained. It is no worse for a submarine to sink a ship and leave the crew to its fate than to bombard a town with artillery, or to cut off food supplies by a blockade.

Gas Called Most Humane.

Gas, the general said, is the most humane of weapons. He declared it was not gas but shell and rifle fire that filled hospitals with the maimed and paralyzed. He called Sargent's picture of men blinded by mustard gas a Ypres a "masterpiece of sloppy sentimentalism."

If the artist had painted some typical scenes familiar to the soldiers on the battlefield of men cruelly mutilated by shell fire, the picture would not have been accepted by the Royal academy, the speaker continued.

All war, he submitted, is "indescribably inhumane," and the only solution is to abolish it.

Probe Chemical Ring.

Meanwhile, an international chemical ring to supply lethal gases to belligerents in all parts of the world was the target at hearings of the royal commission on the private manufacture and trade in arms.

Sir Harry McGowan, chairman of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., denied that his company belonged to patriotic societies to promote wars and said that it made more profits out of peace than war.

Sir Philip Gibbs, author, charged that Imperial Chemical and du Pont interests had divided the South American business during the recent Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia. He also accused the company of selling lethal gas and other chemical products to both Japan and China for the Manchurian fighting of 1931.

Tries to Corner McGowan.

Gibbs said it seemed that by an arrangement between the Imperial Chemical Industries and the du Pont interests they were able to make profits by selling chemicals and explosives in any part of the world "under the present licensing system." He asked: "You do try to get the biggest orders possible from any part of the world, and these orders are likely to materialize in those parts most troubled by fear of war?"

McGowan replied in the affirmative, whereupon Sir Philip queried:

"You do not hesitate as good business men to promote these orders?"

"Emphatically yes, we do," McGowan retorted.

Pastor to Give His Bonus Cash for Church Welfare

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, pastor of the United Church of Hyde Park, who was a world war army chaplain, has announced that he will give the money he receives from his veteran's bonus to the church for welfare work. He said he disapproved the bonus payment, believing veterans should not be helped on a basis of need and not on the basis of a general payment which will include many who do not need the money. "The nation did more for me than my needs demanded," he said. "All that I ask is that the nation should leave me wholly free to do my best."

FOUR POLICEMEN AID DEFENSE IN LIGGETT TRIAL

Testify for Kid Cann Against Widow.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Four members of the Minneapolis police force appeared today as defense witnesses in the trial of Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld for Walter Liggett's murder. While their testimony scored heavily in favor of the former bootlegger, the possibility of a grand jury investigation of leaks that enabled Cann's attorney to obtain confidential police department reports of the Liggett murder investigation loomed near.

Earlier in the trial Defense Attorney Thomas McMeekin had requested the state to produce the reports of police who were first to arrive at the scene of the weekly newspaper publisher's murder Dec. 9, and twice had asked that the reports be introduced in evidence. Assistant Attorney General Frederic A. Pike met these requests with statements to the court that he thought McMeekin already had copies of the reports.

Believes Report Inadmissible.

When it became apparent in questioning today that the defense had the copies in question Pike introduced the original with the statement that "we are still of the opinion that this document is not admissible," and with the threat that investigation would be made of the manner in which the defense came into possession of the confidential reports.

The policemen—two detectives and two patrolmen—were put on the witness stand in the defense effort to discredit positive identification of Cann as the murderer by Liggett's widow.

Two of the four quoted Mrs. Liggett as saying immediately after the slaying, "It must have been Kid Cann or one of Olson's gang." A slight discrepancy appeared when the last to testify quoted the widow as saying, "It was Kid Cann and Olson's gang."

The name of Olson, Floyd B. Olson, Minnesota's Farmer-Labor governor, recurred frequently in the testimony as the defense battered at Mrs. Liggett's story.

Try to Burglarize Plant.

Another development today was an attempt to break into the plant of the Liggett newspaper, the Mid-West American, this morning. Police were called four times after midnight by the janitor of a neighboring building who told them he saw a "suspicious man" trying to gain entry. Later he saw a "suspicious" automobile drive around the block several times, parking in front of the newspaper office for long periods. Police found the place had not been entered and were unable to locate either the suspicious man or the automobile.

Cann, long a target of Liggett's attacks on alleged politico-criminal connivance in Minneapolis, was in almost jovial mood today as his attorney turned his heaviest guns loose on the defendant's identification as the machine gunner who killed the crusading publisher. His wife, who has sat at his rear in the first row of spectators since the trial began, was also obviously happier.

Calls Widow Hysterical.

The first of the policemen to testify was Patrolman Richard Miller. He declared that Liggett's widow was hysterical at the scene of the murder and screamed "Kid Cann murdered my husband; Kid Cann murdered my husband."

In addition to accusing Cann he said, she also was screaming, "Why doesn't somebody do something? Where are the police? Where are the doctors?"

Continuing under direct examination by McMeekin, Miller testified that shortly afterward in her apartment, Mrs. Liggett described the car in which the killer rode as a coupé. In testimony on the witness stand, she said it was a coach or sedan.

Miller was asked if he remarked to the widow, "Lady, this is a very broad statement you make—are you sure it was Kid Cann who shot your husband?"

"'Substantially,'" he said she answered.

Admits Hearing Conversation.

Under cross-examination by Frederic Pike, assistant attorney general, Miller was asked if he hadn't heard Mrs. Liggett telephone her mother and say: "Mother, they have gone and done it; they have murdered Walter."

Miller admitted hearing the conversation, adding that in response apparently to a question from the mother, Mrs. Liggett said, "Kid Cann, the Minneapolis hoodlum."

The second police witness, Patrolman Ralph Jacobson, testified that shortly after the shooting Mrs. Liggett said one of the occupants of the slayer's car was Meyer Shuldberg, a business associate of Kid Cann. In her own testimony on the witness stand, Mrs. Liggett swore she could not identify more than one occupant of the car, the slayer.

Describes Apartment Scene.

Detective Arthur Olson took the stand after Jacobson and described the scene and told about taking Mrs. Liggett to her apartment.

Mrs. Liggett was hysterical, Olson said, and when her son, Wallace, opened the door of the apartment, Olson said she exclaimed, "they just killed your father."

In the confusion Mrs. Liggett missed her daughter, Marda, who had been in the automobile when Liggett was shot, and Olson declared Mrs. Liggett cried, "O! my God, have they taken my daughter, too?"

Next came Detective Charles J. Wetherill, who had accompanied Olson to the scene. He added to the previous statements the testimony that Mrs. Liggett had mentioned the county attorney's office in reference to the murder and said "they wouldn't do anything about it anyway."

Called "Coupe or Coach."

He also declared the widow had first said the killers' car was a coupe and then later "that it might have been a coach."

All of the policemen testified that to the best of their recollection lights of the Liggett car were out when they arrived there. This was direct contradiction of Mrs. Liggett's testimony that the car lights had been left burning until she turned them out more than an hour after the murder.

Previous to calling the policemen, McMeekin called three witnesses to testify to the reputation for truth and veracity of Wesley Andersch, who identified Kid Cann as the killer.

Call Reputation "Bad."

All three, Dr. Alfred H. Probst, Mrs. Probst, both of Milwaukee, and Dr. A. M. Schmidler, Minneapolis dentist, testified Andersch's reputation for truthfulness was "bad." Dr. Probst, a dentist, also said he gave Andersch $1,865 in 1930. The reason for this payment was not divulged. Andersch, when he was on the stand, claimed to have received "less than $100" from Dr. Probst.

Mrs. Probst termed Andersch's reputation "anything but honest," but this response was stricken and her answer confined to one word, "bad."

She spoke in a very emphatic tone and when asked by the prosecution if she was sincere in that, she retorted, "I certainly am."

REVEALS GOV. OLSON NEAR IMPEACHMENT AT SPECIAL SESSION

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(AP)—State Representative Marius Waldal of Plummer, in a statement here tonight, said that only Gov. Floyd B. Olson's illness and the expense of a long investigation prevented a probe and possible impeachment proceedings against the chief executive during the recent special session of the legislature.

Waldal took exception to certain statements the governor made yesterday in answering charges of Mrs. Walter Liggett, widow of the murdered publisher of the Midwest American.

"I take exception to the governor's statement wherein he disclaims that Mr. Liggett was to appear before the legislature to present possible impeachment charges against Gov. Olson, and this for two reasons," said Waldal's statement.

"First, because the last issue of the Midwest American, prior to Mr. Liggett's assassination, gave these charges and stated that he was to appear to press them.

"Second, because it is a citizen's constitutional right to petition the legislature for an investigation. Even though the leaders of the legislature, as the governor states, 'scoffed' at the claims, they could not stop him from presenting his petition and pressing his charges."

2 DOCTORS FILE BONDS OF $250 IN HEWITT CASE

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two doctors charged with mayhem in the sterilization of Ann Cooper Hewitt surrendered today and were released immediately on bonds of $250 each, but there was no new word from the heiress' mother, jointly accused with the physicians.

Dr. Samuel G. Boyd, who performed the surgery in August, 1934, and Dr. Tilton E. Tillman, who assisted, appeared in answer to police signed complaints. Miss Hewitt's attorney would not allow complaints to be issued upon her signature.

Her mother, Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, revealed last night through her New Jersey attorney a desire to come here and disprove the criminal charges as well as those made against her in a $500,000 damage suit filed by Ann, alleging trickery in an estate plot. She is reported suffering from a nervous breakdown.

SUGGESTS YEAR'S DELAY IN ACTION ON NEUTRALITY

Consideration of a new United States neutrality law should be postponed a year so that it would not be affected by the confusion of a national election campaign, Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, told members of the Chicago Association of Commerce at their meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

"The wisest thing to do for the present," Mr. Utley said, "would be for congress to reenact our present temporary neutrality law, perhaps with some changes, for a new twelve month period. Then the entire neutrality issue could be fought out in the relative calm of 1937."

ITALIANS LAUNCH OFFENSIVE IN NEW ETHIOPIAN AREA

Claim Foe Routed, Arms and Grain Taken.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Feb. 5.—Particular importance is attributed to today's official war bulletin, which contains the news that Gen. Rudolfo Graziani has resumed active operations in the southern sector of the Somaliland front in Ethiopia.

This time he is fighting due north of Dolo up the Webbe Gestro valley and has already occupied the village of Lamma Shilindi, about fifty miles up the river from Dolo. He routed its garrison with a heavy loss and seized arms and large supplies of grain, the bulletin said. The Italians had been there before, having raided the town about two months ago against the vanguard of Ras Desta Demtu's army.

Gen. Graziani later withdrew to Bucurale, about thirty miles south, whence he started the advance announced today.

Aim of Present Move.

The present move is believed to have for its purpose protection of the right wing of the main Italian force, based on Neghelli, from possible attack by Ethiopians moving down the Webbe Gestro.

Today's bulletin also tells of fighting at Malca Guba on the Dawa Parma river. This relatively unimportant locality is in the region occupied more than a week ago by a column of Blackshirts under Gen. Agostini. The fact that this has since been the scene of heavy fighting is an admission that there are still Ethiopian forces capable of serious resistance in what is generally regarded as territory firmly held by the Italians.

Deny Ethiopian Claims.

A denial was issued in Rome today of the claims of sweeping Ethiopian victories sent out from Addis Ababa, particularly of the story that an Italian column near Neghelli had been defeated with a loss of 1,600 men, 16 tanks, 70 machine guns and 11 trucks.

Reports from Addis Ababa of a violent offensive against Italian positions at Makale are also termed fantastic. It is emphasized that most of the foreign newspaper men stationed in Eritrea are now visiting the Makale front, where they have been able to see for themselves that no important fighting is taking place.

A denial was also issued in Rome of stories of mutinies on ships in the Red sea among troops bound for East Africa.

Eye Oil Ban Developments.

In the political field Italian attention is still concentrated on developments in connection with the proposed oil embargo by the league of nations. Various signs indicate that the powers chiefly interested in this measure are coming to the conclusion that it would be a waste of effort, because it would prove ineffectual.

The danger still exists, however, that if the sanctionists abandon the oil embargo, they may pass on to the next measure in order of severity and start experimenting with a blockade of the Italian coast. This prospect is causing the greatest apprehension in Italy, because it is thought it must inevitably lead to a European war.

Husbands Complain; Police Catch 11 Women Gambling

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Complaints by a half dozen husbands who told police their wives failed to come home to prepare meals led to raids on two houses today and the arrest of 11 women on gambling charges. Police said the women were playing poker.

GETS CHURCH POST

GEORGE A. RANNEY.

George A. Ranney, 1260 Astor street, was elected a member of the standing committee of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago yesterday during the closing session of the 99th annual convention of the diocese at St. Chrysostom's church, 1424 North Dearborn parkway. Mr. Ranney has been junior warden of St. Chrysostom's church for many years. He will succeed Henry E. Mason of Highland Park, who retired from the committee at his own request. The standing committee is composed of three clergymen and three laymen and is the highest ranking ecclesiastical body in the diocese. When the diocese is without a bishop the standing committee becomes the ecclesiastical authority.

SEEK RED HAIRED WOMAN IN SERB KING'S SLAYING

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Well informed sources said today that Brazilian authorities here and in Rio de Janeiro are seeking a mysterious red haired woman believed involved in the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia at Marseilles.

The quest has been going on for about two months at the request of Jugo-Slav authorities, who said they had reason to believe the woman was living in this country under an assumed name.

Trial Begins in France.

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Trial of three Ustachi gunmen, charged with complicity in the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, started today in an atmosphere of legal decorum. Both prosecution and defense, anxious to avoid the confusion which broke up the first trial last November, devoted the first day to careful preliminaries.

LLOYD GEORGE URGES REVISION OF WAR SPOILS

Would Take Lands Away from Little Nations.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5. — David Lloyd George, Great Britain's war time prime minister and one of the architects of the Versailles treaty, warned the house of commons tonight that the world situation is bristling with war menace again, and advocated a redistribution of the colonial mandates granted under the treaty to small nations as a way to ward off trouble.

The veteran statesman, who, with Woodrow Wilson of the United States and Georges Clemenceau of France, was largely responsible for post war geographical boundary lines, said he took an alarmist view of the present international position.

His argument was that preparation for war was going on with "such wild frenzy all over the world" that the only way "to break the circles of death before it is too late" is to hold a conference of nations and reconsider the mandates of colonial territory.

Economic Parley Voted Down.

The debate, in which Lloyd George intervened, was begun by George Lansbury, former Labor leader. Lansbury introduced a motion calling on the government to summon a new conference to deal with the access to raw materials and markets of overpopulated nations in order to remove the incentive to armaments.

British statesmen at Geneva had gone on record as being willing to examine the possibility of extending greater access to raw materials and markets to other nations, but the house today, after a debate on the Lansbury motion, turned down the proposal as inexpedient at the present moment by a vote of 228 to 137.

During the debate Robert Bernays, a Liberal, warned the British dominions they had better let down their immigration bars.

"The juxtaposition of empty Australia and overcrowded Japan cannot endure," he said.

Lloyd George traced what was called the degeneration of international relations since the Locarno treaty had filled every one with hope in peace. World armaments have more than doubled, he said. He then painted a picture of Japan, Russia, Italy, and Germany spending every penny they can on armaments, thereby forcing all others to do the same.

Cites Need to Expand.

As a way out, therefore, Lloyd George demanded reconsideration of economic questions and the need of other nations to expand. Britain, France, and Belgium, he declared, got war gains out of proportion to those of Italy. He said he was not in favor of giving the British empire away, but that there could be no world peace until the mandates were reconsidered.

When he referred to the large colonial possessions of Belgium, Portugal, and Holland, and was adding that Germany and Italy had none, Sir Austen Chamberlain made this incisive interruption:

"They are not mandated territories."

Lloyd George then appealed that the British should consent to reconsider the mandates, asking all the other countries to put their cards on the table and state what they wanted.

BRITISH OFFICER HOPS ON ATTEMPT TO LOWER CAPE TOWN RECORD

LYMPNE, England, Feb. 6 [Thursday].—(AP)—Flying Officer Tommy Rose took off at 12:25 a. m. today in his second attempt within a month to lower the England-to-Cape Town record held by Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison. He was injured slightly Jan. 7 when his plane was forced down at Abbeville, France, in heavy weather, after he had left Lympne.

Mrs. Mollison, landing in Cape Town Nov. 18, 1932, after a trip from England of four days, six hours, 55 minutes, broke the record formerly held by her husband.

Rose, who first attempted to set an England-to-Cape Town record in 1931, crashed in Bechuanaland, South Africa, on that flight, nine days after his takeoff.

MAYWOOD WIFE HURT IN CRASH AWARDED $35,000

A jury before Judge William J. Wimbiscus of Spring Valley, sitting in the Circuit court here, awarded $35,000 personal injury damages yesterday to Mrs. Charlotte Hanes, 32 years old, 401 South 20th avenue, Maywood, against the Chicago and West Towns Railway company. Mrs. Hanes was taken into the courtroom on a stretcher. Her attorney, Guy C. Guerine, showed that last June vertebrae in her neck were fractured when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, Jack, was struck by a street car operated by the West Towns company at Madison and Circle avenues, Forest Park.

HORNER 'HONEST ELECTION' BOMB IS A BOOMERANG

Nash Applauds and His Aid Sponsors Two Bills.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—What Gov. Horner intended as a big political bombshell on the doorstep of the regular Democratic organization—his proposal for permanent registration legislation—was caught deftly today by P. A. Nash, head of that organization, and tossed swiftly back on the lawn of the executive mansion.

The governor stressed the subject of honest elections in his message which was read to the general assembly as it convened in its third special session. The Horner supporters smiled and the Republicans chuckled. But the first two bills to reach the speaker's desk came from Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski, organization spokesman, and they were to establish permanent registration throughout the state.

Organization Behind Bills.

Simultaneously, in Chicago, Mr. Nash, who is both chairman of the Cook county central committee and national committeeman for Illinois, authorized the announcement that the organization is squarely behind the bills. That was his answer to Gov. Horner.

At Springfield a little later Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican, who led the fight for permanent registration in the regular session last year, reintroduced his bills to establish permanent registration, but limiting its operation to election board cities. Including Chicago, there are nine such cities in the state.

Trickery, Republicans Cry.

The Republicans immediately repeated their last year's charges that the proposal for state-wide registration was merely a trick, that it would be defeated by votes from those sections of the state which now have no registration of any sort. The answer of the Democrats was that the Republicans, particularly those from Cook county, dare not oppose the state-wide proposal and that it is certain to pass.

Thus there may come a sudden windup to the battle on this subject which became dramatic last May. The Democrats, supposedly under Nash's instructions, kept the registration bills shelved in committee. The Republicans retaliated with a two weeks' filibuster.

Bitterness became extreme. Reform organizations, women's clubs, and other clean election forces protested in vain. Then came the biggest clash of all.

Bills Killed as Reprimand.

Nash, it is said now, was about to announce that he had no objections to the legislation when some Republicans presented a resolution assailing President Roosevelt for "lying." The Democrats caucused in anger, determined to slap the opposition hard, withdrew the registration bills from committee and slaughtered them.

The first proposal for a third special session which was made to Gov. Horner came from Democrats who urged him to attack Nash and the organization by opening the way for reviving the old fight and by attacking the expenditures of the Chicago Park district on grounds that they exceed the expenses of the old separate park systems before they were consolidated. His advisers proposed legislation to limit the outlay of the present system.

These two subjects were given chief prominence in the governor's message today, but included three other subjects—an agreed amendment to the workmen's compensation act, a bill to make the state law conform to the New Deal idea of gold securities, and new regulations for grain storage.

J. B. ELY LAUDS AL SMITH AND HITS ROBINSON

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Joseph B. Ely, who placed Alfred E. Smith in nomination for the presidency in 1932, declared tonight the "Brain Trusters . . . would destroy Smith's influence with the American people and besmirch his reputation to achieve their own wild purposes."

In an address billed as a discussion of "The Case of Robinson Against Smith," Ely, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts and a director of the American Liberty league before which Smith attacked President Roosevelt's New Deal, supported Smith and criticized Senator Joseph Robinson's reply to Smith.

"He is busier today in his charitable undertakings," Ely said of Smith, "than Senator Robinson in the passing of unconstitutional legislation."

Ely's speech was a prelude to his campaign to elect an unpledged Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Illinois Senate Votes Probe of Prison Favoritism Charges

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The senate voted today for a legislative investigation of reports of pampering, favoritism, and inefficiency if not corruption in the Illinois penal system.

This was in direct contrast with the stand taken yesterday by Speaker John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon] of the house that the members were prohibited by the state constitution from conducting business not included in the governor's calls for these concurrent special sessions.

The senate action also was an upset of Gov. Horner's plan to forestall such an inquiry by a group whose members would not be reluctant to unearth scandals embarrassing to the administration in this campaign year.

Senate Acts by Vote of 21 to 10.

On Monday Gov. Horner named an investigating commission that included only two members of the legislature, one a Democrat, Representative Thomas Sinnett of Rock Island, and the other the Republican senator, James J. Barbour of Evanston.

The senate vote, 21 to 10, was on adoption of a resolution introduced by James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville]. Members voting for the resolution declared they would like to know about the prison bank accounts of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, wealthy thrill slayers of Bobby Franks, and about the brokerage accounts of Midget Fernekes, bank robber and swindler now dead, for whom two doors were unlocked at the Joliet penitentiary last year to permit his escape.

Requires House Concurrence.

It was a joint resolution requiring concurrence of the house before its provisions, calling for the appointment of a committee of ten, can be effective. Speaker Devine indicated that this concurrence will be difficult. He said he will table this resolution as he did house resolutions presented yesterday, on the grounds that the investigation is not within the scope of the special sessions as limited by the governor's calls.

However, this does not mean the death of the proposals for a legislative investigation. Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], senatorial spokesman for Mayor Kelly, said that after the house has acted on the joint resolution he will introduce a measure calling for the upper chamber alone to conduct an inquiry.

"Legislators' Inherent Duty."

"Legislators," said Senator Monroe, "have an inherent duty as representatives of the public to investigate the public's affairs, and this duty cannot be abridged by a governor."

"Judge Caverly, when he sentenced Loeb and Leopold," Senator Ward continued, "said that the confinement was going to be a more severe punishment than death for these killers. Now it appears that these men were permitted to enjoy a perverted love nest. Let's find out if there has been a miscarriage of justice.

"We should also find out whether the administration has carried out recommendations for prison reforms made by legislative investigating committees of previous years."

Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield], minority floor leader, asserted that he considered of comparatively minor import the murder of an infamous character behind the walls of Stateville.

Stresses Civil Service Laws.

"But I consider it of major concern to this branch of the government that passes on appropriations," he continued, "to learn whether gross violations or evasions of the civil service laws have destroyed the efficiency of the prison employés."

Senator T. V. Smith [Dem., Chicago] joined with Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] in opposing passage of the resolution.

"With so much excitement over the death of Loeb and over the approaching elections," said Mr. Smith, who is a professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, "we're liable to get more heat than light on the subject from an inquiry at this time."

ers were negotiating a deal on the nomination.

Senator Borah in his announcement yesterday pointed out that under this plan of procedure the Republicans of Illinois would not be permitted the opportunity of choosing among the actual contenders for the nomination. By entering the primary he assured them the opportunity of choosing between him and the old guard. If Mr. Knox goes in the field of choice will be expanded. Former Postmaster General Walter Brown and the other regular leaders in the state also will be confronted with a choice between supporting Mr. Knox and proceeding with their plans for a favorite son representation.

In 1928 there was a somewhat similar situation. Senator Frank B. Willis was to be the Ohio favorite son. When it was learned that Willis had no intention of dropping out after the first ballot in the convention Mr. Hoover entered the primary. But before the primary was held Willis died. Mr. Hoover got the delegation.

CONTRACT LET FOR HEATING OF NAVY PIER HALL

The first actual step toward creating a convention hall on Navy pier was taken yesterday when Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt awarded a $56,480 contract for 60 gas heating units to Robert Gordon, Inc., 22 West Austin avenue, for the second floor level on the north side of the pier, embracing 150,000 square feet of space. The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company announced that 100 men, working on 24 hour shifts, today will start laying a 12 inch gas main from North La Salle street to the pier to supply the gas. The convention hall, which will be ready for use about March 1, was advocated by Mayor Kelly as an added means of attracting conventions to Chicago.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The government announced today the keel of a new 30,000 ton liner will be laid soon to replace the destroyed liner Atlantique in South American passenger service. Construction cost of the new boat is to be paid entirely from proceeds of insurance on the wrecked liner. The Atlantique, 40,000 ton floating palace, burned on a trial run in April, 1933.

HOSTILE HOUSE HANDS HORNER DOUBLE DEFEAT

Pension Veto and Relief Views Voted Down.

also to the plea of Speaker John P. Devine to speed payments of old age pensions.

House Bill No. 32 proposes the establishment of county welfare commissions to administer the old age pensions. Without it, or some other measure setting up administrative machinery, there can be no payments to destitute old people of $15 a month by the state—which sum the federal government proposes to match.

Fears Wrath of New Dealers.

As passed, the bill provides that members of the county welfare commissions are to be appointed by county judges. The governor took exception to this in his veto, declaring that unless the appointments were made by the state welfare department from nominations submitted by the county judges, there was danger that the federal social security board wouldn't approve and Illinois wouldn't get the federal matching money. He asked the legislature to enact his ideas.

"It is wrong to postpone action on this bill one minute longer because of technicalities," said Speaker Devine from the floor. "This house is deadlocked, and there won't be any old age pensions until after July 1 unless this bill becomes effective.

"This situation transcends politics and personalities. The governor doesn't enter into it nor does Mayor Kelly of Chicago. Old people's savings have been swept away, and they are waiting for this pension that has been promised them ever so long.

Urges Early Relief for Aged.

"My vote is in favor of early relief for those old people who can't help themselves. I vote aye, and in doing so vote the convictions of John Devine of Dixon, casting aside all technical arguments and personalities."

Before the speaker cast his vote, there had been numerous technical arguments to show that the governor was mistaken in his position. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic majority leader, who moved to override the veto, was the first to deride the governor's argument. Adamowski read the federal requirements and pointed out how house bill No. 32 met each demand.

"The governor doesn't know for sure that this bill won't be approved by the federal social security board," said Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago]. "If he had signed the bill, we would know in short order and in time to make any corrections that might be necessary.

17 States' Plans Approved.

But the morning papers carry a story from Washington that the federal board has approved plans of 17 states for administering the old age pension. A number of those states have plans similar to ours, and in some there is even more local home rule. This is indisputable evidence that the governor is wrong in saying that our bill endangers our chances of getting federal money."

"The governor says in his veto message that the counties won't be contributing a dollar," pointed out Reed F. Cutler [Rep., Lewistown]. "Where does he think money comes from? Does he think the sales tax isn't a local tax? Perhaps he has been saying too much to himself: 'I am the state.'"

"Politics" Charged by Sinnett.

The charge that politics was behind the veto upset was made by Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island]. Sinnett charged that the bill wouldn't have passed in its present form had not Mayor Kelly chosen Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, as the candidate of the Democratic state organization for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Devine's speech was regarded as a reply to the Sinnett statement.

By the same vote the house then concurred in senate amendments to house bill No. 8, which would give the Cook county bureau of public welfare the same duties and powers over old age pensions that are given to welfare commissions in the other 101 counties by house bill No. 32.

Governor Assails House Action.

Evidently in an attempt to influence the senate vote on the veto, the governor tonight issued a statement on the earlier house action.

"The members who voted for the overriding of the veto will have to answer to the old age beneficiaries of this state," the statement read in part.

The house and senate today concurred in a conference report on a bill appropriating 9 million dollars from state funds and an equal sum of federal money, if it is forthcoming, to pay old age pensions. The only step remaining to complete old age pension legislation is the senate overriding of the veto tomorrow.

The house has adjourned until Feb. 18 except for perfunctory sessions. The senate meets tomorrow on the veto and also to advance to third reading the Boyle 7½ million dollar appropriation for relief. In a one minute after midnight session Friday morning, the senate will vote on passage of that appropriation, and then also will adjourn until Feb. 18.

DUKE SMOTHERS HIS FEAR OF KIDNAPERS TO VISIT IN AMERICA

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Despite fear that their four year children might be kidnaped by American gangsters, the duke and duchess of Marlborough, holders of many of the oldest titles in the British peerage, brought their three young daughters and young son with them today on a visit to New York and Florida.

As he stood on the sun deck of the Majestic, coming up the bay, the duke professed the greatest misgivings about bandits and gunmen.

"I'm deucedly afraid of your terrible, gangs over here," he said, his slow Oxford accent strangely at odds with the worries he professed.

In the cabins of the royal suite with their governess sat Lady Sarah Spencer Churchill, Lady Caroline Churchill and Lady Rosemary Churchill, pleased with the prospect of spending a day in New York, with or without its gangs of kidnapers. The 12 year old Marquis of Blandford did not share his father's fears.

The duke and his family will go on to Palm Beach to visit his mother, the former Consuela Vanderbilt.

KNOX ASSAILS DOLE BRIBERY PRACTICED IN NAME OF HUMANITY

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, charged the Democratic national administration with "bribery practiced in the name of humanity" in a speech here tonight.

"Think of handing a man a relief dole, or a relief job, or a corn-hog check, and then demanding that he vote for you on the penalty of having the necessaries of life taken away from him," Knox told the Lincoln Club of Knox County.

The speaker, frequently mentioned as a probable candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, asserted "that is the most dastardly political performance ever pulled off in the history of the United States or any other country."

Knox urged the needy to take the money, but declared: "Don't sell your souls to the devil at the same time."

ARE WE MASTERS OR SERVANTS? IS DICKINSON ISSUE

Shall People Rule or Be Ruled? His Query.

Niles, O., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The issue which this country must settle next November is the age old question of whether the government is to be the master or the servant of the people, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa declared here tonight.

SEN. DICKINSON.

Speaking at the McKinley day celebration held in Niles, the birthplace of President William McKinley, the congressman drew comparison between the assassinated President's era and our own times.

"Then, as now, the nation stood in the shadow of a great depression," he said. "Then, as now, impatient of natural recuperative forces at work, there was the same search for political panaceas to meet problems which basically were economic in origin. Hard facts were disregarded as the politicians sought an easy way out of our national difficulties.

Disaster in Cheapened Coinage.

"Mr. Bryan proposed, as his magic formula of recovery, that the currency be cheapened by coining silver in a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. That did not differ materially from the present administration's monetary and silver policies, and the consequences were much the same.

"Both produced uncertainty over the dollar's value which paralyzed finance and industry. Unemployment grew. Without any RFC to tide over the deflationary period, failures among insurance companies, railroads, and banks became almost universal. Privation and want went hand in hand with despair.

"Such was the setting in which the campaign of 1896 took place. America stood then, as it stands now, at the crossroads. The choice lay between experiment and experience. That the nation chose experience and rejected experiment is history.

Confidence Revives Industry.

"What happened after McKinley's election? National confidence immediately was restored. With the currency made safe, the brakes set by fear were released and business responded to the cry of 'full steam ahead.' At once there began a new era of intensive national development."

Mr. Dickinson asserted that there were two things that made possible the progress which followed. They were release and revival of the spirit of initiative and enterprise among the American people, and the American protective tarif system.

"Today it is the fashion in high places to decry these influences which were so decisive in our national growth," the congressman told his audience. "Instead of faith in self-reliance the New Deal sets up a defeatist philosophy.

Muge Spending Extolled.

"The public is led to believe that only a super government of super intellects like those of Messrs. Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes, and Hopkins can solve those vast social and economic problems which once more confront the nation.

"Instead of stimulating new enterprises and the production of new wealth, the New Deal embraces the doctrine of scarcity, including even destruction of God-given plenty. Instead of thrift, spending is emphasized as a national virtue.

"The Roosevelt administration, like all prodigals, makes extravagance its watchword. Economy and budget balancing are put off until a tomorrow that never arrives. That senseless and callous waste of priceless resources known as 'boondoggling' now is 'ennobled' by the President.

10 Million Men Still Idle.

"Yet, after three years of such profligate spending in search of the more abundant life, more than ten million men still tramp the streets seeking work. While this situation exists, how cruel is the jest to those unfortunates—boasting of recovery in which they have no place.

"It is this travesty, this confusion of fancy with fact, which makes the solemn referendum of next November no less fateful than the McKinley election of forty years ago.

"Again the issue is between experiment and experience. But it has this difference: Those who would experiment are now intrenched within the government itself. They have created an omnipotent federal burocracy which reaches out to take over our national heritage as if the American people had become bankrupt and no longer were able to manage their own affairs.

Only One Issue at Stake.

"Let there be no mistake as to the real meaning of this issue. Briefly it is this: whether an autocratic, class-inciting political management is to be placed in charge of the nation's economic life, under which complete regimentation for business, industry and agriculture follows inevitably; whether liberty and democratic self-government are to be overthrown, as in Europe, by conscripting everybody and everything under an economic dictatorship.

"Expressed in another way, this is merely the age-old question which every nation is called upon to solve: is the government to be the master or the servant of the people?"

Taking up the subject of the Roosevelt administration's tarif policies, Senator Dickinson charged that the American standard of living and the American theory of distributing mass purchasing power through high wages is being destroyed by the reciprocal trade agreement which the administration is negotiating with foreign countries.

Lowers All Tarif Walls.

"Remember that tarif reductions granted to one country are, in effect, reductions granted to all countries," Dickinson said. "Since the 'most favored nation' clause, incorporated in such contracts, provides for this, the result is the same as if congress itself repealed the tarif duties.

"There can be no reciprocity of benefit when, by such treaties, the United States obtains merely modifications of trade quotas in one foreign market while the whole world gains access to ours.

"We must remember that the protective tarif means something quite different today than it did in McKinley's time. Then its major function was to stimulate the development of new industries and to provide, at high wages, increased employment for American workers. Our national objective was to build an economic order based on an average income far higher than was—or is now—possible under prevailing wages paid in European or Japanese factories.

Same Protection Necessary.

"Today we still need that same protection—not because our industries are small or financially weak, but because of new international conditions that have arisen. Everywhere nations are competing not only for exports but in the depreciation of their currencies. Only by tarif readjustments can such depreciation be offset.

"Likewise we no longer possess that advantage which inventive genius and automatic machinery once gave us. Foreign manufacturers have now learned American production methods and can meet us at our own game. In many lines—such as textiles and shoes, for example—the foreign factory may actually excel its American counterpart. Japanese rayon invades the markets of the world, and Czechoslovakian shoes are laid down in New York, duty paid, manufactured under Ford production methods, at 90 cents a pair! Along the Atlantic seaboard, German steel actually has been used in PWA projects paid for with taxpayers' money!

Tarif Regulates Labor.

"Furthermore, the tarif is related directly to our present grave problem of unemployment. How are millions of men to be reabsorbed in industry if, by reducing the customs barriers, our foreign competitors are invited to make themselves at home in the American domestic markets? We must pay tribute to Secretary Hull's fine idealism, but it should be pointed out that, in a world divided into nationalist compartments, no other country today follows such an altruistic policy.

"International trade is extoled as a great national asset. But whether it is an asset or a liability depends upon what goods are exchanged. Selling American cotton or wheat in Liverpool, or the offsetting purchase of rubber or copra, is one thing. But to permit articles to be imported which are directly competitive with American manufactured goods or American farm products is carrying out a 'good neighbor' policy with a vengeance!

Every Dollar Hurts Labor.

"Every dollar's worth of such imports is so many less man hours of labor, so many less jobs for American workers! Every such dollar sent abroad is a dollar extracted from an American pay roll. And every dollar extracted from the pay roll, under present economic conditions, makes necessary the expenditure of so many more dollars for relief. For under the American system, unemployment, relief, and tarif reduction are contradictory—not complementary—policies. One offsets the other, retarding rather than promoting recovery."

Judge John J. Lupe in Criminal court yesterday overruled a motion for new trial for Benton J. Davis, 58 years old, a salesman, and sentenced him to one to 10 years in the penitentiary. # URGE DOWNSTATE FORCES UNITE IN GOVERNOR RACE

Find Brooks Lead Tops Others Combined.

BY PARKE BROWN.

An attempt to persuade several downstate candidates for the Republican nomination for governor to pool their strength was disclosed yesterday as a direct consequence of the meeting of county chairmen held at Springfield last Monday.

That unofficial conference disclosed the supporters of Wayland Brooks, Chicago attorney, outnumbering the backers of all the downstate aspirants combined. This fact was supplemented by information that Brooks would have a substantial majority of all of the 101 downstate chairmen.

Five downstate candidates watched the demonstration for Brooks. They were present in person so that their information was of the first hand sort. It was among this group that the plan to try to reduce the number of candidates originated. The proposal is to include all downstate aspirants except Len Small of Kankakee, to whom all of the others declare themselves opposed.

Searcy Explains Proposal.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy, the first candidate to announce himself, discussed the proposal at Springfield, saying it is for an agreement among all the conferring candidates upon one of their own number—the others withdrawing—or an agreement upon some new candidate, and, in that event, the withdrawal of all the present candidates who are parties to the agreement.

Searcy said that he and some of the others had agreed tentatively to meet later this week. Those he mentioned were John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, former lieutenant governor; Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, former attorney general, and J. Paul Kuhn of Batavia, former commerce commissioner. The other aspirants who are to be asked to join in the agreement are Walter M. Provine of Taylorville and George W. Dowell of Duquoin.

Advances Seaman's Name.

Searcy said that if it is found impossible for the conferees to agree upon one of their own number he would urge that all withdraw in favor of some man not now in the race. He suggested the name of George C. Seaman of Taylorville, a member of the voluntary committee which sought to bring all the county chairmen together on Monday.

Others mentioned as possible compromise candidates during discussions of the Searcy idea were George A. Barr of Joliet and Oscar Nelson of Geneva, former state auditor, who recently announced himself as a candidate for United States senator.

The theory of the proposal is believed to be the thought that only by a union of downstate forces can there be any formidable opposition to Brooks' strength in that territory. At the Monday conference it was the consensus that such an amalgamation of personal followings also would put Small into the background as he is in Cook county through the complete lack of any organization strength in Chicago.

"I feel," said Searcy, "that future success of the Republican party makes it vital that we present a united front and keep the control downstate where the party has its greatest strength."

MURDER VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the death of Eugenio Belmonti, 35 years old, an ex-convict. Belmonti was found shot to death in his automobile at the rear of 3326 Flournoy street on Jan. 13.

FARLEY LASHES LIBERTY LEAGUE AS "PREDATORY"

Condemns Its "Rule of Money Over Man."

(Picture on back page.)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—In a direct and sharply worded attack on the American Liberty league, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight termed that group "the center and soul of the predatory powers." Making not a single reference in his prepared text to Alfred E. Smith, Farley labeled the league an "ally" of the Republican national committee.

The Democratic committee chief, who has been vacationing in Florida, spoke before a Roosevelt dinner at the Miami Biltmore hotel here.

He devoted a major part of his address to lashing at the league, which numbers among its members many prominent Democrats, including Smith and John W. Davis, the 1928 and 1924 Democratic presidential nominees. If allowed its way, he said, the league "would perpetuate the sorry business of the Mellons and the Morgans in reducing 95 per cent of the people to the status of serfs."

"Would Squeeze Worker Dry."

"The Liberty league," said Farley, "would rule America. It would squeeze the worker dry in his old age and cast him like an orange rind into the refuse pail. It would continue the infamous policy of using the agencies of government to create a plutocracy that would perpetuate the sorry business of the Mellons and the Morgans in reducing 95 per cent of the people to the status of serfs at the mercy of the exploiters at the top.

"The American Liberty league speaks as conclusively for the reactionaries and their party as do Mr. Hoover, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Manufacturers' association."

Farley asserted the league was composed of representatives of "very big business and the very enormous fortunes" as well as corporation lawyers "who are being well paid to belong."

Asks End to Tax on Riches.

"It naturally demands the repeal of the recent tax measure which increases the taxes of the enormously rich and increases the inheritance taxes," he continued.

"And it rushes to the defense of unscrupulous holding companies of the type made notorious by Sam Insull, to the end that a few porch climbers of high finance may continue to enrich themselves by robbing the stockholders.

"Its program is frankly plutocratic and asks for the rule of money over men, as during the twelve years before Roosevelt's administration.

"It demands that workers and farmers be 'put in their places' and made to understand that they are mere hewers of wood and carriers of water.

"It idea of the 'American way' is to maintain a system under which all the wealth of the nation was being concentrated in the hands of a very few—five per cent of the people."

ANTI-BUNDESEN PLOT PROVES TO BE A MISTAKE

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—For a time yesterday Democratic state candidates, headed by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen of Chicago, candidate for governor, thought the Horner forces were attempting to break up the "good-will" meetings which the Kelly-Nash-Campbell organization slate is holding throughout the state this week. It developed, however, that instead of a plot, the matter resulted from a misunderstanding.

Members of the slate party, here today on a hand-shaking tour, revealed that yesterday at Effingham they found the Effingham county chairman, Louis Krabbe, had disbanded a meeting at the courthouse, where the candidates were to have met prominent Democrats, on receipt of a wire from Springfield, signed by A. D. Hovey of the WPA staf there. Hovey had intended meeting John C. Martin, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and slated for nomination for state treasurer, at Effingham to discuss a WPA project. Bad roads, he wired, would prevent the meeting.

Chairman Krabbe interpreted the message as meaning the Bundesen party would not arrive. The party did arrive before the crowd had entirely dispersed. Hovey, learning of the misinterpretation, wired an explanation to Dr. Bundesen.

Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment.

Hit it with a cold medicine, not with a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment you want.

First of all, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for colds.

Second, it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in the treatment of a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

That's the fourfold treatment a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Adopt the course of wisdom. When a cold threatens, waste no time with makeshift remedies, but go at once to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two at a time, every four hours.

Used in time, Bromo Quinine tablets will often stop a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed of action you want.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Every drug store sells Bromo Quinine at small cost. Be sure you get what you ask for.

1935 A LUCKY YEAR FOR DEBT REDUCING HERE

Heavy Tax Paying Helps Set a Record.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Four major local governments—the city, the school board, Cook county, and the sanitary district—cut their debts by $50,316,873 during 1935, it was shown yesterday by their annual fiscal reports.

This was the best year's record for paying debts in the history of the local governments. But it is only half the current instalment in the lugubrious serial of Chicago financial woes, and much the brighter half at that.

This governmental good housekeeping was made possible, the records show, by a special set of circumstances. Not only are some of those circumstances incapable of repetition this year or next year, but other unfavorable factors—principally mounting budgets and the failure to cure tax delinquency—caused observers to predict yesterday that the 1935 record for debt reduction will stand as a peak figure for some time, at least until a complete business recovery improves tax paying ability.

Economy had little to do with setting the record, for local governments' expenditures, as reflected by tax levies still uncollected, rose during 1935 and will go still higher this year. Two unrelated and unprecedented circumstances gave the governments the money to retire debts faster than they were incurred.

200 Millions in Payments.

The year 1935 included penalty dates on three semi-annual installments of real estate taxes and two annual installments of personal property taxes. Taxpayers fell far short of meeting this bill in full, but their payments on these current bills and on delinquent taxes totaled $200,000,832 during the year. That is more, incidentally, than has ever been collected in a single year either before or after the 1928 reassessment, which marked the start of Chicago's recent tax troubles.

In addition to this, County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill cleared up the blockade of tax distributions which he found when he took over the treasurer's office last June. Undistributed taxes dropped from $55,290,676 on Jan. 1, 1935, to $8,298,884 at the end of that year.

251 Millions Distributed.

Altogether, the 400-odd local governments in the county got during 1935 about $251,000,000 in taxes and penalties on delinquent tax bills [the penalties go to the county] from the combination of a record year's collections and the distribution of the glut of 1934 collections in the treasurer's office. This is approximately the normal tax expectation for one and a half years at the current rate of levy.

The statements showing the debt reductions of the city, school board, county and sanitary district cover only their bonded debts and the floating debts and outstanding tax warrants of their principal operating funds. Debts of minor funds of these governments, and of semi-independent tax bodies such as the public library, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium and forest preserve district, are not included.

Park District Awaits Audit.

No figures are given for the Chicago park district. Officials of the district said yesterday that accurate figures on its debts and those of the 22 park boards which it superseded will not be available until private auditors have made an examination of the district's books.

Little reduction was accomplished in the bonded debts of the governments, with the exception of that of the sanitary district, which refunded its defaulted bonds during the year and reduced its net funded debt obligations by $7,798,547. The county increased its funded debt obligations, due principally to the sale of $1,200,000 in poor relief bonds.

The bulk of the debt reduction was in tax warrants, retired faster than they were issued, and in unpaid bills, salaries and judgments. Under the current financial practices of the local governments, by which operations are financed almost solely by sale of tax warrants, these debts may be lumped together for comparative purposes.

Percentages of Reduction.

The totals of these debts other than bonds for each government at the beginning and end of its 1935 fiscal year, and the percentage of reduction during the year, follow:

| | Start of Year. | End of Year. | Reduction. |
|---|---|---|---|
| City | $92,590,627 | $79,161,140 | 15% |
| Schools | 78,023,382 | 56,987,472 | 27% |
| Sanitary | 5,151,512 | 3,241,494 | 38% |
| County | 18,338,015 | 13,354,457 | 17% |

Since local governments must by law limit the maturity of their bonds to 20 years, it would be assumed that in a normal year they would retire 5 per cent of their outstanding bonds. Actually the average decrease in the bonded debt of the four governments during 1935 was only 2.9 per cent, represented almost wholly by the sanitary district retirements. The county was the only government of the four to end the year with bonds in default.

DEBT REDUCTION SHOWN

Following are the debt statements of the city, the school board, the sanitary district and the county at the end of their 1935 fiscal year, with comparative totals for the end of the fiscal year of 1934. The county's fiscal year ends Nov. 30, those of the other governments Dec. 31:

M'VICKERS BLDG. TAKEN OVER BY SCHOOL BOARD

Holder of 99 Year Lease Evicted by Court.

The Chicago board of education took possession of the McVickers theater building at 17-27 West Madison street yesterday on an eviction order signed by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Municipal court. The court order was directed against the McVickers Theater company headed by Aaron Jones Sr., which held a 99 year lease on the property.

Thus ended litigation over rentals which had lasted for ten years and restored to the school board the land which it first leased in 1880 to Harry G. McVickers, founder of the historic first McVickers theater.

Judgment Also Entered.

Yesterday's eviction order was issued as a result of the theater company's failure to pay rental to the school board for 1935. In addition Judge Adamowski entered in behalf of the board and against the company a judgment for $66,878—the amount of the unpaid rent for the year.

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the school board, said that the board probably will soon accept bids for leasing the theater, which now is closed. Three other tenants in the building—the Schulte Optical Co., the Buddy Boy Nut Co., and the Vienna Sandwich shop—will not be disturbed but their rents will be paid to the board instead of the theater company, Mr. Folsom said.

When Harry McVickers leased the Madison street parcel from the school board in 1880 and built a theater, the lease was to run for 50 years with rental to be determined by a revaluation every five years. The property, with an 81 foot frontage on Madison street and 192 feet deep, was then valued at $138,516 and the annual rental was fixed at $8,310.

99 Year Lease Signed.

In 1885 a 99 year lease was sbustituted for the 1880 document, the new one calling for a revaluation and readjustment of rents every 10 years. In 1891 McVickers' widow, Harriet, assigned the 99 year lease to the McVickers Theater company. The revaluations went on each 10 years until 1915 when the appraisal was $1,100,226 and the annual rental was fixed at $60,073.

In 1922 a new building—the present one—was erected. In 1925 the appraisal was $2,033,720 and the rental was increased correspondingly. This brought an objection from the theater company on the ground that the valuation was too high. A long court fight began. It ended last year with a judgment of $200,000 in favor of the school board, which the board still holds. Meanwhile the company continued through 1934 to pay rent on the basis of the 1915 valuation. In 1935, however, the rental payments ceased and the board started the eviction suit.

FIGHTING COLDS!

Don't stop with temporary relief, but try to get the cold out of your system

Any family can cut down the suffering time and discomfort due to colds, by intelligent care.

Try above all else to clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the fever and keep the bowels open. This takes more than a "few minutes" and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of any druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

An ordinary cold may be relieved with two of these little tablets; just chew them up, and drink some water.

Some colds may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. Isn't it worth the time to do this, if you get real relief?

Don't put any faith in so-called "instant" cures. Pape's Cold Compound relieves a cold as quickly as anything you could safely take.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

HERE'S THE WILKEN FAMILY GIVING A NEIGHBOR A FRIENDLY NIP

Neighbors stopping by on a chilly night tell us there's nothing more comforting and grateful-like than a nip of our Family's Whiskey before setting out in the cold again. Being so extra mild and smooth I think our Family's Whiskey is specially suited for taking a swallow or two straight—without any water or anything. If you've sampled it yourself, as more than likely you have, you've found that out without me remarking about it. Harry E. Wilken, Sr.

Wait till you feel how easy our Family's Whiskey slithers down your throat!

I hear how folks are making as big a to do over the smooth feeling of our Family's Whiskey on their throat as they make over the mildness and tastiness of it. Well it took a whole lifetime of distilling experience to make whiskey that trickles down so nice and easy as that. Why I never could of turned out whiskey anywhere near so smooth and good tasting as our Family's Whiskey when I was just raw at the business. Nobody could. That's why I tell my boys we're probably the luckiest distilling family there ever was—being a born and bred distilling family from away back. This is us in the picture, all but the man you see togged out to go outside. He don't belong in the Wilken Family. But he happens by pretty often. He thinks our Family's Whiskey is just about o.k. The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

2 DEPARTMENTS ASK NEAR BILLION IN ELECTION YEAR

Postoffice and Treasury Needs Increase.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Reflecting increases in jobs for the New Deal ranks during the election year, a bill providing appropriations of $989,623,829 for the treasury and postoffice departments was introduced in the house today.

Among the increases in the treasury department, which asked a total of $211,483,145 to expend, were $400,000 for the alcohol administration, $1,259,255 for the coast guard and $9,208,668 for the public health service, the last increase due almost entirely to the new social security act.

The postoffice department asked for a total of $778,140,684, an increase of $49,026,895 over the last annual appropriation.

Give Out Hearings Reports.

Along with the bill were released copies of the house appropriations subcommittee hearings on the proposed expenditures.

Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget, was revealed as practically admitting to the group that the gigantic silver purchases by the treasury had not worked out according to plans. His statement was made in response to a question put by Representative James Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], as to how much more silver would have to be purchased.

"That is very difficult, Mr. Buchanan," Bell replied, "because as we buy silver the gold is also increasing so that we are making little progress, and with gold coming in so fast, so far as the proportion between silver and gold is concerned, we do not make much headway."

Planned 1 to 4 Ratio.

The silver plan was to purchase the metal until it reached a price of $1.29 an ounce or until the monetary stocks of silver reached a quarter of gold.

"I can see where purchases made until a proper ratio is reached could be a very fine thing," Buchanan remarked, "provided it lays a foundation that would be successful for the adoption, internationally, of a double standard of both silver and gold. But not having succeeded in having such a foundation adopted among the commercial nations of the world, I cannot see what good it does, except to boost the domestic price for the production of silver in a few states."

The hearings also disclosed what "experts" had been called in to advise the secretary of the treasury during the last six months of 1935 and how much they were paid.

The highest paid was J. Lossing Buck, ex-husband of Pearl Buck, the author. Buck received in salary $3,500 and $1,549 for traveling expenses for "information relating to silver." Prof. George F. Warren of Cornell, "rubber dollar" enthusiast, was paid $75 for three days' labor, plus traveling expenses of $51.

Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago received $66 in salary and $85 in traveling expenses for three days of advising the secretary on banking and economic matters.

Smuggling Decreases.

Smuggling is on the decrease, Secretary Morgenthau told the committee. He said that the main source was alcohol from Belgium, which was transferred to rum running boats at St. Pierre and Miquelon, two French islands off the coast of Newfoundland. Coast guard officers testified that smuggling of alcohol today was about 25 per cent of what it was at the prohibition peak.

In one hearing when treasury officials stated that smuggling of wool, butter, onions and other commodities was resulting from higher prices in this country than in Canada, Representative Clarence J. McLeod [Rep., Mich.], inquired whether any potatoes had been smuggled as a result of the control act. Frank Dow, assistant commissioner of the bureau of customs, replied solemnly that he hadn't heard of any.

Supt. William J. Bogan in Hospital for a Rest

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools who has not been at his office since last Friday because of a severe cold, is in the Presbyterian hospital for rest and observation. Mr. Bogan, said his physician, Dr. D. P. Abbott, told him he needed a rest after extra work during the ending of the first semester.

McNamara Throws a Little Light on His "Gas" Supply

Ben McNamara's automobile stalled yesterday at 57th street and Union avenue. Mr. McNamara, who lives at 7046 Loomis avenue, struck a match and placed it at the opening of the fuel tank to see if his car was out of gasoline. It was not. He was treated at St. Bernard's hospital for severe burns on the right arm.

WILL ENTERTAIN AT WOMAN CONGRESS

Among the outstanding entertainments to be presented next week at The Chicago Tribune's third woman congress, to be held Thursday and Friday in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer house, will be the famed Paulist choir, directed by the Rev. Father Eugene O'Malley (left), Ireene Wicker, "The Singing Lady," heard over W-G-N and NBC (center), and Mme. Elizabeth Rosamore, European coloratura soprano.

WOMAN CONGRESS TO HEAR THEATER AND RADIO STARS

Concert Notables Also on Program.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

In keeping with the outstanding program of speakers announced by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for its third Woman Congress to be held Thursday and Friday, Feb. 13 and 14, in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, stars of the concert, radio, and the theater will be presented at each of the sessions.

Miss Ireene Wicker, known in radio as "The Singing Lady," with her accompanist, Allan Grant, composer and concert pianist, will appear in a fifteen minute recital Thursday afternoon. Miss Wicker and Mr. Grant are heard over W-G-N and the National Broadcasting company's network.

Guest Star Abroad.

Miss Wicker, who recently returned from a visit to England where she was guest star on several British radio programs, will combine her singing with a talk describing how she and Mr. Grant "build" their entertainments.

Thursday evening the Rev. Father Eugene O'Malley will present his famed Paulist choir in a concert of secular and classical music. This chorus is known the world over through its many concert tours and radio programs.

Of a lighter vein will be the scheduled music of Tom, Dick, and Harry and their composer-accompanist, Carl Hoefle, who will sing on the Friday morning program. This quartet is one of the drawing cars of the studio concerts given each week in the new W-G-N Radio building. Tom, Dick, and Harry in real life are Bud Vandover, Marlin Hurt, and Gordon Vandover.

Mme. Rosamore to Sing.

Mme. Elizabetta Rosamore, European coloratura soprano, accompanied by Dino Bigalli, will be presented in several arias Friday afternoon. Mme. Rosamore, a native of Italy, is best known for her portrayal of leading rôles in "Lucia," "Martha," "Barber of Seville," "Romeo and Juliet," and 'Rigoletto." Mr. Bigalli is a former conductor of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Through the courtesy of the Hammond Clock company the new Hammond electric organ will be installed at the Palmer house and will be heard preceding each session. Two noted organists, Walter Flandorf and Porter Heaps, will play. Mr. Flandorf, formerly organist at the People's church, won acclaim last summer when he played the Hammond organ at the Ford gardens each afternoon at the California Pacific international exposition at San Diego. Mr. Flandorf is the new organist at the Winnetka Congregational church. Mr. Heaps, who is the organist and choirmaster at the New England Congregational church in Chicago, was awarded first place last year for his "Thanksgiving for All Created Things," an anthem entered in a contest sponsored by the American Guild of Organists.

VERA STRETZ IN TEARS, DEMANDS QUICK TRIAL IN SLAYING OF DOCTOR

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Weeping, Vera Stretz today heard her attorney admit officially for the first time that she had shot and killed Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, German industrialist, in his apartment here on Nov. 11.

Samuel Leibowitz, the lawyer, brought her into court to demand a speedy trial on the first degree murder indictment under which she has been held without bail.

The attorney insisted there had not been enough evidence to warant the first degree count, and said the undisclosed reason why she shot Dr. Gedhardt eventually would effect her freedom.

Justice Aaron J. Levy ordered that the state place her on trial within 30 days or he will admit a motion to fix bail for her release.

ROBBERS RAID NORTH SIDE HOTEL.

After trying unsuccessfully to force Jack Thompson, 44 years old, night clerk at the Foswyn Arms hotel, 5240 Winthrop avenue, to open the hotel's safe, three bandits yesterday took $7 from a cash drawer and $1.75 from Thompson.

CITY FACES NEW COURT FIGHT IN INTEREST SUIT

The Illinois Supreme court at Springfield granted a rehearing yesterday to Nathan R. Feldman of Chicago in his appeal from an Appellate court decision denying him a $2,762 judgment against the city. In 1925 Feldman was awarded $33,000 by the Municipal court as compensation for a strip of property he owned which was condemned in the widening of Clinton street between Harrison street and Roosevelt road.

The $33,000 was paid by the city 18 months after the judgment was entered and Feldman demanded interest for this period and won a $2,762 judgment in the Municipal court. The interest judgment was reversed in the Appellate court and Feldman carried the issue to the Supreme court.

Last Dec. 23 the Supreme court upheld the Appellate court, ruling that the city does not have to pay interest on condemnation awards until after it takes possession of the property, regardless of the interval involved. This ruling was expected to save the city $10,000,000 as there are similar cases pending. Yesterday, however, the Supreme court reopened the case.

ROOSEVELT BUSY ON FARM SUBSIDY TAX; HIDES PLANS

Orders Aids Not to Talk on $500,000 New Levies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today clamped the lid of White House censorship down on the administration tax program for the financing of the new farm subsidy scheme.

At a two hour conference in the executive offices actual drafting of at least 500 million dollars of new taxes was begun with Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, Attorney General Cummings, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, AAA Administrator Davis, and Solicitor General Reed.

Attorney General Cummings, the first to emerge from the conference, said: "Everything is in the conversational stage."

Under President's Orders.

Wallace, who came out a few minutes later, dismissed reporters in the same words. He admitted he and the others were acting under definite instructions from the President in their statements.

It was learned that the conference was confined solely to taxes for the farm program. The White House, according to administration leaders at the capitol, has no present plans for asking new taxes to cover payment of the bonus.

At his press conference, which followed his appearance at the White House, Wallace repeated that the question of taxes was still in the conversational stage. He said he did not want to venture any guesses because he might find himself wrong a week hence.

Inflationists Busy Organizing.

As the White House ignored taxes in relation to the bonus, inflationists on Capitol Hill organized to center efforts on currency expansion to meet the obligation to veterans. The inflationists are confident they will get a vote on their proposal in the house, either by a rule from the rules committee or by petition.

Tomorrow the President is expected to check over the possibility of curtailing the direct spending of New Deal agencies. He was reported to be pleased over the reception of his announcement of yesterday curtailing the potential lending power of New Deal agencies by one billion dollars.

Although the President's announcement, by White House confession, has no relation to New Deal spending, it was hoped that the move would restore some confidence in the administration's fiscal policies. The President's action on direct spending is being awaited eagerly in financial circles.

A. F. of L. to Put Up a Fight.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said labor will fight any inflation move. He argued that labor would be at a decided disadvantage if commodity prices increase and wages remain stationary.

He said that an increase in wages should precede an increase in commodity prices and members of the organization's executive council will work to offset the deleterious effect of currency inflation by seeking increases in wages and mass purchasing power should any inflation move reach serious consideration.

BEG YOUR PARDON.

An item yesterday concerning the dismissal of a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Jane Scriven Finlay against John Jerome Finlay in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva said Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., representing Mr. Finlay, told the court Mrs. Finlay was unfit to have the custody of her daughter, Barbara, 6 years old, because the mother dances in a New York night club. Attorney Cantwell said yesterday he did not make that statement, but said Mrs. Finlay was in charge of reservations at a club. The item also said that Mr. Finlay was not in court. Finlay said that he was present.

"THE GREATEST NUMBER OF MATTRESSES EVER SOLD BY THE DAVIS STORE!"

—PAUL C. FLEER
General Manager

NOTABLE among the merchandising events of The Davis Store in Chicago is its semi-annual furniture sale. One of the furniture sale highlights is the mattress sale, an event that is eagerly watched for by Chicago women, as well as by the largest stores all over the country, for the sale has become not only locally but nationally famous.

The Davis Store's first mattress sale of 1936 was scheduled for Monday, February 3. As usual, they planned carefully for the event. Their buyers had combed the market and obtained a quality mattress to sell in large volume at $15.90 each.

FEATURED IN SUNDAY TRIBUNE

All that remained to do was to plan the advertising. In order to reach the maximum number of prospects, The Davis Store featured the sale in a full page in the Sunday Tribune of February 2.

"Our records show that on the first day of this sale we sold the greatest number of mattresses ever sold by this store in any one day in our history, and to the best of our knowledge, we sold more mattresses than were ever sold in one day on State Street," said Paul C. Fleer, general manager, The Davis Store.

CONSISTENT SUNDAY ADVERTISER

Such results are typical of those enjoyed by Sunday Tribune advertisers.

The Davis Store had never been a user of the Sunday Tribune until July of last year. At that time, the store adapted its advertising and merchandising plans in order to take advantage of Sunday Tribune sales power.

Since that time, the store has been a consistent user of Sunday Tribune advertising, and today the Sunday Tribune is an integral part of their program.

GREATER COVERAGE—GREATER RESULTS!

The Davis Store is making greater use of the Sunday Tribune because on this day, when people have plenty of time to read, the Tribune goes into the homes of more than 620,000 families in Chicago and suburbs alone.

This is 199,000 more families than any other Chicago Sunday newspaper reaches—244,000 more than any other Chicago daily newspaper reaches, except the Daily Tribune.

Through the Sunday Tribune alone, advertisers can reach practically as many families in metropolitan Chicago as can be reached through any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

FOR GREATER 1936 SALES

What about your advertising program? Does it recognize the trend in Chicago to the Tribune? If not, you are not getting the sales volume and quick response to which you are entitled in this market.

Ask your advertising counsel—or a Tribune representative—to give you the complete facts.

HOW BOTH DAILY AND SUNDAY TRIBUNE advertising has proved out for The Davis Store may be gleaned from the following facts: During the last six months of 1935, the Tribune received 26.0% of The Davis Store's total newspaper advertising, as compared with 16.8% in the comparable period of 1934. Measured in dollars, the Tribune's share was increased from 22.4% to 35.8%.

Last year the Tribune again led all Chicago newspapers in total volume of department store advertising. The ten leading State Street stores spent more money for advertising in the Tribune than they spent in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

A VIEW OF THE NEW MODERN MAIN FLOOR. At the bottom of the depression, The Davis Store boldly embarked upon a program of remodeling and modernizing every floor and every department, making it one of America's most modern popular priced department stores. Today, the entire store, with its 823,600 square feet of selling and service departments, reflects the modern spirit. Shown above is a view of the new modern main floor, where an entirely new arrangement of counters and ailes, new fixtures, new decorations and new indirect lighting announce to the shopper that this is a store of today.

SENATORS SEEK MORGAN ADVICE ON WAR DEBTS

Ask Information on How to Collect Them.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The senate munitions committee, wearied of their efforts to prove that J. P. Morgan & Co. got us into the world war, this afternoon invited the Morgans to show us how to collect the defaulted war debts. The response was not very encouraging.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] discovered a clause in the 4 billion dollar British refunding agreement which gives the United States an option to demand marketable obligations in lieu of the refunding bonds at any time. He wanted expert advice on what would happen if the United States decided to exercise this option.

Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, inquired: "When the payments were defaulted in 1932 didn't the agreement itself fall?"

No Answer from Treasury.

Senator Vandenberg declared that he would rather have the British treasury say that than to take it for granted. He disclosed that he had asked the United States treasury ten days ago whether something might not be done with the option, but had received no reply.

"It comes down to the question," said Mr. Lamont, "of whether the American investors would buy the obligations of these countries which have defaulted on their war debts."

Senator Vandenberg said he could not understand why the obligations could not be sold in the world market, but Mr. Lamont explained that France and England are selling no obligations payable in currencies other than their own.

"The only possible way I can see," Mr. Lamont continued, "is fresh negotiations to see whatever fresh agreements may be arrived at. If we had rather have half a loaf than none at all such a procedure might be effective."

Payable in Gold.

"The bond itself," said Senator Vandenberg, "states that it is payable in gold coin of the United States or its equivalent in gold bullion. I'd like to bet 50 cents to a plugged nickel that if J. P. Morgan & Co. had a contract with that clause in it they would make it stick."

"We'd have to persuade you to join our firm, senator, in order to carry that out," Mr. Lamont replied.

The war debt discussion was precipitated by a statement introduced into the record by R. C. Leffingwell, another Morgan partner who was assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of allied loans during the world war. He contended that the treasury made its loans wisely and that subsequent political and economic conditions made them uncollectable.

Considered "Good Loans."

"The treasury treated its loans to the allies as good loans which must be repaid," he said. "It firmly resisted any suggestion of cancellation whether at home or abroad, and general default on these loans did not occur until 1932 or 1933, fifteen years after they had been made, and after the general breakdown in Germany and indeed in Europe in 1931 had led to a general moratorium on reparations and war debts proposed by the United States.

"In the meanwhile 2 billion, 750 mililon dollars had been paid by foreign governments to the United States government on account of its war loans, of which about 750 million was principal and nearly 2 billion dollars was interest, including 430 millions interest which may have been paid by borrowing during the war period. Great Britain alone had paid over 2 billion of which 434 million was principal and France had paid 486 million of which 226 million was principal.

Task "Performed Wisely."

"It was the task of the treasury to finance the war. It performed that task wisely, cautiously and to the satisfaction of the congress and of the American people. It was not the treasury's task, nor had the treasury the power or the opportunity to arrange the terms of peace, of reparations, of world recovery, after the war was over.

"The loans the treasury made were wisely and cautiously made, and, given a rational peace settlement and rational policies, political and economic, of the nations of the world [including our own] after the treaties of peace had been signed, the loans would for the most part have been collectible. As it was, after a postwar interval, payment of principal and interest was maintained and no default occurred until 15 years after the loans were made. It was not within the power of the treasury to foresee or to guarantee the treaties of peace and world settlements, the policies of the nations or the structure of Europe."

Quizzed by Vandenberg.

Senator Vandenberg, after reading the latter part of the statement, wanted to know what the United States could have done to "keep the loans collectable."

"I suppose," said Mr. Leffingwell, "that what was in my mind and in the minds of the treasury at the end of the war was that a peace of appeasement, of political and economic appeasement, might result in a world with a hope of recovery and permanent benefits to mankind. We envisaged a world with fewer economic barriers, fewer restrictions on trade and the felicitation of exchange. We believed that we could all get prosperous again by trying to help each other instead of trying to shut each other off.

"I suppose the United States could have taken the lead as well as anyone else—we all know that the disasters that followed the world war are attributable as much to economic conditions as to the war itself."

Begins in United States.

Senator Clark asked whether the economic conditions mentioned by Mr. Leffingwell were not the inevitable result of the war itself, but the witness did not believe so. Economic nationalism, he said, began in the United States and in other countries before the war.

"I confess," he added, "that I am a free trader."

Later on, when Senator Clark was exploring the possibility of exchanging the British public debt to a private debt, through the sale of her obligations in this country, he asked if it was not true that Britain had never defaulted on a private debt.

"This discussion," said Mr. Leffingwell, "is a perfect example of the economic nationalism of which I've been speaking. We can't arrive at any world solution from the viewpoint of a sullen juror. Your inquiry as to the causes of the war must lead you to the conclusion that the fundamental cause is the bickering among nations for economic advantages."

The committee, after a dreary night session which consisted of "completing the financial record," concluded its examination of the Morgan partners and dismissed them. Engineers from the interstate commerce commission will be heard tomorrow and then the committee will call officials of several steel companies.

The Serene Confidence of the 8th WOMAN

HOW many readers are regular martyrs to pain, month after month, envious of those women who go serenely through their time? You probably know at least one woman who is never at a disadvantage, never breaks engagements, never declines dances (unless she wants to!) and whose spirits never seem to droop.

She is likely that eighth woman who relies on Midol. Eight million women once suffered regularly every month. Had difficult days when they must save themselves, or pay the penalty. But a million have accepted the relief of Midol.

Are you compelled to favor yourself, and save yourself, certain days of every month? Midol could change this. Might have you out dancing. And even if it didn't keep you absolutely free from all pain for the entire period, you would receive a measure of relief well worth while!

Midol is effective even when the pain has caught you unaware and has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you through your worst day. They do not contain any narcotic.

This boon to women is found in any drugstore—usually right out on the toilet goods counter. Or, drop a card to Midol, 170 Varick St., New York, and get a free trial box postpaid, plainly wrapped.

NEW SCIENTIFIC TEST ORDERED IN PATERNITY FIGHT

Medical Find May Solve Case.

A newly perfected blood test will be tried in a new effort to establish whether George Hansen, middle aged electrical engineer, 1920 North Central Park avenue, is the father of Cliff Hansen, 7 years old, son of Mrs. Esther Hansen, 35 years old, of Maywood. Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort after being informed yesterday of the new test recently perfected by medical science, continued until next Friday a hearing on Hansen's motion to reduce his alimony payments of $10 a week for support of the child.

At that time, Judge Desort will hear evidence on the divorce plea, including any new evidence revealed by the test if it is made. Mrs. Hansen, who lived with Hansen only a month before she left him in 1927, is suing for divorce and asking alimony and support money for the child. Hansen filed a cross bill questioning that he is the child's father. He says, however, that if the child can be proved to be his, he wants to provide for him.

Learns of Latest Method.

Attorney Morris Haft, representing Hansen, told the court that he learned from medical authorities of the new development after a previous blood test at a laboratory here. The laboratory authorities informed him that the reagent necessary in making the more complete test was obtainable only at the Rockefeller institute. Judge Desort told him to send for it and proceed with the test.

According to the test used before, a man if he happened to be in a blood classification inimical to that of the child's, could be eliminated as a possible parent. The classifications were broad, whereas now science has broken down blood groupings into smaller classes. There are therefore more possible chances of ruling out a certain person as the parent of a given child. In neither test, however, does it positively establish paternity. The only possible proof is negative.

The authenticity of the proposed new test was verified to a reporter by Dr. W. C. Woodward of the medical-legal department of the American Medical association, who has conducted a study of the subject.

Lively Greeting Told.

Hansen, meanwhile, told the court that he had paid the temporary support money ordered by Judge Desort and had visited the child. "The boy started in by taking a sock at me and at my brother," he said.

"Well, that's like your boy," said Judge Desort. "I have that trouble at home."

"Then he took two belts and began swinging the buckle ends at us. Then he kicked me in the foot and then began prodding us with sharp pointed sticks," said the father. "Our reception wasn't what you'd call warm," said Hansen.

The court said he thought the boy needed a father's tutelage.

ATTORNEY GIVEN UNTIL TODAY TO PAY COURT FINE

Attorney J. Kent Greene, 77 West Washington street, who on Tuesday was fined $100 for contempt of court by Superior Judge Oscar Nelson, yesterday was given until this morning to perfect an appeal or pay the fine. Greene was alleged to have attempted to prevent deputy sherifs from arresting his client, Alexander Moseley, 1515 Kingsbury street. Moseley was sentenced to six months in the county jail for failing to pay a $250 stenographer's bill in a master of chancery's hearing on a separate maintenance suit brought by Mrs. Kathleen Moseley.

COURT SLAYER KEOGH IS FOUND INSANE BY JURY

John W. Keogh, 72 years old, was adjudged insane yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph Burke. Keogh shot and killed Attorney Christopher G. Kinney last Jan. 13 in the courtroom of Circuit Judge John J. Prystalski, afterward firing 3 shots at Judge Prystalski before he was subdued. He was found sane by a jury in a previous trial. This verdict was set aside as contrary to the evidence and a second trial was ordered.

The jury retired at 4:45 p. m. Wednesday and was locked up for the night at 8:10 p. m. after reporting that an agreement could not be reached. The jurors resumed their deliberations yesterday morning and soon afterward announced they had arrived at a verdict.

Keogh, acting as his own lawyer asked for a new trial and was granted until Feb. 17 to submit a motion. Should Judge Burke overrule the motion on Feb. 17, Keogh will be ordered committed to the Illinois State Security hospital at Menard.

OPEN $16,000,000 SEWAGE TUNNEL AT CEREMONIES

Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district, and Joshua D'Esposito, resident project engineer for the PWA, participated yesterday in a ceremony at 16th and Jefferson streets which marked the formal opening of the $16,000,000 west side intersecting tunnel.

The tunnel, which extends from the mouth of the Chicago river and along the north branch to Fullerton avenue and along the south branch to Stickney, has a total length of 20 miles.

In dedicating the project, Mr. Woodhull said that with the new sewage facilities, capable of handling 337,000,000 gallons of sewage every 24 hours, the river will be much cleaner.

THE RUBBER YARDSTICK.

Whether the experiment in state socialism known as the Tennessee Valley Administration or that phase of it involved in the case before the Supreme court is within the constitutional powers of congress will presently be declared by that tribunal. What the court will not determine is the expediency of this project. That is a question solely for the legislative branch of government and finally for the people. The court may declare the TVA within the constitutional powers of congress. It will not and may not declare that it is wise or unwise.

The project has several aspects which have been much discussed. The most immediate and practical is presented by the claim of its proponents that it will serve as a yardstick to measure and expose inordinate profits of private enterprise in the same field. This theory assumes that a government project whose losses, if any, are paid by the taxpayers of the nation provides a yardstick for fixing the proper rates and revenue of a private enterprise whose investors pay its losses, if any, provides its own capital and pays taxes upon its property and income.

The yardstick is a rubber yardstick to be manipulated by politics or burocracy to suit. It is a fraud upon investors, upon consumers, and on taxpayers who may not be consumers. Investors in private enterprise may have no rights or interests which a socialist government is bound to respect, but consumers have reason to question whether political or burocratic management is likely to give them a product or a service which is either as good or as cheap in fact as that of the private enterprise which it will destroy. Also the taxpayer who is substituted in a government enterprise for the investor in private enterprise has reason to question whether he ought to be taxed to give lower rates for service or product supplied to any special group of consumers.

Putting government enterprise into competition with private enterprise might be acceptable in spite of its injustice to the latter if it were the only means or even merely the best means of restraining unduly high charges for the services or products of public utilities. But of course this is not true. The regulation of rates by public commissions is general. Existing law provides for them and the courts sustain their regulations when they are within the law. They have access to all the information required to fix rates consistently with law and public interest, and if they do not do their duty the public can replace them with men who will.

Another and perhaps a better regulation of public utilities is the small power plant. It is even more dependable and easier to run than an automobile engine. It is practical for all sources of power and for lighting all but the smallest house. Even if lighting rates for these become too high, an enterprising individual will be found in every block to supply the light for the block. No street being used, there will not be any need for a franchise.

The scheme of creating government projects to compete with private enterprise is favored by theorists who wish to destroy private enterprise and by politicians who wish to spend public money to their own advantage. It provides no reliable test of the actual cost or fair price of services or products, but an unfair and deceptive one. Its deception can be exposed, but its waste of public money will not be recovered. That it is unjust and unnecessary, that it will result not in economy for consumers but new charges upon the taxpayers, was recognized in the platform to which Mr. Roosevelt pledged himself 100 per cent and which declared that "we advocate the removal of government from all fields of private enterprise except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest."

TVA is a fraud as yardstick. It is not necessary to develop public works or natural resources. It will be not only an impairment of the legitimate interests of lawful private enterprise but another sink hole for the money of the taxpayers of the nation.

FREE SPEECH UNDER THE NEW DEAL.

Because one of the speakers at the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense criticized the New Deal, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt ordered the Marine band, which had been playing for the conference to withdraw. Two naval officers and a marine officer who were on the program for speeches were also withdrawn. The offending speaker was Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt explains that Mr. Colby's remarks gave a "political color" to the occasion and therefore justified the withdrawal of the band and the naval and marine officers. If Mr. Colby's remarks were irrelevant to the occasion or indiscreet, it will be difficult for the innocent bystander to understand why the conference should have been penalized for his error, if it was error. Presumably the managers of the conference invited Mr. Colby to address it on the rather plausible ground that from his experience in wartime with problems of international relations closely resembling those which congress is now considering he could contribute usefully to its discussion of national defense. Presumably they assumed also that as an American citizen he enjoyed the right of free speech.

The incident is characteristic of the attitude of the administration toward freedom of utterance. No administration in the history of the nation has carried on so persistent and voluminous propaganda, and at the expense of the taxpayer, on behalf of its projects and policies. No administration has shown greater resentment at criticism or dissent. But if these manifestations may be accepted as natural, though exaggerated, the determination of the administration to use its power to overawe and suppress free utterance cannot be so lightly dismissed. Its attempt to resurrect licensing of the press, under guise of an NRA code, and its censorship of the radio have revealed a purpose to destroy free utterance, and the Marine band episode is only a minor incident of this tendency.

SPEAKING, IF YOU WERE, OF THE WEATHER.

What inspired the idea that this is the temperate zone? Hereabouts there is a temperature range of 100 degrees in a normal year and when the climate makes up its mind to turn in a performance for the record it can extend that range to 130. The zone is as temperate as a combination of Al Capone and Bishop Cannon. From 20 below to 110 above! Temperate, your eye!

We enter the year with frostbitten ears and frozen, if any, whiskers. Cars stall in the snow drifts, there's ice in the locomotive whistle and the engineer's eyebrows, and the householder puts on three sweaters and two pairs of pants and splits the arctic wind with his nose. The January icicle hanging from the eaves becomes February's whirling saber of ice. March has been known to hit a high of 80 and drop to a low of zero or worse. If April isn't a glacier it's a deluge. May will pelt you with hailstones.

Spring serves only to pull winter along by the beard and throw him into the lap of summer in unholy matrimony which begins and ends in an uproarious brawl, with the sweaty Amazon the victor, a remorseless Fury who, once in possession, turns on the heat to prove how temperate the rule of the seasons is over the people who so call it. Autumn may be a thing of grace, a breathing spell as uncertain, however, as a respite from the New Deal. You figure up, as December again invites in the Canadian northwest, that you have had the heating system going ten months and the cooling system two. And so we are temperate.

Uncle Sam's charmed domain of Panama is down in the tropics and, in our bedtime story locution, is not temperate. It lies between the eighth and tenth parallels north of the equator. Its highest known temperature of record is 97 and its minimum 63, a range of 34 degrees, against our 130. And that's intemperate. The trade winds cool the brow and invite the rational being to sit in the shade, observe the world going by, and regard its better side.

People who start as we do with the illusion that they live in a temperate region and cannot be shaken from it by the winds of the frozen north and of the baking desert are bound to be loco in many things. They are ripe for Dr. Townsend and the wealth sharers. They will chase rainbows, plow under, take shares in the Drake estate, consult astrologers, and believe everything's so that isn't and that what's nonsense is common sense. How could it be otherwise in the intemperate temperate zone? Of course we like it. It's an exhilarating experience, the victims of which are full of pep. Why should they care where they're going when it's so much fun to be on the way?

Editorial of the Day

SPOILS SYSTEM SPREADS.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

One of the great divides between promise and performance in the Roosevelt administration, which New Dealers feebly try to explain away, is in the field of civil service.

Complaints that the vast new burocracy of the New Deal was being erected with scant regard for the promotion and merit system arose almost as soon as the New Deal began to take effect, but they were usually parried by pleasant words from the President or others extoling the civil service system and affirming the administration's devotion to it.

Revelations made by a writer in the Atlantic Monthly show with startling detail how far New Deal promises have fallen short of performance in this respect. Since March, 1933, no less than 235,000 persons have been added to federal pay rolls by noncivil service appointments. Instead of 80 per cent of competitive civil service positions in the federal service, as there was when President Hoover left office, there is today barely 57 per cent.

Blame for this shameless undermining of one of the safeguards slowly erected to protect the interest of the nation is put largely at the door of James A. Farley, whose capacity for making political appointments has found almost unlimited reach since the Democrats came into power at Washington. But the real indictment should be directed at President Roosevelt, who repeatedly has paid lip service to the civil service ideal and at the same time permitted widespread use of the spoils system in creating new positions under the New Deal.

Only a little more than a month ago the President, in replying to a protest from the civil service assembly on the number of noncompetitive appointments made, submitted a list of New Deal agencies in which, he said, civil service regulations were in force. All of these agencies together, however, comprised only a small fraction of the New Deal total to date.

THE INVESTIGATION of affairs at Stateville prison seems just to go 'round and 'round. I can't make it all out yet, but I know this, if they ever pop me into a jail I hope it won't be a government prison where they seem to be a bit stern. I would like to go to Stateville, which seems to be something in the way of a gentleman's club. But I should like to take my valet with me. I haven't a valet, but I shall hire one. I would love to say, "Jennings, take the goldfish for a walk." Of course I must admit that goldfish do not usually walk, but I expect they do down at Stateville. The most extraordinary things seem to happen down there, and if a goldfish walked around on a leash behind my butler I hardly think it would cause the slightest comment.

THE REPUBLICANS in addition to their radio show are going to sway the sovereign voters with a movie comedy—"The Amateur Fire Brigade—A Fable of the New Deal." This is something new in political campaigning, but if they've got Mickey Mouse in it I'll go. I'd lots rather see Mickey Mouse than listen to an eminent statesman appeal to save the country. I hope the Republicans sign him up for one of their spellbinders. The Democrats will probably answer by putting on Zero the Educated Sea Lion, and Pharaoh, the Blood Sweating Behemoth from the River Nile. And even then the two old parties may not think they've got down to the intellectual level of us sovereign voters and 100 per cent Americans until they give us bedtime stories on the radio.

And stiller lovers;
Ah for a vow
That is never broken
And a lavish love
As a lasting token.

Oh for something
To hold back tears
Made by the flight
Of the changing years;
Or for a poem
In perfect rhyme
And a rare friendship
Impervious to time.

‡

LIKE OTHER MOTORISTS, I lament that infractions of speed laws and other things that car drivers do will in the future in Illinois be tried by justices of the peace because it opens the way for speed traps. But I must admit that when traffic cases can be tried by a justice of the peace and there is a possibility of a speed trap lurking around somewhere the boys and girls at the wheel are not so prone to step on 'er and give 'er a shot in the arm and do other amusing things like that. Understand me, I don't like speed traps—far from such—but I think a good healthy scare snooping around behind speed demons isn't such a bad thing. And if I get caught in a speed trap and soaked by a J. P. I'm going to take all this back. It's the other fellow I'm thinking of. He's the one that causes all the accidents, anyhow.

But since I cannot have my will,
I must sit and wait until
Walls and world and I are drowned
In the avalanche of sound.

Now fully, winter claims the forest aisles
Whose columned firs, unbending, proudly bear
The heavy sorrows of the burdened clouds,
Gray mantled, moving through a crystaled air.

Too deep to fathom in a world apart,
Yet here I sense the chorded harps of heaven
Within the silenced chancels of my heart.

A TUMOR THAT IS NOT CANCEROUS.

WHENEVER the word "tumor" is mentioned conversation is likely to be conducted in a hushed voice. To almost every one the name implies cancer. This assumption is wholly unwaranted, as there are many varieties of tumors that are benign [not cancerous].

Although almost any sort of swelling may be called a tumor the term nowadays is applied only to overgrowths of tissue, the cause of which is not positively known. Somewhere along the line there must exist an irritation bringing on an excessive increase in the number of cells.

We should recall that the two types of tumors—malignant and benign—have this habit. The malignant group, however, may spread throughout the body, sapping vitality and even destroying life. The benign affair grows where it is. It does not spread but may cause difficulty because of its size and the pressure it may exert. Only rarely will it disintegrate or manifest cancerous tendencies.

Of the several forms of benign growths, lipomata or fatty tumors are quite common. Deposits of fat in a particular locality lead to the formation of round or oval masses. They may be found in almost any part of the body, but develop frequently beneath the skin. Now and then several masses are grouped together and if they increase in size they may interfere mechanically with various functions of the body.

In size they vary from tiny pealike bodies to lumps weighing many pounds. Fifty pound growths have been reported. The latter are often difficult to carry about and constitute a drag on the muscular system of the body. They serve no useful purpose whatever. When viewed under the microscope they appear as large collections of fat globules held in position by strands of fibrous tissue. When large they demand and receive an ample supply of blood and, because of the generous amount of nutrition offered to them, may continue to grow.

Most of these unsightly lumps occur on the back, neck, shoulders, and the abdominal wall. Sometimes they are found in the joints or in the fat deposited around the knees or hips. In these situations they are easily removed, but when they grow in the kidneys or other vital organs they present a real problem. They are seldom painful unless their very size causes pressure upon a nerve filament or, as is occasionally the case, when the growth itself is connected with a nerve.

These tumors may be confused with what is known as adiposa dolorosa or Dercum's disease, which is characterized by symmetrical deposits of fat in various parts of the body. This condition is accompanied by pain, general debility, and psychic disturbances, and is found more frequently in women than in men. For the most part the fatty masses involve the abdomen and the extremities; the face is usually spared.

If small, fatty lipomata give no trouble they may be let alone. However, if they are subject to irritation, spoil one's looks, or interfere with body movements because of their size, it is well to remove them surgically. A local anesthetic only will be required in most instances. Now and then a tumor on the back of the neck, the scalp, or between the shoulders will produce an apparent deformity. Inasmuch as the operation is easy and attended with very little danger in the hands of a skilled surgeon these growths may be regarded with complacency.

DILATED HEART.

Mrs. B. W. writes:

1. Can a dilated heart valve cause irregular heart beat?

2. Would a dilated valve give a person a "stuffed" feeling in the heart region?

3. Can a person with such a heart ailment live a normal, active life?

REPLY.

1. Heart valves themselves do not dilate; they may stretch or become distorted. At any rate, the state of a heart valve cannot control the heart beat. Whether the beat is regular or irregular depends upon the heart muscle and the intricate nerve mechanism that controls the rhythm [rate and regularity].

2. Whenever a valve in the heart leaks and thus permits blood to flow backward, too little may be dispatched to the muscles, etc. of the body. After a time, shortness of breath may become a prominent symptom. This is probably the "stuffy" feeling you complain of.

3. Within limits. The final test is the power of the heart muscle. Every patient with symptoms of heart failure should be under the observation of a skilled physician.

COD LIVER OIL.

Miss G. K. writes: I recently read that some research workers are beginning to doubt the efficacy of cod liver oil as a diet supplement, and that some goats fed the oil developed serious heart disorders. I have been taking a preparation of halibut and cod liver oil with viosterol for the past two months as a tonic. Should viosterol be taken only under a doctor's prescription? Is there any possibility that cod liver oil might be harmful instead of beneficial?

REPLY.

It is seldom wise to take any sort of tonic, medicine, or drug, except under the supervision of a competent physician. So much has been said about "vitamins" that I am afraid some of us may become dependent on them. These food elements are of great value when needed, but 98 persons out of 100 have all the required vitamins in the average balanced diet.

There is no danger, however, in taking the average amount of cod liver oil daily.

GROWING HAIR.

G. T. H. writes: What effect would the daily injection of pituitary gland extract for growing hair have on an overweight woman about 50 years old?

REPLY.

If the patient is overweight there may be some glandular disturbance. Only a first class endocrinologist should handle this case.

Pituitary extract—formerly used for growing hair—has been discarded as a routine treatment. There may be certain cases, however, in which the drug is of value.

If the dosage is not carefully guarded, abdominal cramps—which may be severe—may develop.

NEARSIGHTEDNESS.

M. D. writes: Is it possible for a person who suffers from nearsightedness to obtain a position as motorman? I wear glasses.

REPLY.

Your question should be directed to the street railway company. Most industrial firms require prospective employés to undergo a thorough medical examination, but in only a few occupations is nearsightedness considered incapacitating.

Patriotic Societies

Six patriotic organizations are being investigated by the Black senate committee, the inquisitorial limb of the New Deal. The history and accomplishments of these societies have been related in THE TRIBUNE. Questionnaires sent out by the Black inquisition also demand data on sums contributed to "all other organizations of like or similar character." It appears that at least three other groups might come under that classification—the American Vigilant Intelligence federation, the Paul Reveres, and the National Security league. Today's story deals with the first of these.

The American Vigilant Intelligence federation was founded in 1919 and claims to be "the oldest continuous anti-subversive organization in the United States."

Organized by a group of seven Chicagoans, most of them officers in the army reserves, the federation was incorporated in 1927, not for profit, by Lieut. Col. E. M. Hadley, national president of the Paul Reveres; Col. John E. Van Natta, former judge advocate general of the reserve officers' association, and Harry A. Jung, now the federation's honorary general manager.

A statement of aims and principles of the organization, which Jung says represents its policy since it was founded, declares that the federation's purposes are:

"To combat and counteract the insidious work of anti-American propagandists.

"To combat and counteract the efforts of anti-American organizations which are expending huge sums to destroy American institutions and to create a socialistic or communistic world government.

"To combat and counteract the rule of insidious minorities, burocracies, and lawless elements.

"To refrain from being a party to any religious, political, or racial controversy unless such controversy contains a political element that is inimical to American liberty and American civilization."

The federation publishes two periodicals: a monthly magazine called the Vigilante, and a weekly, Items of Interest on the Patriotic Front. They report on the current activities of communists and from time to time print biographical sketches of men and women engaged in subversive activities.

If the Black inquisitors are searching for criticism of the New Deal they might find it in one of the federation's publications which compares the communist and socialist platforms with the New Deal program and purports to find many similarities.

"The American Vigilant Intelligence federation is definitly anti-New Deal," Jung declares. "It has fought radicalism of all sorts since its founding."

The federation does not list its officers, save for Jung, the honorary general manager—"honorary because I serve without salary," he explains. "I am not authorized to reveal the names of the other officers."

Jung also took occasion to deny that the federation is anti-Semitic. "There is no foundation for that rumor," he said. "The communists are responsible for it."

Annual dues for membership in the federation are $5. Those wishing to join may address their applications to postoffice box 144, Chicago.

[Tomorrow The Tribune will print the story of the Paul Reveres.]

NEVADA DIVORCES.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I have watched the papers carefully trying to learn what Judge Nelson's decision was on the Jardine case. In this case a young lady who had been divorced and then remarried in Reno, Nev., had come to Chicago, her legal residence, and petitioned for annulment of her marriage on the ground that it was invalid in Illinois because Reno divorces are not recognized here. Her husband contested the action. 2. The case was the first test case of the Illinois attitude toward Reno divorces. 3. Please advise if the decision on the case was published. 4. Also, what is the law at present relating to the length of time that payment of alimony is mandatory? C. M.

1. The trial court decision was reported in The Tribune of Jan. 26.

2. We would say that you are wrong on this point. Janssen vs. Janssen, 269 Ill. App. 233, is an Illinois case in which a Nevada divorce was held invalid. Other cases are discussed in that opinion.

3. The Nevada divorce was held similarly in the Jardine case.

4. There is no statutory limit as to the payment of alimony after divorce, but there is a qualified two year limit for separate maintenance.

Three cases from other jurisdictions holding Nevada decrees void during the past year are: [1] Holt vs. Holt, 64 App. D. C. 280, relying on the fact that the complainant's sole purpose in going to Nevada was to procure a divorce. The court said "since control of the matrimonial status lies in the law of the domicile of the parties to the marriage, the decrees so casually granted by a few of our states to sojourners, tourists and birds of passage have no extraterritorial validity"; [2] Prime vs. Hinton, 244 App. Div. [N. Y.] 181, in which the wife, by fraud, induced the husband to appear in the Nevada suit for jurisdictional purposes; [3] Mills vs. Mills, 119 Conn. 612, in which it was held that the complainant's intention of remaining in Reno if he could find work was not sufficient. The court said: "The domicile of a person is the place which he has voluntarily selected for his habitation, not for a mere temporary or special purpose, but with the present intention of making it his home."

In Bergeron vs. Bergeron, decided Sept. 15, 1934, by the Massachusetts Supreme court, a Mexican divorce was held invalid, although the wife had contracted another marriage in reliance on the decree.

We advise a person who contemplates going to a foreign state for a divorce to first get the advice of a disinterested lawyer in the home state. Do not rely on advertising, on news articles, nor on the claims of a lawyer who makes his living out of exploiting such cases. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GEMUETLICHKEIT IN MILWAUKEE.

Brodhead, Wis., Jan. 26.—I was bred, born, and raised a Republican. I am not in sympathy with the Socialist party, but when you "take a poke" at Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee you show your class hatred very plainly. He has done much splendid constructive work, and twenty years' service shows that Milwaukee is appreciative of him. MRS. MINNIE COLLINS.

THE IMPOUNDED TAXES.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—If the Supreme court had the brains I gave them credit for having they would have applied all the processing taxes to reducing the national debt. Then every one would have benefited and no squawks anywhere. They could have found a way. E. A. COBURN.

ORCHIDS.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Orchids to the newsboys who so faithfully delivered morning papers during the bitter cold spell we have experienced here in Chicago the past week. No matter the weather, we always find our TRIBUNE at the door every morning. TESS WILLIAMS.

PAYMENT IN KIND.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—As a sucker stockholder in Middle West I suggest that they pay these hard working, industrious lawyers in stock. I am sure they would appreciate this, as they would not fight for the life of a company that had no assets. STOCKHOLDER.

THEY DIDN'T WAIT.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 27.—Do you suppose that after they have squelched the Supreme court and set aside the bill of rights the powers at Washington will lay plans to tax Americans on the purchase of such things as tea? E. H. TAYLOR.

IT MUST BE THE WEATHER.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Why, O why do so many broadcasters say "artic" and "antartic"? It is fully as bad as that other atrocity, "constitooshun." MARGARET THOMPSON.

NO JOBS FOR NEWCOMERS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Just recently I was in Detroit seeking employment. I went to several factory employment offices. The first question they asked me was if I lived in Detroit, and as I didn't I told them so. I was informed that I would have to be a resident of Detroit for one year before I could get employment there.

Though I was very much disappointed I still think they have the right system. HERBERT E. JACOBSON.

NEW STREET CARS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Why not let the surface lines buy new and fast equipment? Lord knows they need replacements and should have had them years ago, especially on the Elston avenue line, where it takes anywhere from 50 minutes to 1 hour and 20 minutes to go from Crawford and Elston avenues to Randolph and Dearborn streets. This run should take no longer than 35 minutes at the most. This morning it took from 8:10 to 9:25 to make the above run. A. H. HOLLAND.

MAINE TOWNSHIP.

Park Ridge, Ill., Jan. 25.—Your article in the sport section of this morning's TRIBUNE refers to the "Maine Township High school of Chicago." The Maine Township High school is not "of Chicago," but is the high school of the cities of Park Ridge and Des Plaines, and has nothing to do with Chicago. Incidentally, the Maine Township High school's swimming team have been state champions for several years, which was not mentioned. R. E. B.

STREET NAMES.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—In the proposed change of thirteen street names the council did not plan changing the name of Lincoln street. I would suggest that this street be changed to Lincolnshire avenue. This would avoid confusion with Lincoln avenue and still preserve the name of Lincoln on the street. I also think the council should change Marquette avenue to eliminate confusion with the boulevard of the same name. J. BROWN.

PULL.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—I am a young man looking for work the last two years. I have finally awakened to the fact that you needn't be out of work one hour if you have a drag with the politicians of this city. I know several young men who got positions in large companies that way. I have always looked for work on my own merits and things must be in an awful shape to have to beg your alderman to get you a position. FRANK MINGEY.

CAPITALS.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—As I see it, capital letters are used mostly to attach dignity to a particular world. Many languages use capitals sparingly or not at all. If other languages can function without capitals, so can ours, thereby eliminating 21 rules for the use of capitals. STUDENT.

WON'T THE NEIGHBORS HELP?

Forest Park, Ill., Jan. 28.—Here in Forest Park is a young boy who will be taken out of high school this term because his folks can't afford carfare. The family is trying to live on $55 a month earned by an older son. Why couldn't the city issue free passes to such boys or girls? LINDA PARKER.

PERHAPS YOU'RE RIGHT.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Thank you, Mr. Gould, for bringing the drug store to the eye of the people in Dick Tracy of Jan. 24, but allow me to correct an error in the spelling of prescriptions. You spell it perscriptions. FELIX C. HERBSTMAN, R. PH. C.

QUIP.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Senator Robinson speaks of Jacob with hands disguised as Esau's, but he says nothing about Esau, who, consciously or otherwise, barters his countrymen's birthright of freedom for a mess of patronage. VICTOR ELVING.

REQUEST.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Will you kindly clarify your New Deal and Roosevelt baiting activities with the silent approval of the Kelly-Nash Tammany if you can? PUZZLED READER.

A FAIR QUESTION.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Do you think the Democratic party will have a candidate for the presidency this year? X.

HOUSE UPHOLDS SUPREME COURT IN REPEAL VOTE

Three Farm Acts Killed by Wide Margin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—An onslaught upon the Supreme court by house radicals today transformed a perfunctory vote upon repeal of three agricultural bills into a test of sentiment in congress on the high court's recent nullification of important New Deal laws.

The result was a crushing defeat for those advocating limitation of the court's power to declare laws unconstitutional. Only ten members voted against repeal of the acts after a plea had been voiced by Representative Vito Marcantonio, New York City radical, to vote "no" as a protest against the Supreme court.

Meanwhile the administration's stop-gap farm relief program, based on soil conservation with benefit payments was "re-written" by the senate committee on agriculture late today and placed in position to be taken up on the floor of that chamber tomorrow.

Five Are Democrats.

Five Democrats, three Wisconsin Progressives, and one Farmer-Laborite, in addition to Marcantonio, who was nominally a Republican, registered in accord with the shouted house demand to "destroy the judicial oligarchy." An overwhelming majority of 351 members voted the other way and all the loud talk about the court's "usurpation of power" immediately died away to an almost inaudible whisper.

Those who voted against the court were Marcantonio, Joseph P. Monaghan [Dem., Mont.]; Thomas R. Amlie [Prog., Wis.]; Bernard J. Gehrmann [Prog., Wis.]; Gardner R. Withrow [Prog., Wis.]; Maury Maverick [Dem., Tex.]; Theodore L. Moritz [Dem., Pa.]; John H. Kerr [Dem., N. C.]; Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.]; and John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.].

O'Connor's presence among the others who are all known as the most extreme of the left wingers in the house was a surprise. He explained briefly that it was his rule never to vote to repeal an act congress has passed. "I think the G. O. P. has got the Democratic party in a spot on this action," he remarked.

Roosevelt Support Cited.

The vote was preceded by a debate which found Democrats insisting that President Roosevelt had never advocated any of the three acts in question: The Bankhead cotton control act, the tobacco control bill, and the Warren potato act.

The majority leaders were embarrassed when Representative Clifford R. Hope [Rep., Kas.] dug into the records and brought up a hitherto unpublished letter by the President to the house committee on agriculture in which the chief executive urged passage of the Bankhead act.

In the letter, dated Feb. 16, 1934, the President wrote to Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the committee that "my study of the various methods suggested leads me to believe that the Bankhead bill in principle best covers the situation."

Marcantonio's tirade against the Supreme court was the high point of the discussion.

"This is an issue as to whether or not the congress will acknowledge the right of the Supreme court to declare laws unconstitutional," he shouted. "I, for one, believe that the court has made a violent usurpation of power in seizing such a right. In repealing these laws today, on the basis of the Supreme court's AAA decision, we are abjectly and supinely surrendering our power to legislate.

"It is a complete surrender on the part of congress and on the part of the President. I ask you to vote against the repeal of these laws as a protest against the Supreme court. Are you going to kneel to this judicial oligarchy or stand up and defend the power of congress to pass its own laws?"

This speech was followed up by Monaghan who exhorted his colleagues to cast a vote which would uphold the "honor" of congress.

"We must destroy this oligarchy!" he yelled, referring to the court.

"Those nine old men have no more learning or education than we have!"

Laid to Roosevelt.

Representative Hope laid responsibility for passage of the Bankhead act squarely at the President's door.

"Even the Democratic members of the committee on agriculture were dubious about the bill until the President's letter was sent," he declared. "Then their attitude changed. I think every member of the committee knew two years ago that the act was unconstitutional."

Representative Charles W. Tobey [Rep., N. H.] termed the President's advocacy of the repeal of the three acts "a deathbed repentance."

Suggests Epitaph.

"I suggest," he said, amidst the laughter of the house, "that a tombstone be erected on the lawn in front of Secretary Wallace's building with the inscription: 'Hic Jacet Three Un-American Pieces of Legislation.' On the other side of the stone there might be the epitaph which was found on the grave of a little child in New Hampshire: 'I was so soon done for! What I was begun for?'"

Representative Robert F. Rich [Rep., Pa.], drew groans from the Democratic majority when he declared that President Roosevelt was following up the suggestion of Al Smith to "throw the alphabet out the window."

"The President is doing exactly what Al Smith recommended," Rich asserted. "Al said to throw the alphabet out the window three letters at a time. The President is going him one better, throwing them out three acts at a time."

"Throw Out G. O. P., Too."

The discomfited Democrats yelled at Rich:

"Throw the G. O. P. out too."

Taking the floor, Representative L. T. Marshall [Rep., O.], remarked that the President, for the first time, was living up to his promise to be the first one to admit that he had been wrong in any of his acts.

"The country should take heart," he declared. "It is an indication that we are returning to sanity."

In defense of the President, Majority Leader William B. Bankhead, [Dem., Ala.] asserted that Roosevelt had only advocated the Bankhead bill when advised that a majority of cotton producers were in favor of it.

Methods "Justified."

The President's case was concluded by Representative Jones.

"Whatever you may say about methods used, they were justified," he declared. "The country was in despair and something had to be done. Regardless of the fact that we adopted a method that could not be sustained, we are going to find another one. We do not apologize. We did the best we could."

LABOR IS OPPOSED TO CURRENCY INFLATION; WILL ASK WAGE HIKES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement opposing agitation for currency inflation, declared tonight that labor would insist on wage increases immediately.

Currency inflation questions are "of grave importance to labor," Green declared, adding that inflation "will seriously affect the economic and social welfare of the masses of the people."

Green's statement, issued by authority of the federation's executive committee, said that "an increase in the price of articles which enter into living costs is bound to follow the inauguration of currency inflation."

MINE WORKERS PASS RESOLUTION RAPPING THE LIBERTY LEAGUE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers' convention flailed the American Liberty league today as "selfish in its aims, un-American in its methods and purposes, and inimical to the welfare of the people of the United States."

In a resolution the convention said the league "primarily represented millionaires and multimillionaires who have piled up fortunes while denying their employés the right to organize."

"Reactionary and predatory interests are now ganging up in the league against any labor or social legislation," the resolution added.

"The lawyers' committee has attacked the Guffey coal act, the Wagner act, and other social justice measures, to encourage injunctions and to influence the courts."

COURT APPROVES $16,000 FEE FOR DRAKE DEFENSE

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday approved an agreement whereby Attorneys George Crane and Edward J. Hess are to receive $16,000 for their services as counsel to the 41 defendants in the Drake estate mail fraud trial. The trial ended last Friday with the conviction of eight of the defendants who are now awaiting sentence.

The $16,000, Judge Sullivan was informed, is part of a total of $78,000 which was found in possession of the defendants at the time of their arrest and was impounded by the government.

Against the $78,000 the government filed an assignment to satisfy a part of the income tax of $144,772 which it alleges is due from Oscar M. Hartzell, chief promoter of the Drake swindle and one of the eight convicted. Yesterday, however, Assistant United States Attorney E. Riley Campbell told Judge Sullivan that Otto G. Yant one of the defendants, previously assigned $34,000 of the $78,000 to Attorneys Crane and Hess. The government, Campbell said, was willing to release $16,000 of this sum as the fees for Crane and Hess and the two defense attorneys had agreed to accept that as full payment.

DILLINGER'S GIRL FRIEND BACK HOME ON RESERVATION

Keshena, Wis., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Evelyn Frechette, girl friend of John Dillinger before he died a gangster's death, was back on the bleak Menominee reservation here today, shielded from prying eyes by her people, the Indians.

In the tiny white house of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Warrington, her relatives, the 27 year old Evelyn settled down to four months of seclusion. She was placed on probation to the Warringtons by Michigan prison officials after her parole from the state institution at Milan where she was sentenced for harboring Dillinger.

Mrs. Warrington said that she and Evelyn's Indian friends would protect her from the "outside world."

"Evelyn has been through a lot," she said, talking to a reporter, as she cautiously held her door only partly open. "No, she's out and doesn't want to do or say a thing which might be construed as a violation of her parole. That's why she came up home on the reservation, where she'd be among her own people.

"Evelyn doesn't know what she'll do later. But she'll be here for four months, and after that—well, she may go back to Chicago."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Subzero Farm Problems.

February 5, 1936.

MIDWINTER hazards are increasing daily on the Tribune Experimental farms where hundreds of head of live stock must be regularly fed and watered. The ground is frozen to unusual depths on both farms. Miniature mountain chains of snow have formed in drifts along fence rows. Blocked roads made it impossible to get in touch with the Yorkville farm Tuesday and today excepting by telephone.

Snow drifts are more than nine feet deep in many spots at the Yorkville place. A water pipe four feet under ground is plugged with ice in several spots. The pipe line was first laid thirty-five years ago and men on the farm say that, so far as they know, this is the first time it ever was frozen.

Since the under ground pipe became frozen several days ago, it has been necessary to use a surface pipe to carry water from the windmill to a tank at one of the cattle barns 190 feet away, where 142 steers are fed. After the tank is filled the pipe is promptly drained to avoid freezing.

Two weeks ago thermometers dropped to 26 degrees below zero at the Yorkville farm. Late yesterday afternoon the temperature took a sudden drop and was down to 18 below this morning. At midnight men at the farm went out and shut off the hydraulic ram and drained out the pipes to insure a constant water supply for 280 head of steers. The pump was started again this morning. This morning there was ice twenty inches thick on a tank supplied by a nearby spring. The tank is not in use at the present time and is not heated, as is the case with other water tanks on the farm.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the Yorkville farm, says frost has penetrated the ground to a depth of at least thirty inches, even where the surface is covered with a blanket of snow. He is looking for a practical farm method of thawing out underground water pipes without digging them out.

Mr. Thurow says the highway in front of his home is frozen so hard that on the bare spots there are surface cracks a half inch deep, going down in some places to a depth of more than a foot. Where the snow is not blown off the fields it prevents the frozen rich top soil from blowing away. Great quantities of soil are blown away in winter where the fields are bare, and especially where the ground has been fall plowed. The snow, which is at least a foot deep where it is not drifted, is serving as a valuable protective covering for newly seeded crops on the farm.

* * *

During the recent frigid weather it has been necessary to increase the steers' allowance of corn. There are 220 head, eating about 22 pounds of shelled corn each day.

A carload of the "top" steers were selected today from the 142 head in group No. 1 and will be sold on the Chicago market tomorrow morning. These steers are in fine condition for slaughter. They are expected to weigh nearly 1,000 pounds each.

Anticipating a tieup of the highways, Mr. Thurow ordered railway cars in advance and had them shunted off on the sidetrack at Fox station, ready for use on short notice. The whitefaces were loaded late this afternoon.

The Judge knows—the Attorneys are discovering why no other whiskey can be as mellow as Four Roses

IF YOU NOTICE whiskey labels, you know there are three different kinds of whiskey to choose from: straight whiskey that's unblended; whiskey blended with neutral spirits; and a blend of straight whiskies and nothing but straight whiskies.

Which is best? It's our own sincere conviction—based on 70 years' experience in producing top-quality American whiskies—that the finest whiskey of all is an expert blend of all straight, all American whiskies—every drop made in the United States. In other words, that the finest whiskey of all is Four Roses!

There are two easy ways to prove this. First, by taste. Just try Four Roses and we believe you'll agree that there's never been a whiskey that could match it for mellow flavor, for throat-caressing smoothness.

Second, logic proves that your palate is right. Every straight whiskey—even the very finest—has its own special characteristic—something extra in bouquet, or body, or flavor. By blending several fine straight whiskies the way we've learned how to blend them, we get a whiskey mellower, more noble than any of the separate whiskies could be alone. We combine in Four Roses all the virtues a whiskey-lover seeks.

This is not news to old-timers. And it's no longer news to a lot of other men... that the best whiskey is a blend of all straight, all American whiskies... and its name is Four Roses!

The price of Four Roses in full pints is $1.59

TWO RACE STORK BY HORSEBACK TO REACH HOSPITALS

Get There First After Trips in Bitter Cold.

Canton, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Two women in unrelated cases literally beat the stork today by only a jump or two of the horses they rode to Canton in 13 below zero temperature. Both gave birth to babies at a local hospital a few minutes after their arrival.

With the help of relatives and neighbors, the women, Mrs. Harry Downing and Mrs. Laverne Welch, made the emergency journey here by automobile, wagon, bobsled and on horseback. The various means of conveyance were necessitated by deep snowdrifts which blocked or even obscured the roads.

Despite part of the trip being made on horseback in each case, it was said the mothers and the infants were "doing nicely" at the hospital.

Snowplows Win Race.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—County snowplows raced the stork and won here today. As a result, Dr. G. R. Herkimer of Kalamazoo was on hand at the home of Gage Hippensteel, south of here, when a 10 pound baby boy was born to Mrs. Hippensteel.

With roads made impassable for automobiles by snowdrifts, Bill Sullivan, a neighbor of the Hippensteels, walked to town at 4 a. m. to summon the doctor. A county snowplow was ordered out to clear the way for the physician and he reached the home shortly before the baby arrived.

Stranded for Hours in Snow.

Keokuk, Ia., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. John Blessing of Kahoka, Mo., narrowly escaped having to give birth to her baby in an automobile stuck in the snow seven miles west of here this morning.

She and her husband were driving along an isolated, country road before sunrise when their automobile skidded off the road. In 20 below zero weather they prepared for the delivery of the child in the car.

After several hours, during which time both Blessing and his wife were frostbitten, a bakery truck came by. Blessing hailed the driver, placed his wife in the back of the truck and brought her to a Keokuk hospital. An 8 pound girl was born shortly after their arrival.

Icely had been a practicing attorney in Chicago since 1909. In 1910 and 1911 he was an assistant United States attorney. He was also a former assistant state's attorney and an assistant school board attorney. Besides his widow, he is survived by two daughters.

U.S.Claims $99,255 Income Taxes from Maloy Estate

A claim of $99,255 against the estate of Thomas E. Maloy, czar of the movie operators' union, who was slain by gunmen on Feb. 4, 1935, was filed in Probate court yesterday. The claim was filed by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue for the First United States district, and alleged that Maloy owed that amount in unpaid income taxes and interest. Maloy was indicted on Jan. 25, 1934, for income tax evasion. He died intestate, and letters of administration issued to his widow indicated that his estate amounted to less than $2,000.

CIGARET MONEY FOR VANDERBILT "GIRL" REFUSED

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Surrogate James A. Foley held today that money which Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt spent in November and December for cigarets and mineral waters was "plainly spent for the individual use of the mother" and refused to permit the items to be charged against her daughter's estate.

Until this year Mrs. Vanderbilt was allowed $2,850 a month out of her daughter's estate to maintain her home and to provide for Gloria Laura Morgan Vanderbilt, now 12 years old and in the custody of her paternal aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Vanderbilt advised the surrogate that expenses last November and December had exceeded her allowance for those months by $4,477 and she asked to be reimbursed. Included in these extra expenses were a number of charges for cigarets and mineral waters. With respect to the latter Mrs. Vanderbilt insisted that "my daughter does drink mineral water and ginger ale."

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Jack Benny was considerably surprised when he learned that he had won the radio editors' annual poll again this year. Passing through Chicago yesterday on his way from California to New York, Jack stated that he learned of the distinction in Monday's TRIBUNE delivered aboard the coast train on the way here. Last year he admitted he had hopes of winning [as he did], but this year, what with a lot of changes in his program's personnel and sniping from the critics, he didn't expect to repeat.

If Benny is at all worried by Eddie Cantor's moving into a CBS period at the time he is on NBC he didn't show it.

"After all," he explained, "we have both boosted our Crossley rating [a leading listeners' survey] since Cantor moved."

Benny admitted that his broadcasts probably haven't in general been as good this season as last. He doesn't know exactly why. Fact that Frank Parker left the program probably had something to do with it. But now that Kenny Baker, who was with Benny yesterday, is fitting into their setup, they seem to be regaining their old stride again.

Benny won't admit that his script writers aren't all they might be this year. "They were too good, too lucky last year," he said. "They just couldn't keep it up without a break. And anyway, folks don't appreciate you if you're good all the time. It's better to drop back a little and then come back again."

Jack will be a guest on Fred Allen's program next Wednesday. In speaking of this he told a nifty story about Fred. Allen has been advised by his physician not to go back to Hollywood next summer, but to get some rest."

"It seems my blood pressure is higher than my Crossley rating," Allen said in breaking the news to the west coast.

Ray Perkins amateur hour is to move to W-G-N-Mutual from CBS on Feb. 23. Program will be heard from 5 to 5:30 Sundays as it is now. Sponsor will promote aspirin instead of a laxative as at presnt. Arnold Johnson's orchestra will be used.

Charlie Newman, harmonica wizard who is now headlined with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, was discovered by Horace Heidt on the west coast. Heidt used him on his present commercial series when it was aired from the west coast. Snooney [Barbara Blair], the whimsical waif of Waring's show, is to leave the program in a few weeks. Reported she has another sponsor lined up.

Alec Templeton, the blind pianist and impersonator of Jack Hylton's troupe, will give a program for 500 students at the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, 1900 South Marshall boulevard, next Monday evening. Blind since birth Templeton will explain to students similarly handicapped how he learned to play.

Red Hodgson, who perpetrated "Music Goes Round and Round, was initiated by Circus Saints and Sinners at the Blackstone hotel last night. Thorne Donnelly is president of the organization. . . . Tommy Tucker, the "song wizard" from Walt Disney's studios, will make a guest appearance with Uncle Bob Wilson at 5:30 over WIND tomorrow. . . . Your Hit Parade, with some possible changes in talent, will move from Saturday night to 10 p. m. Wednesdays, March 11, on NBC.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

A soap sensation, recommended especially to the woman with dry skin, is a new super-fatted facial soap, so inexpensive it can be used for the bath, and so bland it is an ideal winter cleansing agent. Other bland soaps, created especially for a Chicago shop, are buttermilk, honey and almond, cleansing cream and oatmeal—all good guardians of skin softness.

"It isn't the cold weather—it's the soap!" We're always tempted to make this play on the old and dishonored heat and humidity gag when, as happens every day since this cold "snap," men and women alike rush up with anguished cries about chapped, madly itching skin.

And like a lot of gags this one is very near the truth. Harsh soaps are harder on the epidermis than harsh winds—and the two together are a combination designed to annihilate comfort and complexion alike.

* * *

All this is by way of leading up to a special plea on our part: Use a bland soap in the winter time if you have to walk ten miles to find a cake that falls in that classification. A soap that's mild and creamy, that fulfills its function of a cleansing agent but at the same time doesn't sap your skin of the precious oil it needs in winter more than at any other time, should be your cold weather soap choice.

You don't have to walk the ten miles for it; neither do you have to pay a fancy price. Right now, here in town, you'll find some bland soaps that are downright astonishing for their quality and their inexpensiveness. One shop has them—five different kinds of 'em, and a dozen cakes cost very little; a single cake costs a couple of nickels. They're called facial soaps but they're easily inexpensive enough to use for the bath.

* * *

If your skin is so dry it always cries for oil, and bleeds and cracks when the cold winds blow, take a tip from us and try the "super-fatted" soap, made especially for extremely dry skins. You'll think you're laving those tortured hands of yours in cream instead of soap. This is a soap sensation, we think.

Or, if you prefer, choose the oatmeal soap, white and creamy, with actual flakes of the soothing meal imbedded in the cake. Honey and almond is another bland combination we can recommend for the sensitive skin; these cakes are pink.

You might choose the buttermilk soap, or the one with a cleansing cream base. In any case you'll have found a soap that guards the softness of your skin, come hot winds or cold. You'll like everything about these soaps, the blandness, the price and the clean fragrance. And you'll certainly like the way they soothe as they cleanse.

Hosiery Ideas Keep Fashion's Speedy Pace

BY RHEA SEEGER.

So far the hosiery thinker-uppers are running trick to trick with the dizziest new brain waves of the versatile hat designers. For instance, only a sincerely sympathetic soul would present dark heels in time for the annual spring freshets, the sloppy time of the year when even the most careful pedestrian arrives at home base with ankle areas considerably spattered in measle pattern.

Black heeled stockings not only skin down a plump ankle better than any other trick, but also hide the spotted evidence of a hard day in town.

* * *

The grand new colors provide the last gasp. For the navy blue enthusiast there are the newest gray-blue chiffons with deep navy blue heels, a combine that is perfect in understanding with all your navy blue clothes as well as some of the newest tones of gray.

Then for the mink coated or beige minded clothes collector there is a stunning new shade called carnival. It's a glowing copper tone and boasts deep brown slenderizing heels. The name of the navy blue arrival is "West Point"—not to be contrary but because the gray-blue of the stocking itself is the same color as a West Point uniform.

For the practical shopper who buys a shade in stockings to go with everything she wears, ask for Nu Taupe with black heels, and it does go with any shade or color you wear, especially with prints, with blacks, with gray, with wine, and all agree that it has a magic flattering tint that is hard to equal.

Last but just as important as the Nu Taupe color, and especially concocted for the many discriminating buyers of black clothes trimmed with brown, a subtle and unusual contrast, there is Yama, a lovely brown tone with black heels. Wear this combine with your black coats trimmed with brown fur, with your black dresses with tobacco brown costume accents, or with those transparent silk rubber raincoats of pale brown matched to the same color in the umbrella.

HEY, BUNNY, LOOKIT! Can you read readin'? Says here there's a brand-new kind of soap chips. Fels-Naptha Soap Chips—the first and only chips to have real naptha in 'em. They make washing lots quicker'n easier. Let's go tell Mom—so she can get some right now!

Winter Sports Hold Interest of Chicagoans

Group to Attend Carnival in Michigan.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WINTER sports will occupy the attention of quite a number of Chicago folk this week-end, for Michigan's 9th annual Winter Sports carnival will attract some to Petoskey, and another party of enthusiasts is planning to go to Eagle River in northern Wisconsin. And two eastern colleges are having winter carnivals tomorrow and Saturday, so, of course, there will be numerous Chicago girls among the fair visitors to the two colleges, Dartmouth and Cornell.

Michigan's carnival will last ten days but the party of Chicagoans that is leaving tomorrow night on the "Snow Train" plans to stay only for the week-end for the young men have to be back at work on Monday morning. In the party will be Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and her sister, Mrs. William Waller Jr., Miss Virginia Waller, William Waller III., the former Winifred Wheeler and her husband, Henry L. McIntyre, Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen, Charles Bloomfield and Nelson L. Barnes, Jr.

The Wheeler and Waller families have summer places at Harbor Point so they are familiar with all the northern Michigan towns. The members of both families are real winter sporters, too, for the McIntyres, Miss Waller and her brother and Mrs. Wheeler's son, Robert T. Wheeler, spent part of the Christmas holidays at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks.

Probably some Chicago winter sports enthusiasts will be going to Petoskey next week-end, too, for the carnival ends then with a grand ball on Friday and a Mardi Gras on the ice rink the following evening. Gov. Fitzgerald of Michigan will preside at the coronation of the 1936 Winter Queen tomorrow night and the Winter King will be crowned Saturday night of this week.

Three Not Anxious for Subzero Days.

The three young women of the party that is going to Eagle River have been watching the thermometer go down with concern and they are hoping that the weather man is right when he predicts that the cold wave will continue only through tomorrow for none of them is exactly a winter sports devotee.

They think that skiing, skating, and tobogganing are very pleasant when the thermometer is well above the zero mark, but few city dwellers, at least feminine ones, find winter sports of any sort alluring when the thermometer is around zero or lower. And Mrs. John Root, Mrs. Paget Cady, and Mrs. Peter Connor are not among those few who "love subzero weather" although they are afraid their husbands are.

These three young matrons have been busy for the last few days buying or borrowing all the paraphernalia they will need for their week-end expedition and tomorrow evening they will leave with their husbands and Samuel Insull Jr. and Tom Furness for the north. All those who already have enjoyed week-ends at Eagle River this winter have brought back tales of the grand roaring fires, the quantities of hot water and the entertaining games that may be played indoor.

Cornell Carnival to Open Tonight.

This year's carnival will be the Dartmouth Outing club's 26th annual winter sports affair, but it is the first carnival since the world war for Cornell. The Dartmouth one will be held

AFTER some weeks of enforced idleness, and therefore a little closer application to the magazines than usual, it has become forcibly impressed upon us that the fact that women are as sane as they are, and dress as conservatively as they do, shows them to be a sex endowed with singular strength of character. One issue of a magazine for which nearly every fashionable woman either subscribes or reads at her hairdresser's, gives exciting bits of advice. One is to be shod, adorned, and jacketed this spring in the styles of the epoch of Henry III. It gives details as to "puffy-crowned felt hats," neck ruffs, and shoes, "flat, blunt-toed, that come up high on the instep like a pantoufle. . . ."

Women's Fashions.

Turn over the page and what do you see? "You'll want to look vaguely Chinese" . . . wearing a "small neat, upstanding collar, straight, loose sleeves, reminiscent of prayerful hands, a slim shift of a dress, almost as Greek as Chinese."

"Dip your restless hands in color," counsels the fashion mentor. And again, "Drop jewels cascading from a widow's peak of gems" on your forehead. Put your "night-gadding" necessities in a folded gypsy kerchief that . . . achieves formal elegance without losing its vagabond spirit.

* *

SUPPOSE a woman were not sensible and discriminating. After looking through her late winter magazines she would start out on her new wardrobe. She might buy a twisted calico turban, fashioned after that of a washer-lady in Martinique, who "sets a pad on her own flattened bonnet . . . and sways down the road balancing the wash or a basket of chickens or crockery." She might next acquire a suit of blue denim, of the same material and vivid blue that the impoverished and violent-tempered Van Gogh wore when he painted in the Arlesian sunlight. [A Michigan avenue store displayed the suit, with a reproduction of Van Gogh's portrait of himself wearing the blue jeans, as a background for the costume.] Then, why not some Henry Third shoes that come up high on the instep like a pantoufle—whatever that is—and a dramatic ruff into which to bury her chin?

* *

IT is all pretty confusing. The net result on this reader, after learning about bolero jackets, and Chinese dresses almost as much Greek as Chinese, about Van Gogh colors in clothes and Henry Third puff sleeves and ruffs, was to telephone a favorite shop. We needed some clothes—a coat at least—but we didn't want to shop for it. Would she please make or order a plain loose, flaring, black wool coat, with perfectly plain sleeves and a little round collar? She said she would, and, sighing with relief, we put down the fashion magazines and resumed reading "Sherman, Fighting Prophet." And learned that Ulysses S. Grant's name was really Hiram Ulysses Grant. It seems that when Grant entered West Point his name was entered incorrectly on the books. The youngster indicated that he would like to have it right on the roll. But the registrars were military men, Lloyd Lewis explains, professional followers of written orders, and the congressman who had sent in the name had written Ulysses S. So Ulysses S. it remained.

Crush Greets N. Y. Premiere of Chaplin Film

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—For the first time, Charlie Chaplin opened his mouth and made noises on the screen tonight and crowds of tailcoated men and ermine wrapped women were there for the startling event.

The occasion was a gala premère of Chaplin's first picture since 1931, "Modern Times," at the Rivoli theater.

In the glare of lights on Broadway outside thousands pressed to stare at celebrities, seek their autographs, and even feel the texture of the evening gowns as the notables were escorted from their machines into the foyer.

A police emergency call was sounded and squads of patrolmen pushed the crowds back for two blocks.

Some of the notables were badly disarrayed when they gained their $5.50 seats.

* * *

About the picture, about which little had been known:

It was strictly a one man show, as all Chaplin pictures have been. The audience heard a background of Chaplin music, saw the master pantomimist revive some of his ancient yet almost forgotten gag situations, saw also his leading lady, Paulette Goddard.

Chaplin was the pathetic, fumbling, defeated character whom fate kicks all over the lot and snatches from disaster for the purpose of kicking a little more.

The theme of "Modern Times" is the enslavement of workers by machines, treated in a serio-comic manner.

The necessity for keeping up with his fellow workers and abreast of the menacing machinery in the factory causes Chaplin to have a nervous breakdown.

Losing his job, Chaplin lets coincidence and misfortune give him the usual terrific buffeting. In the course of it he falls in with a smudgy-faced gamin, Paulette, and from then on they get kicked around together.

The final shot shows them, after a brief period of comparative success, walking hand in hand down a road—a pair of hitch-hikers bound for nowhere in particular.

* * *

The high point of the film, at least that which received the biggest buildup and was drawn out to a pin point of intensity, was the scene in which Chaplin sang a few ditties.

Even then he made no complete surrender to the "talkies." He sang in an original Esperanto. Outside of that he made no noises at all.

* * *

The audience saw again the old Chaplin trick of careening around corners like a sloop in a stiff wind, his wistful smile and mock ballet dancing.

One of the biggest laugh-getters was a scene in which Chaplin was fed by machinery which did not work very well.

Good Morning!

"My! That picture certainly had me on my toes! Didn't it you?" the woman with the warm cheeks and alert eyes asked her slim blonde girl friend as they made their way down the stairs to the Roosevelt lounge for a cigaret.

"O, I guess it was all right," was the lackadaisical, enthusiasm quenching answer as the limp sister fumbled in her handbag for something or other. And I thought:

"If that isn't just the way with the world! The folks who care and the ones who just let things slide any old way.

"You find them everywhere. There's the girl behind the counter who waits on you interestedly, and to whom, from that time on you always give your order—and there's the other one who pets her bob and says, 'Sorry, Moddom, but we haven't any at present'."

Maybe she hasn't, but Moddom would feel a heap sight better about it if she'd made a motion or two as if she were looking to see if she had it. . . . You can do something about human nature that's either one thing or another. It's the wishwash that bogs you—and the schools and the government—clogging the wheels of progress with their indeterminate ooze. . . . Let's see, where was I . . .

O yes, about "Show Them No Mercy." . . . It's not a picture to sleep through or to "guess it's all right" about. It's a timely, believable melodrama dealing with the kidnaping racket; the relation of the kidnaper to other humans, and the successful efforts of the relentless G-man in bringing him to bay. It's a melodrama with sting, purpose—and enough comedy relief to keep it from becoming oppressive.

The action starts in a home that has been bereft of its son and heir.

To get their boy back is the only object of the relatives. They will hear to no "marked" money for fear that something may happen to Tom. . . . The government operatives protest, but in vain. Apparently in vain. You learn later that they have substituted government money with serial numbers which a child could spot, for the funds laboriously got together by the stricken family. . . .

Then the scene shifts to a rain deluged country road. It is night. A young couple and their baby have car trouble and seek refuge in an old vacant house—which they find surprisingly stocked with comforts of one sort and another. You've guessed it—the kidnapers' hideout.

And, pretty soon, along come the villains. . . .

The bravery of the young folks, and their peril, add a tense, sympathetic touch. The most vicious of the gang is all for killing them at once. The leader has other plans. He wants the husband to pass out some of the ransom bills and see if they get by without question. . . .

The plat works out skillfully, engrossingly to a satisfying finale.

The picture has lots of suspense and the characters all ring true. A cunning dog proves no slouch in doing his bit for the public welfare.

Merciless the criminal! Equally merciless his pursuer, the G-man! And smarter!

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Julius Saranack was murdered in his home, Hillfoot, near London. Eight uncut diamonds were stolen. Torrance Esdale was there the night he was murdered. She entered the house secretly to retrieve a letter she'd written Gerald Saranack, Julius' nephew, her childhood sweetheart. Gerald is expected next day with an English governess he'd married in Spain. Torrance had heard voices and, hiding, watched as a girl secreted jewels behind a brick in the fireplace. Next day Torrance meets the girl—she's Annabelle, Gerald's wife, though the couple arrived that morning from Paris. Gerald still loves Torrance, but has been taken in by Annabelle's apparent naiveness and need of protection. Torrance confides in her American employer, Hartlandt Massiter. Massiter learns that Julius Saranack is heir to the wealth of his friend, John Ellister, who had also been murdered on the same day, leaving Gerald next in line. Torrance accepts an invitation to visit Hillfoot and tries in vain to warn Gerald and shows him where the jewels are hidden—he turns them over to Annabelle. In Vanderlem, Annabelle's former employer, Torrance recognizes the rat-faced man who'd been Annabelle's accomplice. Gerald testifies at the inquest on his uncle. A car parked near Hillfoot the night of the murder was later seen at a nearby aerodrome. Suddenly Gerald realizes Annabelle could have flown from Paris to London and back in the six hours they'd been separated that night. To save him Torrance elopes with Gerald.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

ANNABELLE SEES THE POLICE.

Thereafter Heywood was given the illusion of taking charge. She successfully persuaded her mistress to keep up her strength by consuming the cutlets—agreed with her that it would be impossible for the house to be kept open. She was herself sufficiently overcome to be unsurprised when Mrs. Saranack produced from her bag enough money in notes to pay a month's wages to all the servants—with permission to stay overnight in the house.

"After she had taken her food, poor dear, she seemed to grow more clear-headed like," Heywood afterwards explained. The orders had certainly been very clear-headed.

"I shall go and lie down for a little and perhaps you will bring me some tea in my room at four. You must ring up all the tradesmen at once and tell them not to call for orders, as I shall be leaving tomorrow. And I think—as the police are here every day, it would be just as well to tell them too. If they ask where we are going, just say you don't know. I think you had better ring them up first."

This, a little before two. At two-thirty Heywood was compelled to disturb her mistress.

"There's Supt. Goulden downstairs, madam, and another gentleman, I think from Scotland Yard. When I told him he couldn't see you he wanted to know where Mr. Saranack was and I hadn't a word to say."

"How very unpleasant for you, Heywood! I'm so sorry. Put them in the dining room and tell them I'll be down in a few minutes."

Supt. Goulden introduced Detective-Inspector Hallicks of New Scotland Yard. Both men apologized for having disturbed her.

"When we received your message, Mrs. Saranack, about shutting up the house we wished to make some merely informal inquiries and we could have managed with Mr. Saranack or even Miss Esdale. But your maid refused to take them any message or tell us where they were."

An ideal cue and Annabelle used it.

"And I'm afraid I can't tell you either, Mr. Hallicks," she said with the necessary catch in her voice. "I think you'd better read this letter which I found waiting for me on the hall table when I came back to lunch."

Hallicks read the letter and handed it to the superintendent, who was embarrassed by the contents. But Hallicks was not the kind of a man who could be embarrassed in any circumstances.

"I'm very sorry we have to butt in after this tragic occurrence," he said. "I understand from this letter that they've gone without leaving you any address. You've only been married a short time, Mrs. Saranack?"

"Not a fortnight yet."

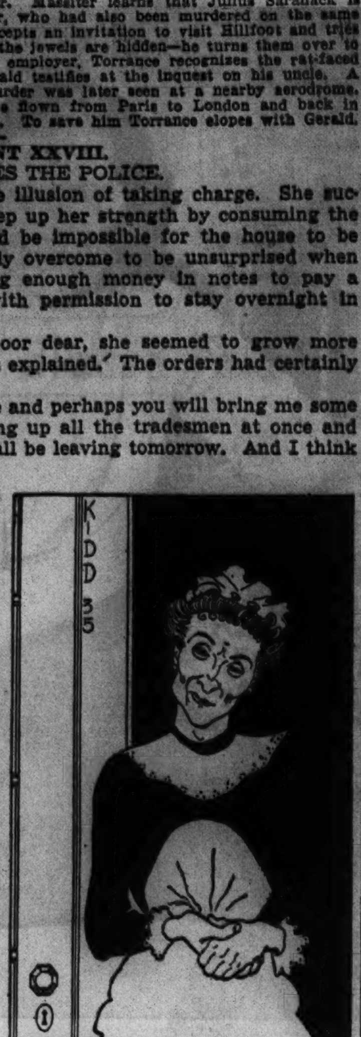
"And in that short time he has fallen in love with another woman?"

"Well, you see, he knew her before!" They were boy and girl together in this house, Mr. Hallicks," put in the superintendent.

"Very unusual, all the same!" said Hallicks. "Of course, it's no concern of ours as such—"

"I couldn't believe it at first!" cut in Annabelle. "I even thought it was a joke. But as I read the rest of that dreadful letter—I remembered things."

"Meaning you'd been suspicious of them together in the house here?" put in the superintendent and was scowled at by the detective.



"There's Supt. Goulden downstairs, madam."

"O, no!" Annabelle was very definite. "I wasn't suspicious that he was in love with Miss Esdale. I know it sounds absurd and just a spurned wife's vanity, but I don't believe it even now. I tell you, he positively seemed to dislike Miss Esdale. I don't mean this was done to deceive me, but once or twice I overheard them by mistake and they seemed to be quarreling."

"Well, that ought to make it all the more surprising to you that they've gone off together," put in the superintendent who was not under Hallick's discipline and intended to show it.

"Yes, it ought to, ought'nt it!" agreed Annabelle. "But somehow it doesn't. He has been so strange ever since we've been in England—irritable and absent-minded. For one thing, he used to spend hours in the study by himself. He was worried about something—and perhaps she can help him in some way."

"In what sort of way?"

"O, I don't know!" faltered Annabelle. "My tongue's been running on and I'm forgetting that I'm talking to the police. You really mustn't take any notice. I thought it was all fancy myself until one night before the inquest—O!"

Annabelle clapped her hand to her mouth like a guilty schoolgirl. The superintendent gaped but Hallicks was not as impressed as she had hoped. It looked as if he were going to be difficult.

"And what happened that night, Mrs. Saranack?" he asked mechanically.

"O nothing—nothing whatever! Nothing to do with my husband and Miss Esdale running away. Something quite different."

Annabelle fluttered and appealed to them prettily with her eyes to leave her alone. But Hallicks failed to observe the eye-play.

"If this unusual circumstance has nothing to do with Miss Esdale it may have something to do with us," he said.

"O, but it couldn't! The murder do you mean?" Hallicks waited. "How could it possibly—?"

"I don't mean as much as that, Mrs. Saranack."

Hallicks was very stolid and wooden as if he were repeating a formula. "I simply mean that we have to investigate everything that is at all unusual in connection with this whole house. The moment you make a mystery of a thing, we have to follow it up until we have satisfied ourselves that there is nothing in it."

"O, I don't know what to do!" She looked from one to the other. Hallicks held her gaze and diverted it to the chimney piece. He bent over and touched the brick that had concealed the uncut stones.

"That brick has been taken out and replaced quite recently."

He looked hard at Annabelle and her eyes dropped.

"I think you can tell us something about those uncut stones that were behind this brick, Mrs. Saranack. How did you find them?"

"I didn't find them. At least not myself. I had gone to bed early when I woke up suddenly with the feeling that something was wrong. I slipped on a dressing gown and came down here—to this room."

Annabelle was crying—a fact which disturbed the superintendent and made him almost fatherly.

"There now! I wouldn't take on if I was you, Mrs. Saranack. There's nothing to be afraid of. The police are the best friends of an innocent person if only people would believe it."

"O, I do trust you, superintendent! And it was all my fault really. I helped to hush it up. I see now it was wrong of me but I was worried to death at the time. And one does hear of so many innocent people being arrested through getting mixed up."

The superintendent steered her back to the point.

"Miss Esdale and my husband were in this room. He was kneeling down by the fireplace. One of the bricks had been taken out. And in a little heap on the hearth were the eight uncut stones. All of them. I counted them."

Beauty Answers

Liquid Diet Is Efficient.

R. F.: For three or four days go on a liquid diet and you will take off four to five pounds. You may drink milk, fruit juices, or clear soup. Coffee is allowed for breakfast, without cream or sugar. Hot milk may be added to it.

Acne Requires Special Diet.

I. D.: In cases of acne, special attention must be given to the diet. Sugars and starches should be taken sparingly. If the condition does not clear up in a short time, you had better see your doctor and let him prescribe.

Children Need Planned Fun on Rainy Days

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When the ingenious mother sees a determined slant in the way the rain is coming down, and adds this to an unfavorable weather report in her morning paper, she puts on that useful if not fetching piece of headgear known as her thinking cap—for she is not going to have aimless, discontented, fretful children on her hands. She knows that rainy days can be fun, so she lays a few plans.

She knows, for instance—or she will soon learn if she's clever—several underlying things about rainy day managing.

One is that what the children do must have variety. It's best for them not to play at one kind of play too long, unless they show a real and happy absorption in it.

Another thing she knows is that, since they can't get out to run and ride their scooters and velocipedes, they must have some rather violent indoor exercise to get rid of their excess energy and to provide the sort of wholesomely exciting fun and laughter that is so relaxing, and which so relieves the feeling of staleness that comes with shut-in days. With open windows perhaps and light sweaters on, you can conduct a gym class, or play hide and seek, or have a pillow fight, or play follow the leader all over the house.

Still another thing she knows is that [and this of course holds only where there are several children in a family] something's likely to happen if the children are shut indoors together and thrown upon each other's companionship for two or three days at a stretch. The ingenious mother will devise some way of having them work or play in different rooms occasionally—perhaps one helping her in the kitchen and the other washing out their doll clothes in the bathroom. She will keep a weather eye out for signs of storm and stress, to avert rainy day tensions, tears, and quarrels.

Books and music are a help on rainy days. We have lists of reading for each age and also names of phonograph records. EITHER leaflet will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Winter Sports Hold Interest of Chicagoans

Group to Attend Carnival in Michigan.

on Friday and Saturday, but the Cornell one starts tonight when a barrage of aerial bombs in Ithaca will summon all Cornellians and their guests to the carnival on Beebe lake.

The sixty odd fraternity houses at Cornell will be filled with guests and there will be indoor as well as outdoor festivities. Tonight there will be a dog sled race of fraternity canines and, of course, exhibitions of figure and speed skating, a hocky game of clowns and then waltzing by every one.

Tomorrow night a show by the Cornell Musical clubs will precede the Junior prom, and on Saturday afternoon there will be a basketball game between Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania. Following a tea-dance the Cornell Dramatic club will present "Fashion," that popular survival of the 1840's, and then the Cornell polo team and that of the University of Pittsburgh will meet in the riding hall, closing the gay Junior week and ice carnival festivities. Donald G. Graves and Malcolm B. White of Evanston, John A. Meaden of La Grange, and Edward J. Caldwell of Flossmoor are on the committee in charge of Junior week.

Full Program at Dartmouth.

The twenty-six fraternity houses on Dartmouth's campus will be filled on Friday and Saturday with feminine guests, and Hanover in the White mountains will be buzzing with activity during the carnival. The ski events will be, perhaps, the most picturesque and thrilling part of the program for the Intercollegiate Ski union has designated the Dartmouth event as the championship meet. But skiing will not be confined to experts this year for the lofty summit of Oak hill has been equipped with a ski tramway and fourteen miles of ski trails have been built for the novice skiers, so for the first time since carnival started, there will be competition for the thousands of feminine visitors.

In addition to the outdoor events there will be dancing at all odd hours. Some of the Chicago boys active on the various committees are James Blake, Frederick Blatchford, George Cole, John Griffith, James Donovan Jr., John B. Lindsay, John T. Llewellyn, Edwin P. Price Jr., all of Winnetka; Samuel P. Johnston Jr. of Highland Park; Thomas Antrim of Wilmette; Oliver Babcock, Philip and Richard Gilbert, Morgan W. Price Jr., Gilbert G. Sykes and Eldred Timson, all of Evanston; Paul M. Jones of River Forest; Philip Dressler of Wheaton; John Armour of Oak Park; Arthur M. Adler Jr., Charles and Gail Compston, Leonard S. Florsheim Jr., Edward A. L. Goodkind, Frank A. Lagorio Jr., John F. Mercer and Earle D. Stevenson Jr., all of Chicago.

Among the Chicago girls who will attend the Dartmouth carnival are Miss Janet Llewellyn, Miss Lucy Harrison, Miss Dorelle Moulton, Miss Nancy Brown, Miss Mary Jean Bartelme, Miss Babbs Burton, Miss Carlotta Lagorio, Miss Frances Price, Miss Nancy Knode and the Misses Barbara Ann and Peggy Sargent.

Mrs. Day Mitchell to Leave Saturday.

Mrs. Day Mitchell is leaving Saturday for her home in New York after a fortnight's visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake. Mrs. Mitchell has been entertained morning, noon and night since her arrival and among those who have given parties for her are the John A. Carpenters, the Gustavus Swifts, the Charles Swifts, Miss Elsie McCormick and the Arthur Meekers.

President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott entertained at dinner last evening in their Evanston home for Mark W. Cresap, new president of the board of Northwestern university, and Mrs. Cresap. Among their guests were Bishop and Mrs. George Craig Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rew, Judge and Mrs. Martin W. Gridley, Mr. and Mrs. MacChesney, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner.

Mrs. Ralph James and Mrs. Frank B. Mulford will be hostesses at the causerie of the Alliance Française this afternoon. Mrs. Merrill Hubbard will sing a group of French songs, and Joan Alizier, 7 years old, will play the piano. Mrs. James A. Miller, Mrs. Frank R. McCoy and Miss Elizabeth McCormick will assist the hostesses.

Charles S. Connells Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Connell are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Tuesday evening at St. Luke's hospital. The baby, who is the first child of the former Barbara Graf, will be named Gregory Graf Connell for his paternal grandfather, Dr. Gregory Connell of Oshkosh, Wis., and for his mother's family. The Connells recently moved to an apartment in East Chestnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams are leaving today to return to their home at Bidart, outside of Biarritz. Since their arrival here just in time to spend Christmas with the Joseph C. Beldens they have been staying with the Beldens, except for the brief time when the Beldens were in California, when the McWilliamses visited the Walter S. Brewsters and the Charles Edward Browns.

Blouse Has Smart Neckline

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

The blouse and skirt fashion is a prominent one for spring, and something different in the way of a blouse is offered in today's pattern. This attractive model features a "kerchief" collar, which forms a scarf at the back of the neckline, and fastens with your favorite clip, brooch, or button at the front. The graceful sleeves may be long or short.

If your suit is of the dress type, that is, not mannishly tailored, nothing could be more acceptable as its complement than this blouse, for it is just feminine enough to carry out the theme of an ensemble which has a furred collar. Another advantage is that it is trim in its lines, therefore not marring the outlines of one's suit.

The original of this blouse is of aqua blue silk crêpe. Your choice will depend upon the color of your separate skirt or your suit. For extremely practical wear you might like a cravat silk print, or pique or handkerchief linen.

Style No. 2579 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Breakfast Hot Breads May Be Made in Jiffy

BY MARY MEADE.

Breakfast hot breads hit tops in the popularity cycle throughout the winter months.

There's one big drawback to the hot bread situation, however. If it means meeting the cold bleak dawn an hour earlier, few of us can work up the necessary enthusiasm often.

Leisurely Sunday breakfasts don't count in this discussion. But for the regular, speedy, efficient, everyday breakfast-getting it's nice to know several really quick hot breads, as well as ways of speeding up the regular ones.

French toast, for instance, takes little more time than ordinary toast, and yet it gives your breakfast that opulent, luxurious quality. Ever try baking it on a waffle iron? You do it just the same way: Dip day-old slices of bread in beaten egg and milk, and then, instead of browning them in hot fat, just clamp them between the grids of a hot waffle iron. They come out beautifully golden, stamped in the square waffle pattern, and as intriguing to the taste as to the eye.

If it's to be waffles, griddle cakes, muffins, or corn bread tomorrow, need we remind you how to hasten the preparation? You know, of course, how much more swiftly your breakfast-getting goes when the dry ingredients are measured and sifted together in advance, and the liquid ones similarly combined. Then, in the morning, all you need do is to turn on the oven or connect the waffle iron, and combine the two mixtures according to directions.

Another suggestion for the breakfast hot bread isn't a homemade one, but it's headed for an equally happy reception. Try this on your family soon. Slice a bit of the end from a long, hard dinner roll. Tear out part of the soft center, and spread the inside lightly with softened butter. Heat in the oven until warmed through, fill with hot spiced applesauce, and serve at once.

These same filled rolls, incidentally, are delightful for luncheon as well as breakfast. For the special luncheon party, get the tiny crusty rolls, butter and heat them similarly, and then fill them with hot apple butter or peach butter. Your guests will love 'em!

Toasted English muffins, with jam or marmalade, or even with a hot creamed meat mixture, make fine breakfast fare at a minimum of trouble on your part. Cinnamon toast may be a favorite at your house, too, or do you prefer orange toast? The latter, in case you've never made it, is made so: Toast only one side of each slice of day-old bread. Brush the untoasted side with melted butter, and sprinkle with a mixture of ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup grated orange rind, and 2 tablespoons of orange juice. Return the spread slices to the broiler and toast until the mixture bubbles.

According to CULBERTSON

EXPERT CONCEIT.

The exact reason for the inordinate conceit of most expert players is a mystery that will take some one more occult than I am to solve. Granting the necessity for reasonable intelligence, no one can seriously maintain that the greatest proficiency at the game establishes the expert as a master mind. It is much more apt to be that he has given a great deal of time and thought to the game.

Which is simply preamble to an anecdote concerning conceit. A visiting French player, M. Albarran, was the hero, a New York expert the victim.

M. Albarran approached a table in Crockford's club where the expert was playing rubber bridge.

"Glad to see you," boomed the expert. "Draw up a chair and watch a good game."

"Yes," said the Frenchman, "some one was telling me yesterday what a beautiful game you play, Mr. Blank."

"Really?" Mr. Blank swelled up perceptibly. "Who was it?"

"Don't you remember?" was the soft, almost cooing question. "You!"

No Trump Technique.

It is a fact, generally known only to experts, that no trump contracts are easier to "steal" than suit contracts. One reason is that the defenders have more difficulty visualizing their best line of defense. Many other reasons exist that would require too much explanation for this column.

The declarer in today's hand was fully cognizant of his opportunity and took advantage of it.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | 1 no trump | Pass |
| 2 hearts | Pass | 2 no trump | Pass |
| 3 no trump [final bid] | | | |

North's three no trump bid was optimistic, but not bad, since he was not vulnerable.

West opened his four of spades and the jack was played from dummy. A small club to the king was the next play, and then a heart to the king. Another small club, away from the queen, was passed by East and won by South's jack. With two clubs home, declarer now took an abrupt tack in his course; he went after the heart suit. To maintain communications he led a heart and ducked. West made a desperation shift to the small diamond. Dummy played low and East's king fell to the ace. Realizing that he had to establish one more trick for game, declarer boldly led up to the spade king. West was helpless. He took the ace and cashed his two good diamonds, but his partner's long diamond suit was blocked and West could not reach it.

Had East jumped up with the ace of clubs on the first or second lead and returned a spade, declarer could not have won more than eight tricks. West's spades would have been established before North's hearts.

Ambassador Child's Widow Is Married to Count Filipponi

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Richard Washburn Child of Newport, widow of the former ambassador to Italy, and Count Carlo Filipponi, real estate broker of Newport and Palm Beach, were married here late yesterday by County Judge Robbins. Three close friends were at the wedding and others were invited in later for an informal reception.

The Count and Countess Filipponi motored to Miami last night and were to leave today on a cruise to Nassau.

Countess Filipponi arrived here several weeks ago to spend the winter. The count spends every season here. He was divorced several months ago and last week his former wife obtained court permission to resume the use of her maiden name, L. Bartholomew Ford.

The bride's former husband died a year ago.

Three Artists of All-Illinois Open Exhibit

Carl Olsen Oils Receive High Praise.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three artist members of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts are represented in the exhibition which has opened in the Davis store eighth floor gallery. Carl Olsen is showing portraits and still life in oil, M. Walter Huber is showing carvings in wood, and Oscar Mortens has a representative group of sculpture.

Carl Olsen has become a familiar name to those who follow the All-Illinois shows and look for decorative still life and sincere portraiture. He has a marvelous technique in the painting of glass and many of his most brilliant paintings are compositions using gorgeous flasks, quaint cups, pitchers, and bowls.

Brass is another of his passions and he paints it with great success. In the current exhibit his "Stilleben," "Glass, Old and New" and "An Old Relic" stand out. Glass or brass are found in each.

Mr. Olsen gives us many interesting portraits. The finest are "Ernest Buehler," "Dr. Einar Soderwall," "Self-Portrait" and "Edwin N. Johnson." Curiously enough the sculptor, Oscar Mortens, shows a portrait of Dr. Soderwall that must be counted one of his best pieces, and a vigorous, alert head of Chief Lester J. Laird, of whom Carl Olsen has just completed [the paint is scarcely dry] one of his ablest portraits.

Oscar Mortens is the sculptor who won the gold medal offered by the All-Illinois a year ago in their annual exhibit. He gets excellent likenesses and his bust portraits are interesting. He puts life, vigor, and variety into a kind of work that sometimes grows monotonous. exhibition. Carl Hallstammer has spoiled most of us for any one else's work. Other wood carving after his seems flat and stupid. Mr. Huber is conscientious but his touch is heavy and his various conceptions leave one cold.

The exhibition will continue through Feb. 15.

Yellow and Green Color Scheme Is Charm of Quilt

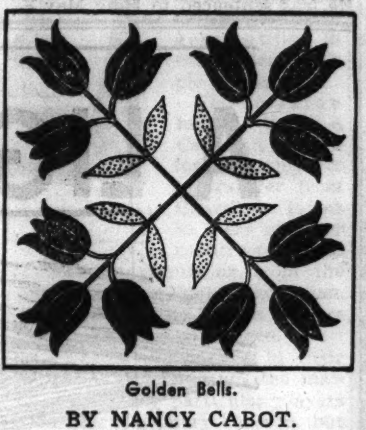
Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service Offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Golden Bells.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Women who like a yellow and green color combination will find this simple applique pattern made to their order, because the patches are not complicated and may be applied easily to a pale yellow background. The blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with white, or blocks matching the background of the applique pattern. The block finishes 17½ inches square, with 13 applique blocks and 12 plain ones making the entire quilt. An 8¾ inch border, completed with a narrow half inch binding, is the finishing touch. The quilt, in its entirety, measures 105 inches.

Veteran Actor Needs Double to Drive Auto

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Harry Carey, veteran of more than twenty years as movie actor, surprised his director by saying a "double will have to do that for me" in a scene in "The Matron's Report" with Jane Withers.

No director had ever heard Carey ask a double before, because he never would let anybody else ride, swim, jump, fight, buck, wrestle, or fall for him. But this time it was necessary.

The scene called for Carey to drive an automobile onto the set. Carey never learned to drive. He's been in the movies since 1913.

The two daughters of Chic Sale, Cherry, 20, and Mary, 17, are already launched professionally in New York, Cherry studying music in John Erskine's school, and Mary dancing in the Metropolitan opera ballets. Mrs. Sale has gone east from Hollywood to visit them while Chic stays on in the movies.

AVOID BLACKHEADS
Thousands who formerly suffered from muddy complexions—blemished by blackheads, made coarse by big pores—now rave about a cream that treats the skin with oxygen.
Oxygen does marvelous things. It keeps your heart going. It brings color to the rose. And it can give you a fresher, fairer complexion.
From the first time you apply Dioxogen Cream, your skin becomes clearer and smoother . . . the pores less open. Continued use of Dioxogen Cream restores the beauty of youth to your tired skin.
Blackheads and whiteheads are avoided because the pores are kept in a cleaner, healthier condition. Coarse pores are quickly refined. Discolorations and lines are lightened. A lifeless complexion gives way to a fresh, natural color.
Good Housekeeping Bureau recommends Dioxogen Cream. It is not drying. Dep't stores and druggists supply generous jars at 50¢ and $1.00.

SURFACE LINES FIGHT REMOVAL OF DRIVE TRACKS

Suggest Relocation Plan for Lake Shore.

The Chicago Surface Lines, while willing to coöperate in relocation, will oppose the Chicago park district's move to force removal of the Lake drive street car tracks from Chicago avenue to the Navy Pier, Guy A. Richardson, co-receiver of the lines, said yesterday. The park board wants the tracks removed to make way for the reconstruction of Lake Shore drive as a part of the outer link bridge project.

President Dunham of the park board said Tuesday that work on the new drive, from North avenue to Ohio street, would start as soon as the tracks are removed. The board instructed its attorney to file a petition with the Illinois commerce commission asking removal of the tracks, renewing a 15 year controversy over the right of the surface lines to keep them there.

Triple Roadways Planned.

The plan proposed by the park district provides for the construction of three roadways in this section of the drive along which the tracks run. The roadway nearest the lake would be for northbound through trafic, the middle roadway for southbound through trafic and the inner roadway for two-way local trafic. The proposal calls for parkways on each side of the local driveway. Specifications for this project do not provide any space for car tracks.

"There are several ways in which provision can be made for street cars on the drive without interfering with express automobile trafic," Mr. Richardson said. "We already have submitted plans to the park board engineering department outlining some of these methods."

By eliminating the parkways between the roads, he asserted, space would be available for street car right of way. Tracks could be located either east of the drive along the lake or between the local and southbound express roads, he said.

Plan an Underpass.

The tracks are now located east of the drive where a new roadway is planned. The street railway company plans call for an underpass for street cars—either at Chicago avenue or Ohio street—for getting over to the pier without crossing the express roadways.

Mr. Richardson said that the surface lines were forced to construct the tracks to the pier in 1916. On two occasions in the last twelve years commissioners of the old Lincoln Park district attempted to have the tracks removed through proceedings before the commerce commission. The petitions were fought not only by the surface lines, but by the city council and northwest and west side civic organizations on the ground that the street cars provided a necessary service enabling the public getting to the lake front. In both cases the commission ordered that the tracks be retained, although the last order, entered in 1932, specified their relocation.

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] said yesterday that the local transportation committee, of which he is chairman, is to consider the park district proposal soon. The council, he said, previously put itself on record against removal.

DIES MAKING COLLECTION.

Victor Lemke, 61 years old, 4703 Ravenswood avenue, a collector for the Prudential Insurance company, died of a heart attack yesterday while making a collection at the home of Mrs. Leona Schmidt, 1303 Carmen avenue.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

WIDOWED BRIDE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

An inquest was held yesterday into the death of Bernard Johnson, 40 years old, retired quartermaster of the United States coast guard, who was fatally injured by a motor truck last Nov. 22 and died Tuesday night in St. Luke's hospital.

Last Sunday Johnson, fearing that death was near, was married to Miss Margaret Boyer of Cincinnati. The ceremony was performed at Johnson's bed with hospital attendants as witnesses.

Mrs. Johnson testified at the inquest that she and her husband had planned to marry last Thanksgiving. These plans were interrupted when Johnson, on the day he planned to leave Chicago, was struck by a truck near Polk street on South Dearborn street. Richard A. Younger, 28 years old, 1911 South Michigan avenue, driver of the truck, did not testify at the inquest, but previously told the police Johnson apparently became confused and stepped from the curb directly in the path of the truck. The inquest was continued until Feb. 13 to seek more witnesses to the accident. Mrs. Johnson was granted letters of administration yesterday for Johnson's $10,000 estate. She and a sister of Johnson are the only heirs.

HUTCHINS POKES FUN AT SPECIAL TEACHERS' OATH

Should Include 'Actors and Parents.'

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, addressed the annual Laymen's Convocation sponsored by the Chicago Congregational Union yesterday at the auditorium of the Oriental institute on the university compus. Mr. Hutchins' address was in the form of answers to categorical questions which had been prepared by a committee of the union.

Dr. Hutchins said he favored teachers' oath laws, provided they were equally applied to all who have influence over young people. In his opinion parents, movie stars, and radio artists should also be included in the requirement of an oath of allegiance to the constitution. "My influence over young people can scarcely be compared with that of Amos 'n' Andy," he remarked.

"Repeal Massachusetts Law."

In answer to a direct question from the floor, Dr. Hutchins replied that he was in favor of repealing the Massachusetts teachers' oath law.

Mr. Hutchins warned that the churches will follow the universities into darkness if autocratic government banishes civil liberties.

He declared that, while churches have been more vigorous defenders of their rights in Nazi Germany than have the universities, German universities have long been purely state organizations and easily susceptible to control as such.

Huey Long's Dictatorship.

The students are the best part about any university, he said. He cited activities of the late Senator Huey Long, Louisiana dictator, as an example of what may happen to a state university when a powerful state political organization decides to make a political football of it.

At a meeting of the convocation last night in Mandel hall, 57th street and University avenue, Arthur E. Morgan, director of the Tennessee Valley administration, delivered the union's first Alden Tuthill lecture on the subject of "Character in Government and Business." Mr. Morgan will give additional lectures on the subject this afternoon and evening.

KILLED BY FREIGHT CARS.

George Resar, 46 years old, 914 Lincoln avenue, Waukegan, an employé of the American Steel and Wire company in Waukegan, was crushed to death between two freight cars yesterday in the company's yards.

Union Strife Called Move to Build Political Weapon

The present controversy in the American Federation of Labor over craft versus vertical unions is merely the smoke screen of an attempt to organize labor as a class for use as a political force, George E. Sokolsky, writer on social problems, told members of the American Management association last evening at the Palmer house.

"There is a great fighting going on in the A. F. of L., and rejoicing among industrialists," said Mr. Sokolsky. "But William Green, who is defending craft unions in the split, has 1,300 vertical, or industrial, unions under his jurisdiction, while John L. Lewis, speaking for vertical unions, is getting much of his support from craft unions.

Calls It Campaign Start.

"This fight is the beginning of the election campaign. In return for the Guffey act, the A. F. of L. was to be delivered to Roosevelt. There was a split because Lewis couldn't deliver.

"The issue is not the industrial or the craft union. The fundamental issue is whether labor shall be organized as a class and be used politically as a class. You face its intended organization as a class, as a political force, under an energetic, virile leader. If Lewis wins, labor becomes a force to be used politically.

"If this happens there is peril not only to industry, which is unorganized to meet the problem—stupidly unorganized—but to the whole country, for it then faces a class struggle.

Points to Alternative.

"The preservation of industry in this country under the capitalistic system, in these circumstances, demands that industry, not aided by government or pushed to it by the demands of unions, shall provide for workers steady work at the best wage that can be paid, and provide in that wage for social security."

Mr. Sokolsky's audience included executives of many of the country's largest corporations. Repeatedly he warned them that regardless of the outcome of national elections, and regardless of the action of the Supreme court on the present federal social security act, industry must solve for itself the problems which caused that act to be drawn.

"Industry has to face the fact," he said, "that it can't call on government to do part of its work and then object to government doing all its work."

Lack of social security for "white collar" workers, of adequate provision for retirement of executives in particular, has led to the development in business of a burocracy which exerts the same dead weight that business men feel from burocracy in government, Mr. Sokolsky maintained.

"Labor becomes conscious of this burocracy in the handling of grievances," he said. "Everywhere there is a sense that the business organization is an insulation that keeps the man at the bottom so far from the man at the top that it takes a strike to smash through. Where you have a condition in which a man's holding a job is more important to him than the job itself, you have a static condition and endless trouble. But unless a situation is created under which men who have devoted themselves to an enterprise are able to retire without starving, they are going to remain job conscious."

Employers who remember that their workers are individuals and treat with them frankly to adjust individual grievances need have little fear of having to deal with them collectively as members of a striking union, Whiting Williams, Cleveland industrial consultant, declared at an afternoon session of the association.

Tells How to Avoid Strife.

To employers who wish to avoid industrial strife through the accumulation of such grievances, he made these recommendations:

"1. With the help of seniority and of work made as steady as possible, lessen the worker's fear of favoritism or other threat against what he rightly or wrongly considers his most important piece of property—the property of his job. Note also that the value of that property depends less upon its hourly rate than upon year around earnings.

"2. Where your pay system is highly complicated, make sure that everybody knows within 24 hours exactly how much he has earned.

"3. Keep close watch on your wage differentials. When you raise rates for your poorest workers, save the pride of your better and best workers by some kind or measure of increase for them.

"4. Make sure that your own honest and helpful intentions are fulfilled by honest and helpful foremen.

"5. Finally, beware of the disease of modern management called 'average-itis.' His earnings, his grievances, his satisfactions, his opportunities at promotion—all these the American worker, like all the rest of us, views not as a member of a group or class but as an individual."

Urges Employé Representative.

Tom Girdler of Cleveland, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation, urged employé representation plans within industry as a more satisfactory and flexible agent of collective bargaining than an outside union.

Dean William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago school of business, discussing legal aspects of the Wagner labor relations bill, predicted that it will be found workable if employers, employés, and the labor tribunal all approach their problems in a spirit of tolerance.

It is a rather surprising fact that the leaves of the same tobacco plant may vary far more than the leaves from plants of quite different types. Chemical analysis shows that the top leaves contain excess alkalies which tend to give a harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in Nature the most palatable, acid-alkaline balance. In Lucky Strike Cigarettes, the center leaves are used.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There will be no warmed over champions coming to Chicago this year to represent the Cleveland Plain Dealer in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

If that city again takes home the team trophy it will be a brand new set of boys who will turn the difficult trick for them.

The exciting thing about the situation is that several champions of last year entered the Plain Dealer's 1936 tournament, but one by one they were tumbled over by the eight boys who are coming here on Feb. 24 to battle at Chicago Stadium.

The biggest upset came when Steve Smozy, Cleveland's slashing heavyweight champion of last year, was given a sound beating by Oliver Morrow, former Ohio National Guard champion in the final battle. It was one of the most thrilling scraps in the eight year history of the Plain Dealer's tournaments.

Smozy had been a great performer in every Tournament of Champions since 1933.

Beats Bellini, Kelly.

The next big upset in picking the Cleveland team came in the featherweight division when Ted Kara came along and whipped both Troy Bellini and Pat Kelly and in so doing, won himself a title. Bellini was 1935 Chicagoland bantamweight champion and Kelly was the ruler of the 126 pound division.

Kara will be the star member of the Cleveland team this year, it is quite evident. He is a terrific right hand puncher and floored Bellini, who grew a bit this year, in the fight in which he defeated that great champion of last year. He staged a spectacular rally in the last round when he got the verdict over Kelly.

And now comes the freak in the Cleveland octet. He is Stringbean Jackie Wilson, flyweight who towers exactly six feet and one inch. He is the tallest amateur 112 pounder in the country and his chin throughout the entire Cleveland tournament was always free from harm.

John Henry O'Hare of Ravenna, O., former Ohio American Legion champion, is the bantamweight champ of the Cleveland team, and Art Tate, a sharp right handed puncher, won the lightweight Golden Gloves. O'Hare is an altar boy in the Immaculate Conception church in his home town.

High School Boy Wins.

Billy Burke, who graduated only a week ago from Central High school in Cleveland, is the welterweight champion.

The fellow who displayed the hardest punch during the tournament was Cleveland Kirkpatrick, a smashing right-hand artist, who scored three knockouts in the four fights which carried him to the top of the middleweight group.

Harold Dittman stormed through the light heavyweight ranks to win the title in that division.

Most of the 25,000 spectators who watched the Cleveland show are confident the team is stronger than the one which swept to the Tournament of Champions title last year.

The Cleveland boys are going to be well taken care of during their stand in the Tournament of Champions. Six trainers are coming along to see that all kinks and bruises are rubbed away. Joe Zucker, Cleveland's No. 1

BADGER REGENTS PRY INTO WHISKY CHARGES TODAY

Call Dr. Spears to Answer Trainer's Statement.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Clarence W. Spears, University of Wisconsin football coach, is expected to be the star witness when the board of regents continues its investigation into the university's troubled athletic affairs tomorrow.

Since the regents' last session, during which it grilled Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, athletic director, for more than four hours, charges and denials have filled the investigation with new complications.

Denies Spiked Drinks.

It is known that the regents are in possession of a signed affidavit by William [Bill] Fallon, football team trainer, that Spears ordered whisky put into the players' coffee between halves of the Minnesota game last fall. Fallon has refused to comment and Spears pointed to his testimony before the faculty athletic board, which was to the effect that he did not, at the Minnesota or any other game during his four seasons at Wisconsin, order "spiked" drinks for the players.

Both will have a chance to speak their piece tomorrow. Reliable informants report that Spears has a story to tell and that he plans to tell it.

Drag in Prep Wrangle.

Meanwell also is listed among the score of witnesses for further questioning. The summoning of Paul F. Neverman and O. E. Evans, secretary and member, respectively, of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association board of control, indicated today that the alleged friction between the W. I. A. A. and the university athletic department will be thrown into the muddled arena of dispute.

The W. I. A. A. February bulletin, released today, confirmed the charge that the state high school basketball tournament and track meet were taken away from Madison "because of a lack of coöperation from University of Wisconsin authorities."

The bulletin charged broken promises and concluded that the "W. I. A. A., having exhausted its means of bringing about a coöperative arrangement with the university, had no alternative but to take the events elsewhere."

CUBS RECEIVE THOMAS CASEY'S SIGNED CONTRACT

Thomas Hugh Casey, whose fame as a Georgia quail shooter exceeds that which he won as a pitcher on the Cub staf all last year, yesterday became signer No. 24. His contract was received from his home in Atlanta.

Casey appeared in several games last year but was credited with no victories and charged with no defeats.

OLD RAZOR BLADES

are hard to get rid of, but Golden Gloves tickets, we've found, are just the opposite. Mail order sales are increasing daily for the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 24, 25, and 26, and for the finals March 6.

There are thousands of good seats left for each night, for the Stadium is a huge arena. But here's a tip—order your tickets before the public sale opens. When fans line up at the counters you'd be surprised how many big blocks of seats disappear in a hurry.

Prices for the Tournament of Champions are 40 cents, 66 cents, and $1.10. For the finals they are 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. Just send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Square, Chicago.

TOM LIEB SIGNS 3 YEAR CONTRACT WITH LOYOLA U.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Tom Lieb today signed a contract to continue for three years as head football coach at Loyola university of Los Angeles. The contract raised Lieb's salary to $10,000 a year, according to unofficial reports, but it is understood Lieb also will draw a bonus from alumni.

Lieb came to the school in 1930, the year after he had handled Notre Dame's eleven during the fall when the late Knute Rockne's leg ailment kept him off the gridiron. Under Lieb Loyola's enrollment and athletic prestige has increased tremendously. Lieb's decision to stay at Loyola stops reports which had mentioned him as Dr. Clarence Spears' successor at Wisconsin.

NOTRE DAME FIVE HANDS ILLINOIS 33 TO 23 DEFEAT

Moir, Nowak Lead Irish to Eighth in Row.

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Notre Dame tonight won its eighth victory in a row and the fifteenth of the season in the fastest game seen here this winter, defeating Illinois, 33 to 23.

Notre Dame sophomores settled the issue. John Moir, forward, and Paul Nowak, South Bend center, each got 12 points to score all except 9 of the Irish total. George Ireland, senior guard, came in with two timely long shots and a brace of free throws to account for 6 of his team's total.

Vopicka Leads Illini.

Jim Vopicka, Illinois forward, led his team with 8 points, 6 of them scored early in the game to enable Illinois to take an early lead. There were only eight personal fouls called during the entire game, and only one of them, that on Moir, just after the opening whistle, in the first half.

Bob Riegel, Illinois center, sank a pivot shot and Wib Henry got a free throw for Illinois to open hostilities. Nowak and Vopicka exchanged long shots, and then Moir and Vopicka did likewise. Ireland dropped a long shot to leave Illinois ahead, 7 to 6. Moir scored a difficult side angle shot midway in the period, and Notre Dame took the lead, never to be headed. The Irish ran up 10 straight points during this rally, which started with them trailing, 7 to 4, and finished up leading, 14 to 7. Moir made two baskets and Nowak two in addition to Ireland's long one.

Illini Within a Point.

Riegel, Vopicka, and Braun sank three in a row to shave the Irish lead to 14 to 13, but Nowak and Ireland came through with two more field goals to make it 18 to 13 at the half.

Riegel and Nowak swapped field goals to open the second half. Braun of Illinois and Moir connected from the field and it was 22 to 17 for the Irish.

Braun's free throw was offset by Moir's hook shot and follow up goal. Vopicka closed the gap to 24 to 20, but Ireland sank both ends of a multiple foul by Combes.

Irish in Delayed Offensive.

Illinois' scoring concluded with Braun's free throw and Henry's long shot. Meanwhile the Irish with six minutes left to play went into a delayed offensive. Nowak, Ford, and Moir drove under for short shots and Marty Peters sank a free throw. Neither team substituted until there were but three minutes to play when Peters replaced Nowak. Moir and Riegel collided a moment later and both were retired, neither seriously hurt, however.

Hocky Opens Olympics Today; Two English Players Barred

German Towns Mecca for Thousands of Sports Fans.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 5.—Exponents of winter sports from all the world—skaters, skiers, bobsledders and curlers, were assembled here tonight awaiting tomorrow's opening of the Olympic games. With them were sport devotees from lands far and near.

This will be the first great international competition held in Germany since the great war. There are to be more than double the number of competitors than there have been in the winter games before, and at least thrice the number of spectators is expected. Preparations have been made to accommodate 80,000.

These straggling Bavarian villages, which are to be the scene of the games, are already filled to capacity. Their capacity is only 9,000, but the overflow has filled all the surrounding villages. It extends even into Munich, 1½ hours away by train.

U. S. Meets Germany.

First actual competition of the games will be the hocky match between the United States and Germany at 2:30 p. m. [8:30 a. m. central standard time]. At the same time at Reisser lake, some distance away, Canada's hocky sextet, hopeful of retaining the Olympic title it won at Lake Placid in 1932, will meet Poland. Hungary will play Belgium, and Sweden will face Japan later in the day.

As hosts to the Olympics, Germany is doing a pretty close to perfect job. Better organization and facilities for information could hardly be desired. Profiteering has been made impossible by the application of fixed prices and strict supervision. Sports arenas, spread by the nature of the competitions over an area five miles in extent, have been made accessible despite the difficulties of rural communications.

Anti-Jewish Signs Removed.

And since much has been written on the subject and due forebodings have been expressed, it may be said on this eve of the opening of the Olympics that not the slightest evidence of religious, political or racial prejudice is outwardly visible here. Anti-Jewish signs have been removed from the villages. A Jewish hocky player has even been drafted for the German team.

For the games and crowds there are many instances of that efficiency for which Germany is famous. There is an ingenious system whereby a result in the stadium is made known instantly in other centers far away.

Twenty-eight nations are here to partake in the games. Germany has naturally the strongest representation of 148 participants, but the Austrians are close with 146 and the United States has 115. Australia's entry is the smallest—a lone speed skater, George Kennedy. Spain comes next with only six—four men and two women, all skiers. The parade of contestants tomorrow will number 1,594.

Sonja Defends Title.

Twelve are here to defend medals already won—five gold, one silver, and six bronze. The defending medalists include Sonja Henie, Norwegian figure skater and world champion in the two preceding Olympics; the three winning ski jumpers at Lake Placid, Birger Ruud, Hans Beck, and Hans Walberg; Hurd, winner of the silver and bronze skating contests at the same Olympics, and Karl Schaefer, Austrian world champion for figure skating.

Canada is defending its world championship in hocky. The defending contestants from the United States are Hubert J. Stevens, winner of the two man bobsled championship

Canadians Are Ruled Out After Protest on Eligibility.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 5.—The international ice hocky federation voted unanimously tonight to uphold Canada's suspension of James Foster and Alexander Archer, members of the British Olympic ice hocky team who formerly played in Canada. The vote, from which three representatives abstained, bans the two players from competition in the winter Olympic games.

The decision hinged upon a Canadian rule forbidding players to transfer from Canadian teams to those of other countries without first obtaining permission from the Canadian Amateur Hocky association. The eligibility of the British players was not otherwise challenged.

The speakers emphasized in their discussions that it was not the matter of barring any particular players that was their primary concern, but the question of upholding the rulings and principles of federation members, without which the decadence of amateur sport was predicted.

Britons Voice Protest.

British spokesmen insisted during the sober meeting of 50 delegates and officials that Canada did not have the right to change the international federation's rule, which is that a player may change his affiliations between seasons but not during the middle of a season. The players in question left Canada last summer.

E. A. Gilroy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hocky association, said:

"It must be understood we are not protesting against the composition of the British team. In the fall of 1935 we ruled that a player leaving Canada must apply to the C. A. H. A. for a transfer if he wanted to keep in good standing. Otherwise he automatically suspends himself. Our members won't play against such a suspended player.

Brundage Upholds Canada.

Avery Brundage, United States delegate, upheld the Canadian stand, saying:

"Canada suspended the players for good reason, I can't see how the others can do anything but support Canada. More than the strength of one sport is at stake—one American Athletic federation gives support to another and to the whole cause of amateur sport. We must sustain the members so long as they are members.

"The Americans will have enough on their hands meeting one Canadian team. They don't want to face two."

The Swiss and Swedish members also upheld the Canadians.

ANITA STEWARDS BAR DARK WINTER REST OF MEETING

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Dark Winter, six year old stake horse owned by Fred M. Alger Jr., of Detroit, tonight was barred from racing during the remainder of the Santa Anita meeting. This action was taken by the stewards following an investigation conducted when the horse showed a reversal of form in winning at odds of nearly 15 to 1 yesterday.

A statement by the stewards follows:

"The stewards have inquired into the running of Dark Winter at the current meeting and have reached the conclusion that he will not do his best at all times. Jockies Knapp, Coucci, Kurtzinger and Robertson, who have ridden the horse at Santa Anita, testified that he is a difficult horse to ride and when bothered will sulk."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Squeamish hocky fans who shudder at the sight of a player getting a shave and haircut with a hocky stick, his ears loosened by a flying skate or his beaming countenance blurred by a bust on the nose are being warned to stay away from tonight's first place battle between the Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings at Chicago Stadium. On past performances with much less at stake, tonight's affair threatens to bring out the beast in thirty young men, most of them normally the flower of Canadian youth.

The Hawks, who have won 16 games, two more than any other team in the National league race, have 35 points, three of which are the result of tie games. The Red Wings are tied with the Hawks for the league lead, although they have won only 14 games. The slack is taken up by the difference in tie games, the Detroiters having participated in seven draws.

Hawks Make Comeback.

As recently as Jan. 14 the Hawks were in last place in the American division of the league and the Red Wings led the league. Though the Wings seemed so far ahead that they would breeze through the season without a challenge, the feeling between the two teams was none the less bitter. The Hawks' great comeback after a serious early January slump is well known to all hocky bugs. And the most inspiring part of the comeback has been two lashings which the Hawks have administered to the Red Wings.

Twice in the last week the Hawks have passed the Red Wings to head the league. Last Thursday the Hawks went over to Detroit and licked the Wings, 4 to 3. The affair was described conservatively as ferocious. And it placed the Hawks at the top by a margin of a half game. Saturday night the Hawks suffered their first defeat in seven games when they went down before the Toronto Maple Leafs in overtime. The same night the Red Wings spanked the Canadiens at Montreal, thus resuming the league lead.

Now They're Tied.

Sunday night the Hawks handed the Leafs a 2 to 0 setback while the Wings were idle. The Hawks again led the league by a half game over the Wings. Tuesday night the Wings salvaged a 4 to 4 tie in a game with the New York Rangers, after trailing 3 to 1 in the second period. That outcome established the tie for league leadership, which sets the scene for tonight's battle royal.

In the clash at Detroit last week the referees called 17 penalties, including four majors. There were no penalties called in the Boston-Toronto game Tuesday night, a contrast that gives some idea. The majors were for fighting. Larry Aurie and Art Wiebe got into it, then Paul Thompson and Hec Kilrea.

Most dopesters figure the Wings the class of the league. And they have enjoyed supremacy over all of the outfits in the circuit except the Hawks, the team they have hated thoroughly ever since the Hawks bumped them out of the Stanley cup two years ago. Tonight's game is the seventh and next to last between the two bitter rivals. The Hawks have won three, two of them in Detroit, and the Wings have won two, both of them here. The first meeting of the season, at Detroit, resulted in a scoreless tie.

Hawks Show Good Defense.

Defensively the Hawks have played much better in Detroit than they have at home, much as they love the Stadium rink, which, incidentally, is owned by the Wings' owner, James Norris Sr. of Chicago. In the three games at Detroit the Wings were shut out twice, giving Goalie Mike Karakas a fat portion of his total of seven shutouts this season. In three games at the Stadium the Wings have scored eight times. The Hawks scored seven times here and six times in Detroit. There have been three fist fights here and an equal number in Detroit.

The game is one of eight scheduled for Chicago week nights, the calendar calling for 16 Sunday night games in Chicago. Three of the eight week-day dates were assigned to Detroit, mysteriously a poor drawing card here until the hate theme became installed as the real McCoy, after the schedule had been drawn. There will be no broadcast of tonight's third period.

Londos Tries Comeback on Detroit Mat

Jim Londos, who has not wrestled since his dethronement as heavyweight champion by Dan O'Mahoney at Boston last June, will make his first appearance in a comeback campaign at Detroit Friday against Jules Strong Bow of Oklahoma. This was announced yesterday at a loop hotel by Ed White, manager of Londos.

The match will be one of a series which White is confident will lead into a second title match with O'Mahoney here this spring or summer. Londos has been training here for the last month preparatory to launching his comeback. He is down to 205 pounds, his weight against O'Mahoney.

Jim Wants Vengeance.

Londos explained he had three reasons for returning to the sport.

"First," he said, "my absence from the game has pleased my enemies too well. It is my intention from now on to cause them trouble and worry.

"Second, I need to earn money.

"Third, I can wrestle better than I can do anything else."

During his eight month lay-off, Londos has taken exercise almost daily. He appears to be in perfect physical condition. Always a light eater and a follower of exemplary habits, Londos regards his health and physical condition as the finest things in life.

He's Quite a Showman.

Londos is regarded as one of the greatest showmen in the sport. Sometimes he would hang on the ropes of the ring like a monkey, or possibly would allow his opponent to throw him all over the place, in the interest of entertainment or thrills, but he enjoys the reputation of being a good sportsman, in the ring or out of it.

MARBERRY AND COFFMAN SIGN GIANT CONTRACTS

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two former American league pitchers signed contracts with the New York Giants today.

One was Dick Coffman, 29 year old right hander, who was purchased from the St. Louis Browns last fall. The other was George [Firpo] Marberry, who signed as a free agent after drawing his release from the American league umpiring staf. During his pitching days, Marberry starred as a relief pitcher with both Washington and Detroit.

The Giants also announced the unconditional release of Catcher Glenn Myatt, who joined the team in midseason after being cut adrift by the Cleveland Indains.

PINKY HIGGINS REFUSES TO SIGN MACK CONTRACT

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Pinky Higgins, Philadelphia Athletics' third baseman, said today he had sent his 1936 contract back unsigned.

"We're having some differences of opinion that we haven't been able to straighten out yet," Higgins said. "I'm not a holdout. You're not a holdout until you fail to show up in camp. We may get together any day and then I won't be a holdout."

Asked if he was demanding more money, Higgins said:

"It seems like I ought to have some consideration on the basis of last year's work."

He would not comment on reports the offered contract bore a salary figure less than last year's.

POT POURRI.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5.—One reason why Florida permits betting at horse race tracks, dog race tracks, and slot machines, apart from the fact that winter visitors want this speculation, is the first apportionment of taxes from this legalized gambling to each of the state's sixty-seven counties. This initial instalment was $2,500 per county.

Last year the total was $1,320,074, with each county receiving $19,702.60. Some counties use the money, obtained from a 3 per cent take from the mutuel machines at horse and dog tracks, for school purposes, others for roads, others for bond interest, and still others for general operating expenses. None of this exaction from gambling goes to the state.

License fee of $75 annually for the operation of slot machines, we understand, goes to the state. Of that we'll have something to say at another time.

◆

Night clubs with expensive floor shows so far have had rather a hard time of it in the Miami sector. They will benefit by an amendment to the Miami liquor ordinance passed by the city commission allowing places where food and entertainment are provided to remain open twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. Regular bars theoretically must close at 1 a. m. and must remain closed over the week-end until 7 a. m. Monday. Night clubs pay a $550 license fee to the city, in addition to the $375 retail liquor license fee.

◆

Hialeah race track has adopted the "electric eye," or automatic photographic finish, to help the judges in close finishes. This device was in operation at Santa Anita last winter.

Track sponsors insist, however, the idea is not so much to help the judges as to satisfy the public, which frequently sees a result at variance with the official placing. That is natural and true at all tracks. In a nose finish the horse on the inside appears to have won to those past the wire, while the outside horse seems to have won to those on the near side of the wire.

◆

Admission to Haileah Park, including tax, is $4 for clubhouse, $1.25 for grand stand, and 50 cents for bleachers. The Wake, on a stake day, went over to inspect the four bit inclosure expecting to find it crowded, it was sparsely filled although betting facilities are offered. Apparently the difference between 50 cents and $1.25 does not mean much to those who attend the races here.

"Big Bill" Lange.

San Francisco and many old-time Chicago friends of the Chicago Nationals' great center fielder of the late '90s are seeking to have "Big Bill" Lange awarded a place in baseball's recently planned Hall of Fame. Heavy hitter, speedy outer gardener, and leading base stealer of his time, Lange was an adept at the hook slide.

Hans Wagner, veteran Pittsburgh shortstop, recently said of Lange: "Lange did not stay in the game as long as many because his family wanted him to go into business, but he left an indelible memory. I'll never forget the first time I tried to put the ball on him at second base. He pulled the prettiest hook slide you ever saw, and there I was, standing sort of foolish like, holding the ball nowhere near him."

Lange and the late Jimmy Callahan always were pals of newspaper writers. On dull days in spring training no escapade was too daring for them to undertake, no story too wild for them to stand for, no matter how much it might enrage the management. Their only stipulation was they must not be set in bad with the fans at home.

"Big Bill" now is a prosperous real estate and insurance man in San Francisco and has a beautiful home in a nearby suburb.

Hocky Teams Open Olympic Games Today

four years ago, and Maribel Vinson, winner of the bronze medal for figure skating.

Procession Starts Games.

The games start tomorrow with a grand procession of the contestants. Marshaled by countries with Greece, as the originator of the Olympic idea, at the head of the procession, Germany, as this year's host, closing it and the other countries in alphabetical order between, the competitors wearing the dress of their sport will march around the arena saluting the grand stand as they pass. On the stand will be a great array of German notabilities, headed by Reichfuehrer Hitler, members of the international Olympic committee, the chief officials of the various national Olympic committees, and members of the diplomatic corps of the countries represented.

With Herr Hitler will be Wilhelm Goering, Joseph Goebbels, Baron Neurath, Alfred Rosenberg, Baldur von Schirach, Count Schwerin-Krosigk, Heinrich Himmler, Dr. Meissner Wolf Heldorf, Berlin police president; Viktor Lutze, chief of the Storm Troops; Julius Streicher, leader in Bavaria, and almost every other political notable in Germany.

Decide on Salutes.

Discussions which arose today as to how the grandstand containing all these personages with Herr Hitler out in front shall be saluted has been variously settled. The discussions arose spontaneously without any expression of views by the German hosts. Their own people, of course, will give the Nazi salute, now the German national greeting. So will the Italians. The British decided to give the Olympic salute as at Los Angeles. It is an outstretched but not greatly elevated right arm and is hardly distinguishable from the Nazi greeting.

The Americans decided to follow their own military customs and give "eyes right," keeping their hands at their sides.

Conservation Leaders Pick Jay Darling

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The North American Wildlife conference today turned to Jay N. Darling to lead its drive for protection of resources, unanimously electing the cartoonist-conservationist president of a tentative general wildlife federation.

Rumored opposition to the proposed nationwide setup of the federation failed to develop as the conference approved organization plans. Delegates applauded the selection of the former chief of the biological survey as president until a permanent federation is effected.

Delegates Pledge Support.

Representatives from throughout the country agreed to take the conference's proposed set-up to their various states and move its adoption, perhaps with minor alterations, by state federations that already are formed or will be formed.

A permanent organization of the federation will come after a majority of the states have formed state associations and officially approved the constitution and general plan.

Former Senator Fred C. Walcott of Norfolk, Conn.; I. T. Quinn, Montgomery, Ala., game and fish commissioner; and W. L. Finley, Portland, Ore., sportsman, were named vice presidents of the federation, with Carl Shoemaker of Washington, D. C., as secretary.

Create 13 Regions.

The nation was divided into thirteen regions. Among their temporary chairmen—to supervise the organizations within their territories and report to the federation—are:

Ohio, Indiana and Illinois—L. A. Colby, Chicago. Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota—W. J. P. Aberg, Madison, Wis. North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa—Frank J. Brady, Atkinson, Nebr.

FIRST REDS SAIL FOR PORTO RICO QUARTERS TODAY

Mates Will Fly Over from Florida Later.

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Baseball's most unusual training junket will be inaugurated when Manager Charles [Chuck] Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds leads the vanguard of his troupe up the gangplank of the S. S. Borinquen tomorrow to sail for San Juan, Porto Rico, where the National leaguers will do a lot of preliminary conditioning before winding up at their regular camp in Tampa, Fla.

Five Players on List.

Besides Dressen there will be nine others in tomorrow's party but only five are active players. The list includes the two coaches, George Kelly and Tom Sheehan; Catchers Hank Erickson and Gilly Campbell, Pitchers Benny Frey, Al Hollingsworth and Francis [Whitey[ Wistert; Jack Rider, baseball writer, and Gene Earst, publicity agent for the Reds.

This group is scheduled to debark at San Juan next Monday. A second consignment of battery men will sail within a few days and, if the original plans are adhered to, the infielders and outfielders will leave New York on the S. S. Coamo Feb. 13.

Some Go by Air.

Still another batch of Reds will take to the air to join their mates in San Juan, flying from Miami in Pan-American Clipper ships. Four tentative dates, ranging from next Saturday to Feb. 18, have been set for the air trips.

Dressen's first squad is expected to leave San Juan March 2 for games at Santo Domingo, Miami and Fort Myers, with the balance of the players checking out a few days later and going direct to Tampa.

The entire group will fly from the tropical training base to Florida.

GOLDEN GLOVES ARMY OF CHICAGO IS MUSTERED IN

2,000 Pass Examinations for Battles.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ring the bell! Chicago's Golden Gloves army is ready for the sectional tournaments. The last group of contestants passed physical examinations last night at Trafton's gymnasium. It was the sixth of the list of examinations from which have come 2,000 qualified amateurs.

Since Jan. 6, when the first entry blank was printed, and since Jan. 21, when the first group of boys received their physical tests, the Golden Gloves host has been gathering in steadily increasing numbers. They have smashed all records, and when the first of these lads meet in conflict Monday night at the Madison Athletic club a new assault on tournament records will be under way.

Garvey Back in Battle.

Among the 447 boxers who passed physical examinations given by Dr. William Rothman, Dr. Harold Marsh, and Dr. Benjamin Turman, was Eddie Garvey, welterweight runnerup in the C. Y. O. tournament this year. Garvey is seeking to qualify for the Tournament of Champions.

Clifton Foy of the Northwest gymnasium, and Warren Pumphrey, light-heavyweight from Franklin Park, were other veterans who now are ready to start the sectional battles.

Fourteen Nights of Fighting.

Fourteen nights of boxing have been scheduled in the three Chicago sectionals. From this conflict will be named 32 Novice fighters [four in each weight], who will continue in the semi-finals of the Chicago Novice tournament at the Stadium on Feb. 24. The winners then will meet for the Chicago Novice championships on Feb. 26. These bouts will be held in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions. They do not qualify boys for the intercity team which will travel to New York for the ninth intercity matches in Madison Square Garden March 23.

Thirty-two Open division fighters also will be qualified from the Chicago sectionals for the Tournament of Champions. These Chicago boys, as well as the champions of the Catholic Youth Organization, will compete against the amateur boxing champions of 13 states.

South Section Largest.

Chicago's qualifiers [in three sections] will be divided so as to give the south section two boys in each weight. This is the largest tournament, practically twice as large as the north section and nearly twice as large as the west section. All qualifiers, Open and Novice divisions, will be awarded medals. In addition each contestant who reports for his bout will receive a souvenir bronze Golden Gloves button.

The West section opens Monday evening. All contestants in the Novice division and fighting in the first five weight classes, from 112 to 147 pounds, inclusive, must report for a second physical examination between 4 and 6 p. m. On Tuesday the next three weights report for the west side.

At White City Tuesday.

Tuesday is opening day at White City. The first five weights in the Novice division are scheduled for action. Wednesday will bring the last three weights and additional bouts for the first day boxers. The North section does not open until Feb. 18 at Loyola university gymnasium.

Tickets for the sectionals are priced at 75 cents and 40 cents for boys and girls 15 years of age or under. No seats are reserved. The doors will open at each sectional an hour before the first matches.

More than 125 officials of THE TRIBUNE A. A. will conduct the bouts. In this list are the timers. Each bout will be three rounds, and each round will last two minutes. The list of timers who will work at the sectionals and also at the Tournament of Champions follows:

William Finn, William J. Dowling, S. R. Darwent, J. J. Lipp, W. W. Adams, Herman Henning, Harry Normoyle, Charles Sidebotham, Theodore A. Gross, Walter Sonnenleiter, and Harry O'Hare.

CORNELL DENIES HIRING GRANGE AS FOOTBALL COACH

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Reports that Harold [Red] Grange, former University of Illinois backfield star, had been selected as head football coach at Cornell university to succeed Gil Dobie, resigned, were denied today by James Lynah, athletic director of the university. Lynah said that applications for the post recently vacated by the veteran Dobie are being received, but that no definite selection has been made, nor will be until about March 1. Lynah himself will make the final choice, which must then be approved by the board of athletic control.

NEWS TO GRANGE, TOO.

Harold [Red] Grange yesterday said that he has applied for the job of head coach at Cornell, but said that he has received no acknowledgment of the application yet.

Little Does Bit of Famous Concentrating

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The young man frowned. It was the same intent crease above the eyes which had sighted and brought down four consecutive major golf championships these last few years, not peering at some unholy lie, but instead bent on a few sheets of typewritten copy, done by his own hand. Having wrestled out a decision over this, the young man smiled.

This was not the William Lawson Little Jr. who took himself a double-spread color job in the book of golf by winning the British and American amateur titles of 1934 and 1935. The frown indicated the sincerity of an athlete-journalist who writes his own pieces, by no special arrangement with any scrivening wraiths. The smile was the genuinely happy one of a bridegroom-to-be, a smile cousin to those on the features of a million other potential Benedicks.

It's a Tough Job.

The aforementioned copy embodied an essay on winter training for golfers which the husky 25 year old San Franciscan is preparing for publication in a national magazine. Little's interest in his writing is almost equal to the concentrated discipline he applies to his golf, and the fairways have not for many a day seen such strict attention to one man's golf as Lawson pays to his. What is more, writing does not come easy to the four time champion in the sense that it is a constant, fluid torrent of ideas and words. He treats it as he would a difficult course or opponent, with a conscientious diligence that spells a job well done when it is finished.

Little arrived here on Jan. 31 for his marriage to Miss Dorothy Hurd, which will take place Saturday at the home of Miss Hurd's mother, Mrs. Robert Maxon of 2608 Lakeview avenue. The newlyweds will honeymoon at Belleair, Fla.

Goodman to Be Best Man.

Little will not be the only golfing principal in the ceremony, for his best man will be none other than Johnny Goodman, the little Omaha blond who won the 1933 national open title and has been Lawson's close friend and partner in Walker cup competition.

Whether Little's magnificent string of 31 match victories is at an end remains to be seen. Lawson has not yet decided whether he will go abroad in the spring to defend his British crown. In the event that he does not, however, he will probably compete in the national open at Baltusrol in June, and then come back to put his American title on the starter's table at Garden City in September.

Names Strong Contenders.

Asked who he thought were the best amateur bets for the 1936 campaign, the champion took time out to rib himself for being a prophet without honor in his own mind.

"I said that Willie Hunter would be knocked out of the first round of the San Francisco match play open recently," he said. "All Willie did was to stay in and win the tournament, and then showed me what kind of a forecaster I really was by taking the next big show out there, the Catalina open."

The champion's idea of his most unusual experience in golf is another insight into his talent for concentration. It happened at Prestwick during the 1934 British amateur, when he overslept on the morning of the title match. Jack Westland roused him in time for a few practice shots. While a thousand other golfers in the same spot would have been running relay races with themselves through the night, Little was soundly sleeping. That match is now history, for he won it and the title by a record score of 14 and 13.

FASHIONS FOR MEN ONLY

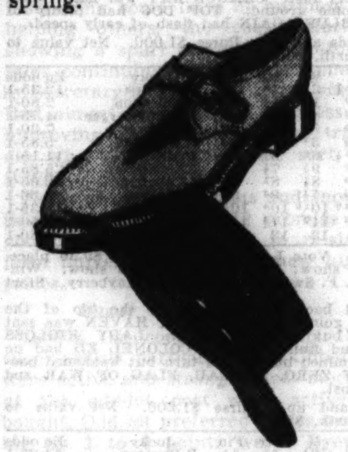
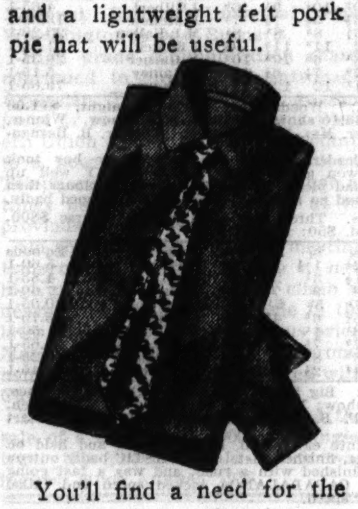
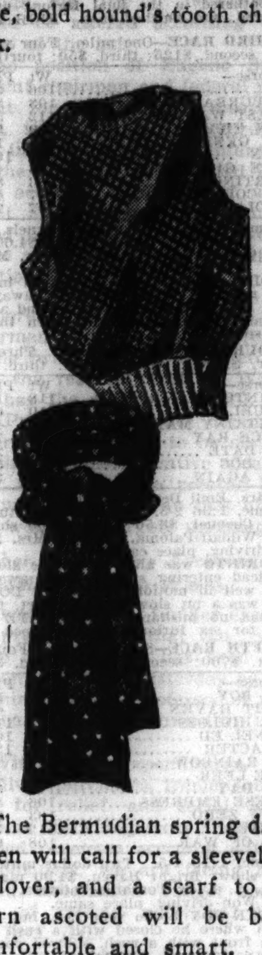
AIR conditioning, presented in the guise of man made weather, is as advertised. We're extremely thankful for well warmed winter quarters, comfortable enough under the conditions, but hardly comparable to the tropical sun. And science's contribution to summer comfort by means of artificial refrigeration is highly efficient. It eliminates no end of lost time in discussing the humidity. But no one has reproduced spring artificially, and so nature comes through with Bermuda. If time presses, you may, if you wish, obtain a homeopathic dose of spring by a long, week-end cruise. Or you may enjoy a lengthier stay with the promise of a full measure of late spring.



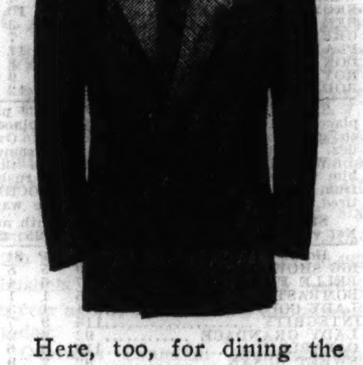
Brown reverse calf, monk-front shoes will be correct, and a lightweight felt pork pie hat will be useful.



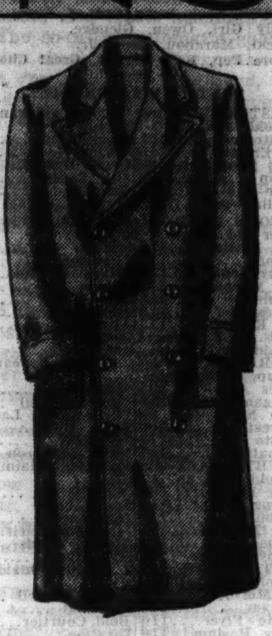
You'll find a need for the new, darker toned, collar attached shirt. The one we've shown has a widespread collar and the tie is the fashionable, bold hound's tooth check silk.



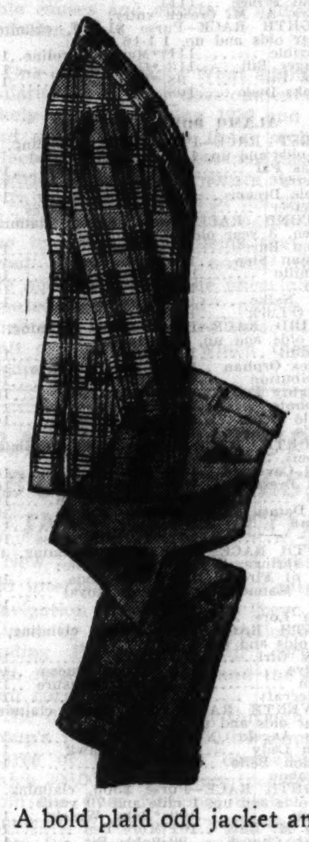
The Bermudian spring days often will call for a sleeveless pullover, and a scarf to be worn ascoted will be both comfortable and smart.



Here, too, for dining the dinner jacket is important. A double breasted, peak lapel model is indicated. Other currently fashionable tuxedo models are correct as well.



The camel's hair coat is indispensable not only for the boat ride coming and going, but for many of the spring evenings as well.



A bold plaid odd jacket and gray flannel slacks are currently fashionable for day wear in Bermuda.

SPRING STYLES FOR MEN SHOW NEW FEATURES

Color Still Is Keynote in Masculine Garb.

BY HARRISON HOWARD.

Advance reviews of spring styles for men indicate a number of changes and new features which bid fair to make the new season inspirational from a sartorial standpoint.

Some time since, this department had the opportunity of inspecting the spring lines [then in work] of several big manufacturers of clothing as well as of haberdashery and accessories. The keynote of the new styles in each instance again is color. In all probability, if you follow style news closely, the subject of color is by this time a bit tiresome; nevertheless it is everywhere in men's spring apparel.

In suits, business, as well as sports and country wear, in top coats, in hose, in shirts, and in ties, it is in increasing evidence which is the more significant in view of the color peaks already attained.

In fact, there are those on the firing line of fashion who predict for informal summer evening wear, dinner coats of blue, gray, canary, beige, green, orange, and other light hues to be worn with midnight blue trousers and accompanied by colorful pleated dinner shirts for use at home only with colored evening pumps, emerald, ruby and sapphire accessories and other seemingly radical trends. This forecast, whatever it may be worth, has its foundation, of course, in the current styles at southern resorts where similar but modified effects have been seen all winter.

Use Color Judiciously.

To the more conservative, such prognostications might be somewhat alarming were it not for the fact that most of us, through instinct or experience, can be depended upon to use color judiciously.

"Be loud in dress," if we are to interpret color that way, may be a proper slogan for the well dressed man and bespeak correct styling for spring, but only as it befits environment, purpose and individual requirements.

Because unusual color is in vogue, it still applies principally to sports and country wear, and there is no excuse for wearing it indiscriminately and discordantly.

As was to be expected, there are an influential few already rebelling against the strong tide of color, and we find, according to authentic reports, a small group of English tailors and fashion-wise followers advocating and appearing in the extreme opposite—black suits — particularly for town wear. The movement is not expected to be marked for a while at least. Undoubtedly it will be several seasons before the pendulum swings away from color here, where manufacturers and retailers have prepared otherwise.

In the meantime there are certain other things to look for in standard wear. The coat you wear to business should have square, masculine, but not exaggerated shoulders. It should have a slim clinging waist. It will be slightly longer for men of tall stature and have sleeves that taper noticeably to the wrist. Vents or a plain back is largely a matter of choice.

Two Popular Models.

Popular will be a two button, single breasted model with slightly peaked lapels and a more conservative three button model with notched lapels and a shorter, quicker roll. Just as many of us have become reconciled to the extra fold of cloth in the breast of the coat—a style devised by English tailors several years ago in their never ending search to combine comfort with style—we find the "comfort wrinkle" moving to the armpits, leaving the chest again more tailored to the body.

CORINTO TAKES HIALEAH FEATURE WITH COEQUEL 2D

Denemark's Horse Adds to Stable's Earnings.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Corinto, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark, today brought home another feature victory for the Chicago horsewoman when it won the mile grade A handicap which headed the program at Hialeah Park.

The race proved to be a showdown on the luck of Denemark owned entries and that of gray horses, who have dominated the meeting thus far. Representing the gray elements was the mare Coequel from the Maemere farm, which took the place money, three-quarters of a length back of Corinto. Third went to the Mulvihill's Mountainy Man. Corinto was coupled with Top Dog in the betting and was at even money. The winner's time for the eight furlongs was 1:36 3-5.

Gray Horses Get Going.

The Denemark stable has scored a number of triumphs in featured purses here, but until today it had not encountered any serious opposition from the gray horses which have been drawing the attention of the betters.

These included, in addition to Coequel, which won its last start, such as Steel Cutter, which broke the mile track record here; Hogan's Fox, Buster Boy, Scotch Gold, and Silver Fleece.

Coequel Threatens.

The Denemark entry today ran a smartly judged race, Top Dog following in close pursuit of Coequel after the latter had broken in front and passing the Maemere entry as they entered the back stretch.

Corinto jumped into third place at the far turn, and took the lead heading into the stretch. From there, however, he had to be driven hard, since Coequel was coming strong at the finish under a vigorous ride by Eddie Litzenberger.

GRAND NATIONAL WEIGHTS SATISFY 8 U. S. OWNERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Weights assigned for the Grand National steeplechase to be run at Aintree, near Liverpool, on March 27 were satisfactory to the owners of eight American horses, according to an announcement today. The eight included John Hay Whitney's Double Crossed, Rod and Gun, and Royal Ransom; G. H. [Pete] Bostwick's Castle Irwell; J. B. Snow's Delangie and Delachance; J. Metcalf's Kiltoi, and Alvin Untermeyer's Bagatelle II.

Out of the field of 54 entries only two owners refused to accept the weight imposts assigned to them. They were Capt. C. Cartwright's Ready Cash and Mrs. H. V. McKim's Cahihciveen.

CANDIDATES FOR $100,000 HANDICAP TAKE WORKOUTS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Five of the leading candidates for the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap to be run on Feb. 22 took mile workouts today, with Head Play, Mrs. Silas B. Mason's hope, going it in 1:41 2-5. Discovery, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's pre-race favorite, was slow with a time of 2:00 1-5, while his old rival, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, ran it in 1:52 3-5. Fred M. Alger Jr.'s winner of last year's handicap, Azucar, traveled the mile in 1:40 1-5, and A. A. Baroni's Top Row was timed in 1:39 3-5.

GOLD OUTFLOW IS HALTED AS DOLLAR RALLIES

Franc Sinks Below Export Point.

The outflow of gold from this country halted yesterday as announcement of President Roosevelt's plan to cancel a billion dollars of unused lending authorizations put a temporary quietus on inflation talk. The dollar gained strength against most of the leading foreign currencies.

The French franc closed at 6.69¼ cents against 6.69½ cents Tuesday, or slightly below the gold export point. The British pound dipped from $5.02⅜ to $5.01¾.

In addition to the stilling of inflation reports the gold movement was discouraged by the lack of shipping facilities available in the next few days. With so slim a margin of profit as has existed in the movement thus far only fast ships can be utilized to carry the gold.

$15,643,000 Gold Shipped.

Most of the gold engaged in the first two days of the week left New York yesterday. The shipments for the movement thus far total $15,643,000 of which $14,179,000 consigned to France left today and $1,464,000 for Holland was to leave tonight.

Bankers expect the outward movement of gold to continue spasmodically for a little while longer, the duration and size of the flow being dependent largely upon developments in Washington bearing upon the currency situation.

Silver prices declined slightly in the London and Montreal markets, but the quotation on foreign bar silver in New York was unchanged at 44¾ cents an ounce. In London bar silver fell 5-16 of a penny to 19 7-16 pence an ounce, equivalent to approximately 43.84 cents. Dealings in forward silver were made in the London market for the first time since Dec. 10 when the United States treasury withdrew from that market. The price was 19 5-16 pence.

DESIRED LOSS OF GOLD.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The treasury was concerned over the large imports of gold which had been coming into the United States and would be glad to see some of it going back to the foreign countries because the government had a great abundance of gold for all credit purposes, George C. Haas, director of the bureau of research and statistics of the department, testified before a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee last December. His testimony, together with that of other witnesses, was released by the committee today.

Publication of the viewpoint of Haas and his story of studies which had been made to determine what should be done and probable future developments came as the movement of gold out of the United States was checked.

Silver Program Fails.

The report of the committee hearings held in connection with the treasury department appropriation bill also contained testimony by Secretary Morgenthau and Acting Director of the Budget Daniel W. Bell to the effect that as of Dec. 11 little progress had been made under the silver purchase act of 1934 in bringing the monetary value of silver to one-fourth of the monetary value of the country's gold and silver holdings.

A statement showed that as of that date silver held by the treasury and contained in outstanding coins was 1,452,000,000 ounces with a monetary value of $1,874,000,000, while the gold stocks had increased to a monetary value of $10,068,000,000. To reach the objective desired by congress, based upon the then monetary value of gold and silver, it was stated that 1,149,000,000 ounces would have to be acquired, and that if the silver could be purchased at 60 cents an ounce the cost would be about $689,000,000.

Morgenthau said that as of Dec. 2 total deliveries of silver purchased under the silver purchase act amounted to 622,075,562.08 ounces at a cost of $375,624,003, or an average of slightly under 60 cents an ounce.

Gold Production Large.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Gold production in the Rocky mountain region in January—valued at $4,478,476—reached the highest monthly mark in many years, Mark A. Skinner, superintendent of the Denver mint, said today.

Salary of H. A. Scandrett Set at $36,000 by Court

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday set annual compensation for the three trustees of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway as follows: H. A. Scandrett, trustee and president, $36,000; Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, $15,000, and George I. Haight, an attorney, $15,000. He set the compensation of O. W. Dynes, attorney for the trustees, at $18,000 annually. The Milwaukee road is seeking to reorganize under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act.

FORD IS CONFIDENT BUSINESS RECOVERY WILL BE CONTINUED

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Henry Ford today expressed confidence that business will continue to improve and that the government will not create new obstacles to hinder it.

"We are getting bravely over the theory of high prices and scarcity, the fallacy that making fewer things and selling them for more money creates prosperity," he said. This, he indicated, may be regarded as a maxim for business in general and not particularly in reference to governmental attempts to raise prices and restrict production.

"Only when things are produced in quantity at the lowest cost and of the best quality and sold at the narrowest margin of profit, can there be hope for real prosperity. Things come first and then money and the immediate future will be determined more by productive management than by either finance or government."

He stressed his philosophy of coupling higher wages with lower prices in order to produce a prosperity that can be enjoyed by all. He found in his own business that high wages yield increased production and larger buying power distributed among his workers.

"Profits," he said, "are not financial, they are social. Everybody profits from industry. Politicians don't understand profits because they can pay bills out of taxation."

TIMKEN DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND OF 25C A SHARE

The Timken Roller Bearing company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents on the common stock.

International Power company voted a dividend of $1.50 on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Dividend arrears at the end of 1935 totaled 26¾ per cent.

Swan-Finch Oil corporation declared two dividends aggregating 87½ cents a share on the preferred stock on account of arrears.

Atlas Powder company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common stock.

The Globe American Stove corporation of Kokomo and Macomb, Ill., announced a dividend of $10.50 per share of preferred stock outstanding. Mark A. Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was elected president of the corporation, and W. Dow Harvey, Kokomo, was named chairman.

Noblitt-Sparks Profits Rise to $3.71 per Share

Noblitt-Sparks Industries, Inc., manufacturers of automobile parts, yesterday announced a net profit of $557,864, or $3.71 a share, in the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, the largest for any previous year except 1929. This compares with a profit of $302,711 or $2.02 a share in 1934. Net sales increased from $5,369,681 in 1934 to $7,760,535 last year, said Q. G. Noblitt, president.

Bond Men's Club to Hear Jouett Shouse Tonight

Jouett Shouse, prominent Democrat and president of the American Liberty league, will be the principal speaker at the silver jubilee dinner of the Bond Men's club of Chicago tonight in the Blackstone hotel. He will discuss "Shall We Plow Under the Supreme Court?"

New Dealers Assailed as Destroyers

The American economic system can function only under the protection of the fundamental principles of American government, which the Roosevelt administration is attempting to throw into the discard, S. Wells Utley, president of the Detroit Steel Casting company, told a large group of Chicago business men last night at the annual meeting of the Employers' Association of Chicago at the Palmer house.

The Detroit manufacturer charged that the New Deal has restricted the liberties of the individual, hampered economic development by persecuting the business man, and would substitute for free democratic government an autocracy which had its origination in Asia.

What New Deal Asserts.

"Under the present administration," he said, "the doctrin has been promulgated that American principles have been a failure. They tell us that we have produced too much and that we must destroy wealth so we can be poor again. They tell us that the way to get out of our trouble is to hamper and handicap the business man. They tell us that the average person is incompetent and incapable of managing his own life and must be regulated by government.

"If you search all history you will not find where a responsible government has set out deliberately to set class against class, and if carried to its conclusion this doctrin can result only in civil war. In this the New Deal is new."

Costs Burden on Public.

The rising cost of government already has imposed an unbearable burden on the American public, he asserted. The cost of all government in the United States in 1935, he said, was as large as the total bill for food, clothing, rent, and medical care for all of the population in the same period. The federal pay roll in March, 1933, required pay checks for 2,159,000 persons, while in December, 1935, 9,047,000 drew checks, he said.

The distribution of wealth doctrin he termed "political bunk," and presented figures showing that if all incomes over $5,000 were confiscated and distributed in 1934 there would be only $23 for each person in the country.

"If people on the dole gave up what they are getting from the government," he said, "and took this wealth distribution they would have enough to live on for about two weeks."

21 Railroads Report 8 Pct. Upturn in Trafic

Lake Water Level Decline Is Less than Seasonal

Water levels of Lakes Michigan and Huron in January were .05 foot lower than in December, the United States lake survey reported yesterday. Since 1900 the January level has averaged .11 foot lower than in December. The levels of the two lakes in January were .33 foot above the January stage in 1935.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE STOCKS' VALUE HIGHEST SINCE APRIL 1, 1931

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange increased $3,218,965,497 during January to a total of $50,164,547,052, the exchange announced today. This was the highest level shown by the monthly compilation since April 1, 1931.

The value of listed shares reached its lowest level in the figures as of July 1, 1932, at $15,633,479,577. The Sept. 1, 1929, peak was $89,668,276,854. A month ago the value was $46,945,581,555 and a year ago $32,991,035,000.

Collateral borrowings by members as of Jan. 31 amounted to $924,704,335, a decrease of $13,737,317 compared with the Dec. 31 total of $938,441,652.

JANUARY GAIN IN BUSINESS SET 10% ABOVE 1935

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—A "rough" estimate that the nation's January business ran 10 per cent above that of a year ago was made today by Assistant Secretary of Commerce Ernest G. Draper.

Draper offered this analysis at a press conference in endorsing a statement in the department's "survey of current business" that 1935 was a year of gradual and substantial improvement.

"The figures," Draper said, "are bearing out everything that was said about the improvement in business."

December employment gains "were one of a series of monthly increases which were a feature of 1935," the survey said, but added: "Despite the widespread increase in the number at work the volume of unemployment in January was still very large."

DIVIDEND TOTAL FOR FEBRUARY IS ABOVE YEAR AGO

A total of approximately $368,498,000 will be distributed this month to American investors in the form of dividends and interest payments, according to a compilation by the New York Journal of Commerce. In February last year similiar disbursements were estimated at $363,322,000.

The total amount to be distributed in interest payments is less than a year ago because of the extensive refunding of bonds at lower coupon rates, retirement of some issues, and defaults on some railroad bonds. The total for the month is placed at $229,000,000 as compared with $257,000,000 a year ago.

Dividend payments are running substantially ahead of last year with the month's total estimated at $139,498,000 against $117,077,000.

Legality of Reciprocal Tarif to Be Argued Mar. 16

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Argument on the constitutionality of the reciprocal tarif act of 1934 has been set for March 16 in the Customs court here, it was learned today. The test of the act's validity is in an action brought by the Florida Agricultural Tarif association, through its president, George S. Fletcher of Miami. One contention is that the low tarif on fruit imported from Cuba brings the foreign market into unfair competition with domestic growers.

LATE SELLING CUTS FURTHER STOCK UPTURNS

Close Mixed; Coals, Sugars Prominent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Considerable selling came into the stock market today despite President Roosevelt's implied promise to cut down government spending. Most of the liquidation was believed to be profit-taking by traders unwilling to chance a further extension of the forward movement without some measure of technical adjustment which so many "authorities" seem to think is due.

However, there were enough brilliant performances by individual issues and appearances of group strength here and there to bolster the hopes of the bullish contingent and keep the "averages" on an even keel. Turnover was nearly 3 million shares.

Trade News Favorable.

In addition to the outlook for applying the brakes on New Deal spending, the market found a little encouragment in the midweek trade statistics, the leading railroads reporting a 7 per cent rise in freight loadings, electrical power production showing a fresh upturn, and the steel reviews noting an increase in railroad orders and a firmer tone in the scrap market.

The extremely cold weather, while hampering some lines of business is helping others, the coal industry showing a spurt and heavy clothing sales continuing brisk. A statement by Secretary Morgenthau to the effect that almost every line of business is improving was on the hook for traders who set store by that sort of thing.

News of extensive rains and snows in the farm areas giving promise of good crops was a factor in raising farm implement shares to new high prices.

Sugar Group Strong.

Beside the coal stock group, the sugar shares, particularly the Cubans, were active and strong. Most stocks at the odd-lot post were actively bought. Odd lot preferred issues moving up 1 to 6 points were: Byers, Cuban American, Fuller second and Fuller prior, General Steel, Market Street Railway, National Department, National Supply, Universal Pipe, Worthington A and Burns B.

High grade communication shares continued to enjoy good patronage, American Telephone rising another point or so to a new high and Western Union climbing a couple of points to a new price peak. International Telephone was fractionally higher at times but ended the session at its previous closing level.

On the eve of its dividend meeting tomorrow, Chrysler rose to a new high price since 1929 with a climb of nearly 2 points only to recede in the later trading below its previous price. Mack and White trucks were prominent, but General Motors sagged with Chrysler.

The stock exchange announced the sale of a seat at $173,000, unchanged from the previous sale which was highest since August, 1933.

Schaller Is Slated to Remain Head of Reserve Bank Here

BY HOWARD WOOD.

George J. Schaller, present governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, is expected to be elected president of that institution when the March 1 reorganization of reserve banks authorized by the banking act of 1935 occurs.

EUGENE M. STEVENS.

Schaller, former Storm Lake, Ia., banker, would thus remain chief executive officer of the nation's second largest reserve bank, although his title would be altered according to the terms of the act.

The position of Eugene Stevens, present chairman and federal reserve agent for the Chicago reserve district, is less certain, according to well informed sources of information. In the shakeup necessitated by the 1935 act the positions of reserve agent and chairman may be segregated in which Stevens is expected to be reappointed to one of the two positions.

◆

There is a possibility that a new chairman may be selected from one of the two vacancies in directorships that the reserve board at Washington has the authority to fill. Howard Preston, now chief deputy governor, is understood to be slated for appointment as executive vice president, a new position created by the act, which would mean that his position would be largely unchanged.

Further Inflationary Excesses Probable, Professor Warns.

A warning that "further excesses" are probable now that the "vicious circle of inflation" has been set in motion was given yesterday by James Washington Bell, professor of money and banking at Northwestern university.

"With bonus expenditures, wasteful silver purchases, tremendous outlays for relief and social welfare projects absorbing more than the increased revenues accruing with better business, we are facing a continued unbalanced budget and the need of raising additional funds," said Prof. Bell.

"As higher taxes become unpopular and the open market for government bonds becomes strained, this increased pressure of raising funds may lead to unsound methods of financing. If not in the form of greenbacks, some artificially forced bank credit expansion may be resorted to in order to finance these expenditures.

"Devaluation bookkeeping gives the appearance of safe and sound financing, while at the bottom an unsound and unwholesome credit inflation actually exists. This is what economists fear. Historical experiences all point to further excesses when once the vicious circle of inflation comes into motion."

The chief significance of devaluation, he said, lies in the impending dangers of mismanagement of the monetary and credit machinery.

"The so-called automatic gold conversion check on credit expansion has been removed," he continued, "and the artificially enlarged reserve base may now be used, with ostensibly the same degree of safety, to support 150 billions of credit, compared to the 60 billions maximum which financed the 1929 boom."

The problem, said Prof. Bell, lies not in the consequences of devaluation to date, but in what effect it may have in the future. He emphasized the artificial expansion of bank deposits resulting from the rising federal debt as well as the actual 40 per cent debasement of the dollar as tremendously inflationary.

Uncertain Dollar Outlook Worries Business Men.

How the uncertain outlook for the dollar is hampering business concerns in their attempts to plan their operations for the year is illustrated by a letter that is being sent out by a large Chicago manufacturing concern to various individuals requesting information about inflation.

"The officials of this company," the letter states, "now have before them for consideration business policies for the remainder of 1936 which would be seriously affected by further inflation. The writer has been requested to compile a consensus of opinion from authoritative sources as to the probable causes and effects of additional inflation."

◆

One question is: "What additional inflationary acts or developments are likely to occur during 1936 and 1937 and what would be their probable effect upon prices of commodities, industrial wages and corporate stocks?"

This letter is typical of the worries of business men who, in addition to the troublesome problems that confront them even in normal times, are now faced with the uncertainties created by "managed" money and doubts as to the future value of the unit of currency in which they do business.

CANADA DOUBLES WHEAT EXPORTS TO THIS COUNTRY

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Exports of wheat from Canada to the United States in the first half of the 1935-'36 crop year, the six months ended Jan. 31, totaled 27,312,220 bushels, compared with 13,810,488 bushels in the corresponding period a year ago, it was officially announced today.

Overseas Canadian clearances in the same period totaled 69,973,402 bushels, compared with 66,362,299 in the first six months of the 1934-'35 crop year. Weekly shipments recently have been running double those of a year ago.

BANKING GROUP BUYS INTEREST IN LEHIGH COAL

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A substantial interest in the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company has been obtained by a financial syndicate including Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Atlas corporation, and the Lehman corporation.

The deal was effected through the group's purchase of 250,000 common shares of the Lehigh company, of which 200,000 shares were transferred from the Case National bank. The syndicate, it was said, made the purchase for investment and no future plans have been discussed. The Lehigh company is a large holder of public utility and other securities.

RAIL DEMAND BOOSTS STEEL OUTPUT TO 52%

6½ Pt. Upturn Here Largest of Week.

Railroads placed sufficiently heavy steel orders to boost the national mill rate 1⅛ points to 52 per cent of production capacity last week, the highest level in 1936, the magazine Iron Age announced yesterday. Chicago led the upturn with a gain of 6½ points to 59 per cent, as the largest orders for rails and car repair steel have been given to local mills.

Only two other major producing areas showed gains last week, the Wheeling and Ohio river districts. Cleveland declined 2 points to 64 per cent and Buffalo the same amount to 28 per cent. Other sections were unchanged.

The importance of railroad buying since the first of the year is shown in the total of 214,500 tons of rail orders placed during January, with at least 75,000 tons still pending, principally in the Chicago district.

Chicago Bookings Heavy.

Chicago rail producers are booked through May 15, the journal says, and Birmingham has a backlog of 70,000 tons. Last week the Chicago and North Western ordered 35,000 tons of rails, bringing its recent purchases to 51,000 tons. The Atlantic Coast Line has placed 6,000 tons and the New York Central is expected to close orders soon on 38,000 tons.

Railroad car steel has been even a more important outlet than rails and accessories. The Pennsylvania has ordered more than 100,000 tons of plates, shapes, bars, and sheets since the beginning of the year for freight car construction. Other large projects under way or to be begun soon will take an even larger tonnage.

While railroads have been coming to the front in steel buying, the automobile industry has been gradually easing into the background.

Other Lines Picking Up.

Other lines, however, are picking up. Refrigerator makers have helped Cleveland mills by placing orders in anticipation of a heavy spring demand. Implement makers continue to step up production.

Construction work has been delayed by weather but orders for structural steel and reinforcing bars are being placed in fair volume, the journal reports.

Scrap prices have advanced in most centers because dealers have been unable to make shipments from ice bound yards. This is particularly true at Chicago where a boost in heavy melting steel raised the magazine's scrap composite 9 cents to $13.67 a gross ton.

The composite price of finished steel declined from 2.130 cents a pound to 2.109 cents because of lower pipe quotations, but the pig iron composite remained at $18.84 a ton.

How changing a will increased an estate

One of our customers recently increased by $33,000 the amount his children will eventually receive by changing his will so that his widow will inherit the entire income from his estate (of $200,000) instead of the principal.

Under the new will his widow will have the entire income so long as she lives and part of the principal if needed, the balance going to their children at her death.

It is possible that we may be able to suggest changes in your will that will prove of corresponding benefit to your heirs. We shall be pleased to discuss this with you and your attorney at any time.

COLD, INDUSTRY GAINS INCREASE POWER OUTPUT

National Total Reaches New Seasonal Peak.

Cold weather and improved industrial use of electricity last week raised the national production of electric power contraseasonally to another all-time seasonal peak, according to figures released yesterday by the Edison Electric institute. Chicago output was near the record high for any week.

The national total of 1,962,827,000 kilowatt hours was 0.4 per cent above the 1,955,507,000 of the preceding week and 11.4 per cent above the corresponding week of 1935, when the total was 1,762,671,000. The total last week was the second highest for 1936, coming next to that for the week ended Jan. 11.

Chicago Output Higher.

In the Chicago area total production was 121,319,000 kilowatt hours, the Commonwealth Edison company reported. This compared with 120,906,000 in the preceding week and 109,281,000 in the corresponding week of last year.

Due to the continued cold weather there was a contra-seasonal rise which lifted the total to within 1.5 per cent of the all-time weekly record established in December, 1929. Output in kilowatt hours and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district were, last three ciphers omitted:

| Week ended | 1936. | 1935. | % inc. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Feb. 1 | 121,319 | 109,281 | 11.0 |
| Jan. 25 | 120,906 | 112,542 | 7.4 |
| Jan. 18 | 117,290 | 110,864 | 5.8 |
| Jan. 11 | 118,193 | 109,007 | 8.4 |

Rockies Lead Area Gains.

The highest percentage gain in the seven major geographic regions was in the Rocky mountain states. For the week ended Feb. 1 the gain there as compared with the same week last year was 28 per cent.

In the New England district the gain was 7.4 per cent for last week and 5.7 per cent for the week ended Jan. 25; in the middle Atlantic they were 8.4 and 7.5; central industrial region, 10.5 and 8.3; west central, 11.9 and 11.7; southern states, 12.3 and 12.3, and Pacific coast region, 16.1 and 12.2.

OIL MEN MEET HERE TO EVOLVE VOLUNTARY CODE

Solution Is Sought for Internal Disorders.

Several hundred leaders in the petroleum industry met at the Palmer house yesterday to discuss a voluntary code of fair practice under which the industry might function without the disorders from which it suffered in previous years.

Designated as the industrial code conference, the meeting was called to order by I. A. O'Shaughnessy, president of the Globe Oil and Refining company, Chicago, and chairman of the independent refiners' committee. Those attending included representatives of both the major and independent companies and included dealers, jobbers and refiners.

Strive for Fair Code.

It was hoped the discussions would lead to the working out of a voluntary code which would permit operations fair to everybody in the petroleum industry and at the same time have the sanction of the federal trade commission. Any recommendations arrived at will have to be submitted to the commission.

Yesterday's efforts were largely directed at establishing a method by which the meeting could proceed in view of the many divergent interests represented.

In recent months independent oil dealers have charged that the national companies, operating in all branches of the industry, had been operating their marketing branches on a nonprofit basis, and so making it impossible for the independents to continue in business.

Says Balance is Needed.

"We must be cognizant of the fact that the market cylinder of the petroleum industry engine has been 'missing' for some time," O'Shaughnessy said in the opening session, "and that we are confronted with the necessity of securing and maintaining a balance in all branches of the industry. We as oil men must realize that an equitable relation between crude values and the prices of derivative products must be maintained.

"In our opinion, a noncontroversial, universally acceptable code of ethical marketing practices, administered by regional and state committees with equitable representation of all divisions of the marketing branch, is the foundation stone on which to build an adequate and economic marketing structure."

P. J. Schroeder of the Petroleum Service company, Minneapolis, Minn., was elected chairman of the conference and Wilmer R. Schuh, president of the National Association of Petroleum Retailers, was named secretary.

LOCAL INTERESTS RESUME CONTROL OF DRAKE HOTEL

Metropolitan Reinstates 3½ Million Mortgage.

BY AL CHASE.

Under an agreement with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company the Drake hotel, beginning today, again will be owned by local interests. The Drake Management company, wholly owned by the National Realty and Investment company, of which Edwin L. Brashears is president, is now owner of the hotel, as a result of the Metropolitan yesterday reinstating the $3,480,000 mortgage against the property.

It is understood that a petition will be filed with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson by the insurance company today asking that foreclosure proceedings be dismissed and that the receiver, Charles K. Williamson, be removed.

Operating at Profit.

According to Brashears, who, with Benjamin H. Marshall, will continue in the active management of the hotel, the Drake is out of the red for the first time in several years. Business is almost at capacity, he said, and the hotel is earning enough to pay interest on the reinstated $3,480,000 mortgage.

The hotel originally was financed with a $5,000,000 S. W. Straus & Co. bond issue which was paid down to $4,000,000. In 1926 the Metropolitan Life made a $4,000,000 mortgage at 5½ per cent against the property and the bond issue was canceled.

Mortgage Reduced.

This mortgage was paid down to $3,480,000 but when interest was defaulted Metropolitan filed foreclosure suit in April of 1933. It is understood that in reinstating the mortgage the interest rate was reduced to 5 per cent.

The National Realty and Investment company is owned by Marshall & Brashears. Marshall is chairman of the board and Brashears is president and treasurer. It also is operating the Blackstone hotel under a lease agreement with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, owner of the property.

Both the Drake and the Blackstone hotels were designed by Marshall & Fox, of which Benjamin Marshall was then a member. The Drake has 786 rooms.

New Deal Plans Low Cost Housing Based on Cheap Loans

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Advisors studying the housing problem for President Roosevelt decided today to recommend a nation-wide, low-cost program based on cheap federal loans to local communities.

Their decision, climaxing months of study, will be presented soon to the White House in the expectation that enabling legislation would be sought at this session of congress.

If finally approved, the program will mark the formulation of the first definite New Deal policy toward providing homes for persons in low income groups, as well as further stimulating business recovery.

Three Planks in Program.

As described by authoritative sources, the new undertaking would contemplate:

1. A long-range building program.
2. Interest rates perhaps as low as 1 per cent on federal loans.
3. Construction of facilities for as many as one million families.

The new program was disclosed only a day after President Roosevelt had taken inventory and announced that as much as $1,000,000,000 in authorized funds for the Home Owners Loan corporation could be erased. The move to cancel this authorization was viewed in some housing quarters as the first concrete indication that the administration plans to limit its direct lending activities in the mortgage field and shift more of the responsibility to local communities.

Interest Rate Virtual Subsidy.

Under the new program, interest rates on money advanced by the government would be so low as to constitute a subsidy encouraging housing projects by local communities.

Full control of management and condemnation proceedings would be lodged with local officials under the plan, the aim being to decentralize activities from Washington. The President's experts were described as feeling the local communities are better able to judge their own problems.

The plan was evolved in conferences of heads of various New Deal agencies concerned with housing, such as the Federal Housing administration, Home Owners' Loan corporation, Reconstruction Finance corporation, Public Works administration, and the Electric Farm and Home authority.

SUBMIT PAYMENT DEMAND OF RFC IN BANK STOCK SUIT

Over the objections of opposing attorneys, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday allowed O. J. Rogge and Harold Rosenwald, attorneys for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to introduce into the evidence formal demands made by the RFC on July 17, 1934, to the Central Republic Trust company for the return of outstanding RFC loans then totaling $57,907,383.

The RFC is suing stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company, liquidating organization of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company, for double stock liability.

The demand was for the repayment of $7,907,383 representing the unpaid balance of a $30,000,000 loan made the bank on June 29, 1932, and for the entire $50,000,000 loan dated Oct. 6, 1932. Both loans were due Dec. 24, 1934.

Judge Wilkerson also permitted the RFC attorneys to introduce into the records the minutes of the stockholders' meeting of the Central Republic, held on Nov. 19, 1932, at which all the acts of the board of directors, including the RFC transactions, were approved.

According to the minutes it was disclosed that approximately 100,000 shares of the 140,000 shares outstanding were represented at the meeting either in person or by proxy. Six different resolutions were adopted, the vote on each resolution being 98,271 for ratification and 200 against.

LARD 17½ TO 22½ CENTS LOWER ON HEDGING SALES

Hedging sales of lard yesterday more than offset the strength in hogs and grain, and resulted in a rather sharp decline in futures, the close being at net losses of 17½ to 22½ cents. Aggregate trade was only fair, with commission houses scattered buyers on the decline. Some of these purchases were regarded as for investment purposes. Clear bellies [salt pork] were nominally unchanged.

Cash lard closed at $11.05 and loose at $10.45, showing a decline of 22½ cents compared with Tuesday. Leaf lard was $10.62 and clear bellies $14.75 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

U. S. MUNITION SALES $4,217,814 IN MONTH; CHINA BIGGEST BUYER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—With China their largest customers, American munitions dealers did a $4,000,000 export business in January—the heaviest since the government instituted an arms export licensing system.

State department statistics disclosed today that the strife-torn Asiatic republic spent $3,055,395 chiefly for American fighting planes, bombs, and machine guns during the first month of 1936. This was nearly three-fourths of all sales of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to foreign countries in that period.

Today's report showed that the state department issued licenses for total exports of $4,217,814 in January compared with $708,882 for December, 1935, and $1,333,156 for the period from Oct. 10 to Nov. 30 when the licensing system first became operative.

Argentina, second largest purchaser bought munitions equipment valued at $382,935 in January, the bulk of which also was spent for military aircraft. Czechoslovakia, third largest, spent $161,000 entirely for aircraft not classified as "military."

MANIERRE BUYS INTERESTS IN LOOP PROPERTY

Benjamin Manierre yesterday purchased interests of Barbara D. M. Hardison and Jeannette L. M. Shawcross, of Norfolk, Va., in the 19.33 feet by 80.25 feet area at 120-22 North Dearborn street. Each possessed an undivided one-eighteenth interest; and a one-third interest from the estate of William R. Manierre. The price for the fractional interests was $44,000, indicating a total value of $99,000 for the property. This is at the rate of $5,121.57 per front foot, and $63.82 per square foot. The 1934 assessed valuation was $104,411.

Manierre owns the 38.67 feet immediately south of the property just acquired, the entire holding being improved by a four story building under lease to Al Carder for restaurant purposes. The property is in the charge of Dibble & Manierre, who negotiated yesterday's sale.

HOG PRICES SET SIX YEAR PEAK FOR FEBRUARY

Soaring Market for Pork Main Influence.

Hog prices soared to the highest February levels in six years here yesterday. The top price reached $10.85, the highest February mark since 1930. A year ago yesterday packers paid $10.35 for top grades, but this included the $2.25 processing tax in effect at that time.

Available supplies of fresh pork have been reduced below the current needs of the trade by the inability of farmers to get to market with their swine this week, resulting in a sharp rise in wholesale pork markets. Loins in Chicago advanced 50 cents to $1.50, with top cuts rising to $20, compared with $18 at the opening of the week.

Supplies Fall Off.

Eleven leading markets received only 134,000 hogs the first three days of this week, 56,000 head fewer than a week ago. These points yesterday handled 32,000 head, compared with 60,000 the preceding Wednesday. Only 5,000 arrived at Chicago, practically none by truck, compared with 15,844 Wednesday last week.

Smaller local interests were the liveliest bidders, buying stock weighing 225 pounds or below at the full 15 to 25 cents advance in prices.

Large buyers refused to follow the rise on hogs that furnish the bigger cuts for curing, causing a later relapse for anything weighing over 250 pounds. These closed steady to 10 cents higher, heaviest stock showing the least improvement. The composite price average for the session was 15 cents higher at $10.55.

Other Meats Dull.

Other meats continued to drag which retarded buying in cattle and sheep despite substantially reduced receipts. Only about half of the expected 9,000 sheep and lambs arrived as many were rerouted and sent into feeding stations along the line because of the weather.

However, buyers clamped down on prices and obtained the meager run at steady to 25 cents lower rates. Packers bought at $10.75 down.

Cattle buyers preferred the cheaper grades of stock, anything that would hold live costs down getting the first bids. Some of the lower priced offerings were steady to strong, but most grades of steers were weak to 25 cents lower, except those selling under $8. The clearance was unsatisfactory. Farmers would not risk shipping highly finished beeves in such weather and the best available sold at $11.60.

U. S. ASKS COURT TO DROP RAIL TAX INJUNCTION PLEA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Arguing that taxes imposed on railroads and their employés in a separate law were not part of the railroad retirement system, the government today asked the Supreme court of the District of Columbia to dismiss an injunction suit of 135 "Class 1" railroads.

The railroads charge unconstitutionality of both the retirement and tax acts, laws passed after the Supreme court had scrapped a combined bill of previous enactment.

Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, told the court today that the railroad tax is constitutional and its constitutionality cannot be challenged by the railroads. He referred to the section barring injunctions to stop the collections of federal taxes. This section was used by the administration in its recent contention that the Supreme court had reversed itself in deciding the Louisiana rice millers' case with regard to AAA taxes.

RFC'S HOLDINGS IN COOK COUNTY BANKS DISCLOSED

Total Is $66,985,416; Tax 2.5 Millions.

A list of the $66,985,416 preferred stock holdings of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Chicago and Cook county banks which are subject to personal property taxes under the Supreme court decision handed down last Monday was obtained yesterday in Washington.

Following are the banks and the amount of stock held by the government agency:

American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, $750,000; Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, $49,999,666; District National bank of Chicago, $100,000; First National Bank of Chicago, $15,000,000; Lawndale National bank, $350,000; Milwaukee Avenue National bank, $50,000; National Builders' bank of Chicago, $250,000; Citizens' National bank of Chicago Heights, $50,000; First National Bank of Cicero, $150,000; First National Bank of Desplaines, $35,750; First National Bank of Dolton, $25,000; First National Bank and Trust company of Evanston, $150,000; La Grange National bank, $50,000; First National Bank of Lemont, $25,000.

In valuing the stock for tax purposes, 40 per cent is deducted from the full value and 37 per cent of the balance is taken as assessed valuation. County Assessor John S. Clark estimates that approximately $2,500,000 will be collected for the years 1934 and 1935. The tax rate is estimated at $7.50 per $100 of assessed valuation.

HULL, LINDSAY DISCUSS WORLD TRADE OUTLOOK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—World trade conditions and methods by which international economic recovery may best be promoted were discussed in a conference today between Secretary Hull and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador.

The discussions, it was said, did not touch upon currency stabilization but were concerned with trade and restrictive practices which hamper its flow in international commerce.

Secretary Hull said the conversation today was general in character, that neither side presented any proposals, but that there would be further discussions. Whether they will lead to an agreement to enter into formal negotiations for the conclusion of a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Great Britain cannot be determined until they have progressed much farther.

ARGENTINE CORN SURPLUS SET AT 78,062,800 BUSHELS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 5.—The ministry of agriculture announced today that Argentina's exportable surplus of corn yesterday was 78,062,800 bushels. The statement was issued to refute market estimates that the country still had between 157,000,000 and 177,000,000 bushels on hand. The ministry expects that the existing stocks will be exported before the new crop comes on the market.

The corn crop now nearing maturity occupies the largest acreage in Argentina history, according to the government's first official forecast. The ministry of agriculture estimates the corn plantings at 18,846,000 acres or 1,485,000 acres more than was sown last year.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods were moderately active at firm prices today. Finished goods moved in better amounts.

Wool blanket lines were opened by some producers at prices unchanged from those of last year, and rayon yarn producers were reported to have sold about half of their March output since opening of March books Feb. 1. Raw silk was off 2c per lb, bringing the week's decline to 7c, and burlap was lower and quiet.

WHEAT PRICES RISE ON FEARS OF CROP DAMAGE

Many Areas Lack Needed Snow Covering.

Fears of damage to the new winter wheat crop as the result of continued sub-zero temperatures and disclosure that a considerable part of the southwest is without adequate snow protection brought in sufficient buying yesterday to lift July and September wheat futures nearly a cent a bushel above Tuesday's finish.

Reports from scattered Illinois points also expressed fears the crop was being damaged. The government's weekly crop summary for Kansas said temperatures ranged well below normal over the entire state last week and damaged winter wheat and barley. Most of the damage, it was believed, occurred in north central and western counties.

Kansas, Oklahoma Lack Protection.

A government report Monday indicated there was little or no protection for the wheat crop over Kansas and Oklahoma and in the lower portion of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. Moisture is still badly needed in western Kansas.

Kansas City wheat futures led the advance, with the new crop deliveries gaining on the May contract. Winnipeg and Minneapolis gained fractionally while Liverpool reacted after advancing early.

Cash brokers were persistent buyers of May wheat in small lots, which was thought to reflect scattered sales of flour, which has been of a hand to mouth character. So far this year Chicago handlers have sold about 1,400,000 bushels of cash wheat to mills, largely soft red winter varieties, part of which has been shipped into the St. Louis area.

Closing Prices Compared.

Closing prices here yesterday on May deliveries of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

| | Yesterday. | Tuesday. | Wk. ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat ......... | $ .99⅞ | $ .99½ | $ .99⅛ |
| Corn ......... | .60⅞ | .60⅝ | .59⅝ |
| Oats ......... | .28⅞ | .28⅝ | .28⅛ |
| Rye ......... | .58⅛ | .57⅝ | .56⅛ |

Buying by cash houses, support from local operators based on light receipts, strength in the cash market and reports of heavy feeding in the country due to cold weather, lifted corn futures fractionally. The country took advantage of the upturn to sell 108,000 bushels for deferred shipment, the largest day's business recently.

Rye again showed a distinctly firm undertone and gained a major fraction, although shipping demand was less active than recently.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Bonds advanced on a broad front today under the leadership of secondary railroad liens and obligations of the United States government. Volume fell slightly, trading amounting to $18,613,000, par value, compared with $19,862,000 yesterday.

Advances in the federal list amounted to as much as a quarter point while improvement in the corporate division extended to two points.

Inflation Fears Passing.

The demand for governments was attributed to a lessening of inflation fears abroad, which was further evidenced by the decline of foreign currencies against the dollar. A favorable batch of reports on domestic business aided higher grade corporate issues.

Home Loan 2¾s staged an advance of 9-32ds point to 99.31 while the 3s of 1952 gained 7-32ds to 101.6. Treasury issues rose from three to eight thirty-seconds with most of the active issues showing the larger gain.

Utility Group Recovers.

Utility division weakness proved short lived and the list recovered with most members of the group closing unchanged or slightly higher.

Outstanding firm spots in the corporate section included Hudson Coal 5s, International Paper 5s, Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis 4s, Norfolk Southern 5s, Illinois Central refunding 4s, Atlantic Coast Line 4s, and New Haven 6s.

In the foreign division Poland 6s gained 3 points to 80. Belgium 6s recovered 1¼ to 103, and German 7s—the Dawes Loan—dropped 1⅝ to 37⅛. Italians finished slightly lower.

Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information on Real Silk common stock, as I have been advised to buy it.—B. M. C.

Answer: Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., manufactures men's and women's silk and silk and wool hosiery. Plants are in Indianapolis, Ind. Distribution is effected mainly through 10,000 agents who sell the products by house to house canvass. The company has about 200 branch sales offices.

In 1934 the company had to contend with strikes and higher operating costs which prevented it from operating profitably. In the first half of 1935 net income was $110,000, or 21 cents per common share, against loss of $413,000 for the first half of 1934.

Loss for all of 1934 was $351,000. In 1933 net income was $175,000, or 16 cents per common share, against $97,000, or just $4.50 per preferred share, for 1932. The company lost $325,000 in 1931.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including cash of $443,000, were $1,958,000 and current liabilities, including $18,000 notes payable to banks, were $951,000. There was outstanding about $700,000 of miscellaneous long term debt. Stock equity consists of 20,950 shares of 7 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 178,044 shares of $10 par common.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since April, 1931. In view of the profit and loss deficit of $1,093,000 at the close of 1934 early resumption of dividends does not appear likely.

Both the preferred and common are quite speculative.

Brokerage Practice.

Investors' Guide: I ordered a broker to purchase 33 shares of stock for me at the market. It is listed on the New York Curb. He charged me 22¼ plus commission and postage. Quotations on the stock in the paper for that day showed a high of 22⅛ and a close of 22. Is it customary for brokers to charge an amount extra in addition to their commission? I am ignorant of the ins and outs of stock buying and do not wish to fall out with the broker unless he is chiseling on me. The amount of the overcharge is only $4, but I hate to be a sucker.
—T. K. P.

Answer: You were probably not overcharged. The unit of trading on the New York Curb exchange is 100 shares [a "round lot"]. Where less than a hundred shares are bought or sold ["odd lots"] a premium of an eighth of a point, or a quarter of a point on some stocks that are inactive is charged.

VAGUE FARM RELIEF PLANS CAUSE A BREAK IN COTTON

Cotton was under pressure yesterday as the result of weakness in Liverpool and commission house selling, induced by uncertainty on the government's farm relief legislation and the method to be followed in selling cotton obtained through the loan program.

Prices at the bottom were off nearly 20 points a pound [a point being equal to 1-100 cent]. The May delivery in Chicago sold as low as 10.75 cents a pound, or within about ¼ cent of the lowest level of the season. Closing trades here were at net losses of 12 to 17 points a pound and other markets were off 13 to 18 points.

Spot cotton declined 15 points a pound and closed with New Orleans at 11.35 cents; Houston, 11.05 cents; Galveston, 11 cents, and New York at 11.45 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

'MOP' OFFICIAL EXPLAINS PLAN TO REORGANIZE

Big Reduction in Fixed Charges Predicted.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—More than 100 exhibits detailing intricacies of the Van Sweringen plan for reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railroad were introduced today at an interstate commerce commission hearing.

William Wyer, secretary and treasurer of the railroad, estimated the "MOP" system would have about $10,000,000 available for interest during 1936. He said this prediction was based on "trusteeship conditions." Another estimate will be offered, Wyer said, based on "normal operations" with the system not in trusteeship.

Fixed Charge Management.

Fixed charges under the reorganization plan are set at $7,700,000. Under the present set-up these charges are figured at $23,000,000 a year.

The net total investments of the proposed consolidated "MOP" system, which would embrace 31 companies now operating as separate corporate entities, was set in one of Wyer's exhibits at $687,941,106. Of this, $575,057,421 would be accounted for by the present Missouri Pacific railroad, around which the new consolidated system would be built.

Differ on Stock Values.

At one point, Wyer offered a table estimating the value of certain new common stock proposed in the reorganization plan at $119.07 a share. This figure was listed as "estimated I. C. C. value for each share of new common stock," exclusive of certain shares which Wyer designated.

O. E. Sweet, finance director of the I. C. C., questioned Wyer as to this figure, asserting the commission had made no estimate of the stock's value.

Wyer explained the estimate was arived at through I. C. C. methods of computing values.

FOREMAN TRUST RECEIVER ASKS TO WIND UP AFFAIRS

Charles H. Albers, receiver for the trusts of the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank, whose assets and liabilities were transferred to the First Union Trust and Savings bank June 8, 1931, yesterday filed suit with the Circuit court to wind up the affairs of the bank. There are 870 defendants, beneficiaries of the trusts.

The bill asks that the court appoint successor trustees for 292 trusts, amounting to $1,000,000, which are still unsettled, and that Albers be discharged after approving his accounts.

Included in the trusts is one established to secure a bond issue of $11,000,000 by Edith Rockefeller McCormick in 1923, and which has been disposed of except for a balance of $3,802, which has been disputed by the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor of her estate, and other claimants.
